The old school building in Alliance has the best parking and flower ticket, each receiving 28 votes in the garden before its doors that I have seen in the state; not as extensive a display of trees as Omaha, Lincoln and some other towns, but the best parking and flower ticket, each receiving 28 votes in the district. 'At Hyannis, Hemingford and similar small towns prosperity and progress are evident to the most casual observer. And it is little wonder, for cattle, from canprices. All the cattlemen are kicking for is a little better treatment from the railroads in the handling of cattle, but that is bound to come through negotiation.

"Potatoes bringing 40 to 50 cents delivered on track count up into money right fast; and they raise lots of the finest kind of tubers up in that country. When the producers become alive to the need of organization for handling and selling the crop they will do even better than they are now.

"Pasture has been excellent in the state is entirely satisfactory. It will represent a big wad of money this year in Nebraska. But, aside from pasture, alfalfa is getting a strangle hold on heretofore waste land in western Nebraska, and the investigator can find corn fields and grain fields that are quite satisfactory as crop exhibits, and that will pay decidedly good interest to their owners. Land has not jumped or boomed in value, but it has had a very healthy progress upward in price. There is an increasing dearth of scrup stock, and throughout western Nebraska you will ernment supervision, with resulting good convention to all concerned. You ber Savage, Wilber. hear no whining about hard times, but you do hear continual kicking about the scarcity of labor, both in town and country. Idle men honestly seeking work cannot remain idle up in that section.

"Crawford has great expectations from the proposed enlargement of Fort Robinson, which seem well based. And it has two stores that cannot be surpassed in Omaha or Lincoln. One of them is a meat market and grocery, built on a scientific plan, that is not excelled by anything know of.

Novel Damage Suit. A novel damage suit is the case filed this morning by Eleana Straw in which she seeks to recover from a saloonkeeper and his bondsmen because she alleges that the sale of liquor to her divorced husband incapacitated him from working or making money to pay the alimony decreed her for the support of herself and her children. She seeks to recover $5,000, the full amount of the saloonkeeper's bond, to repay her
