So the thing stands there. They will join the Reds next spring. Rhodes, who was loaned to Rourke by the St. Louis Nationals, has gone back to that club. HOLMES GIVES CLUB A BONUS

Both Teams Knew Sloux City Players Were Offered Reward.

Manager Holmes divided $500 among his players as an expression of his appreciation for their winning the Western league pennant. Holmes told his men that if they would beat Omaha in those last five games and bring the flag to Sloux City he would give them this bonus. The fact became known to the Omaha players before the series was completed. President Rourke, being a believer in the doctrine that a team should require no bonus to play out the season's schedule and play its best, made no such offer to his men.
