Dullness Reigns, with Long Stuff Continually Coming In.

HEAVY RECEIPTS ARE BEARISH

Downward Tendency on Cash and Options Are Easily Sold . Lower-Liverpool Closes Strong,

МАНА. Sept. II. 19:8. Grash markets were dull and sluggish from the start, with long starf coming on he market communically.

Liverpool cloud strong, but heavy resipts have a decidedly bearish effect on ash market and the options were easily sold lower.

cash the correct and the options were easily sold lower.

Wheat was weak and slumped with pressure of selling, and me support. Stock increases and heavy receipts became a feature for a bear movement and values were forced lower. December wheat opened at 36 c and closed at 344c.

Corp weakened after a steady opening, due to a run of selling on large recepts. Weather prospects are ideal for making late corn and bearish sentiment is strong. Cash demand was lower. December corn opened at 50 c and closed at 55 c.

Primary: wheat reveipts were 191,000 bushels and shipments were 325,000 bushels, against receipts last year of 1,446,000 bushels and shipments of 1,061,000 bushels and shipments of 1,061,000 bushels and shipments were 355,000 bushels of corn, none of outs and wheat and flour equal to 756,000 bushels.

A similar process of revision of earlier views of the business revival finds its place as an influence on the reactionary tone of the securities market.

Talk regarding the copper trade, as it was heard in the neighborhood of the Stock exchange today, was not hopeful. Another marking down on prices of copper at the metal exchanges and of copper in the London market gave a point to the talk. There were reports of efforts to sell copper by consumers who had become overstocked. Officials of steel companies showed something like impatience over reports of large resumptions by steel mills in immediate prospects, and took pains to assert the moderate rate of the improvement. The effect of these staements on the stock market was seen in the disinclination of buyers of follow prices on any considerable recovery, he downward plungesdee exhrdin eccuminff. The feeling of uneasiness gathered force, and the downward plunge of the day was SILVER—Bar

Closing quotations on New York bonds NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Active selling of stocks and acute weakness carried up to the very close of last week, it was a matter of course that outside selling orders should be in considerable volume when operations began on the Stock exchange today. From the standpoint of speculative sentiment alone, very pessimistic views of the outlook for values went out in weekly market teviews and letters from commission houses to clients.

The active speculative position was on the selling side of the market. The passive the selling side of the selling side sell Penn ev Jig. 1915.

rarded in good shape and in good season in the morning.
Conditions generally were against the selling interests in the first place, the market at this point was very high last week as compared with Chicago so far as feeders were concerned, and it was to be expected that huyers would be rather bearish in their views for that reason, if for no other. Unfortunately, there were other reasons for buyers taking the bear side. Prominent among these was the fact that continued dry weather has made buyers less anxious for feeding sheep and lambs than they would otherwise have been. A general rain over the corn belt of twenty-four hours duration would have been of very great help to the market in the way of increasing the demand. This being a Monday morning, feeder buyers were, as usual, a little late in getting to the yards, which also contributed to the duliness of the trade. Thus it happened that a good share of the forenon was taken up in sorting up and shaping up the sheep and lambs, so that it was well along toward midday before buyers and sellers got down to business.

When the trade was once under way all before buyers and sellers got down to business.

When the trade was once under way all kinds, both sheep and lambs, and killers as well as feeders, sold at prices that senerally looked bedset lower than last week. The trade was at no time very active even at the decline, buyers being in no hurry to fill orders, while sellers, on the other hand, were backward about accepting bids that were so much lower. Still, even at the decline the market was by no means in bad shape, as prices at this point last week were generally too high as compared with other selling points, and there was a good deal of justice in buyers claim that they were entitled to a good, big concession. Owing to the large run and the late start, it was very late in the day before the bulk of the receipts had chansed hands.
