to make quick jumps about the country. Walter Fitzgerald was jailer of Boyle county and he and Tom Helm, then chief of police went after Rousey. Months passed and the people had forgotten that such a man as Rousey existed. More than a year after Rousey's escape he was arrested in a small town in southern California. He was brought back and when the court of appeals affirmed his case he was brought to the penitentiary here.

During the year that passed after his escape, Helm was on the trail of Rousey and twice was within two hours of him, reaching a town only that length of time after Rousey had gone. The chase was from Illinois to Southern Arkansas and back four times ad then across Texas and New Mexico into California.

During that time Rousey never had positive information that anybody was after him. He received warnings in some mysterious way. He says something told him Tom Helm was after him and would come to the town in which he happened to be at that time. As soon as this feeling came over him, without questioning it, Rousey would leave. On the day before he was arrested, Rousey said, he was sitting by the railroad track in the yard where he was employed. He said the old feeling which said to him plainly: "Tom Helm is coming after you," came over him. He said he went at once to the foreman of the yards and asked for his pay and also for a pass to Canada. This was on Thursday. The foreman persuaded him to wait until Saturday and work the week out. The failure to obey the warning caused Rousey to be caught just at the edge of what would have been safety, and he went to the penitentiary, where he has made a good record.

Whether it was instinct, or what, that gave him the warnings when he was a fugitive nobody knows, least of all Rousey. He undoubtedly had warning of some sort and he led the officers a merry chase and a long chase by reason of this--Louisville Courier-Journal.

FEW DRONES IN THE HIVE

Productive Ability of the Bee Family a Sweet Moral to Follow About.

Wealth, rated for convenience in terms of money with gold as its basis, deceives the careless student. It dulls the perspective and causes him to put a false value on other things customarily neglected, but relatively large contributors to the wealth of the nation. When we read that Colorado produced $5,000,000 in gold last year it is impressive enough to cause a fleeting thought of the boundless wealth that is stored within its hills and rocks.

Once or more a year the American hen is placed on the shrine and worshiped as the source of more wealth than all the mines. But it is very lately that it was discovered that the busy but neglected bee produces $5,000,000 for the farmers of the country. The same investigation disclosed that with a little attention the bee could be made to triple his support.

Even as it is, the honey crop is worth more than the rice and buckwheat crops combined. It is earned without plowing, sowing or reaping. The labor employed is negligible; the soil requires no fertilization and machinery is dispensed with. The bee is of some consequence--St. Louis Republic.

MAN WITH THE SIXTH SENSE

Career of Kentucky Criminal Who Can Scout Danger from Afar.

The man with the sixth sense who knows from intuition that he is being chased, is to be released from the Kentucky penitentiary on parole. His name is William Rousey and he is serving a sentence of 21 years, having been convicted in Boyle county of manslaughter for the shooting of one, Martin. The killing was a neighborhood feud and both men were using revolvers when the fatal shot was fired. Rousey comes of a noted family. His grandfather had seven sons. Of the seven only one met a natural death, the others being sent into eternity by bullet or knife wounds. All of the seven are dead, Micajah Rousey, having been killed at Junction City by the marshal, Will Rousey is a nephew of Micajah Rousey. He has another cousin in the prison here who was convicted of killing an old man named Kiser in the courthouse at Danville.

After Will Rousey had been convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary he appealed his case to the court of appeals. While this appeal was pending, he broke jail at Danville, sawing the bars in two and getting away. The man who escaped with him was captured, but Rousey seemed to have been swallowed up. He was a member of the Railway Trainmen's union and carried a card which would pass him on any railroad to the country. In this way he was enabled
