CROPS

In the BIG LARAMIE RIVER VALLEY the crops include every variety produced in the humid areas, besides those which can only be cultivated by means of irrigation. WHEAT is grown with marvelous results in many varieties, the average yield being 50 to 70 bushels to the acre. OATS and FLAX are the best crops to grow the first year after breaking the soil land; oats yield from 80 to 125 bushels per acre. BARLEY in the BIG LARAMIE RIVER VALLEY is famous for yield and quality. The average yield per acre is 80 to 140 bushels. SUGAR BEETS, one of the great money-making crops of the West, yield from 20 to 25 tons per acre. RUCKWHEAT produces well and matures quickly.

ALFALFA is one of the most profitable crops, its large yield and number of cuttings making it invaluable. It cuts from 5 to 6 tons per acre annually. POTATOES form one of the most important and valuable farm crops and yield from 100 to 200 bushels per acre. A failure has never been known. FIELD PEAS are highly profitable because of the market value of the crop and their great fertilizing properties. There is a grand opportunity for making money in the raising of this product. NATIVE HAY cuts 2 to 3 tons per acre and sells for $8.00 to $12.00 per ton. TURNIPS grow more pounds of food to the acre than any other crop and are rapidly becoming available as food for stock. All kinds of vegetables and many kinds of fruit grow luxuriantly and yield profitable returns.

CROSBY SUES FOR THE PLACE

Begins Suit to Secure Coroner Nomination by Mandamus.

BREWER OPPOSES HIS CLAIMS

Defense Holds Absence of Election Officers' Signatures Makes It Impossible to Identify the Ballots.

Hearing of the mandamus suit, to compel the primary canvassing board to give the republican nomination for coroner to Willis C. Crosby instead of George H. Brewer was begun before Judge Kennedy Tuesday morning in the absence of Judge Estelle from the city. The entire forenoon was occupied by the opening argument of Byron G. Burbank for Mr. Crosby. He was followed by A. H. Murdoch for Brewer and a decision is not looked for before Wednesday.

Crosby contends that three ballots found in the ballot boxes marked for him but without the name of a Judge or clerk of election on them should be counted for him. As Brewer's majority on the recount by the canvassing was only two the counting of these three ballots would give Crosby a majority of one.

FALLS OUT OF WAGON DEAD

Martin Kalcak, Gardener of South Omaha Comes to Instant Death.

Martin Kalcak was stricken with heart disease and died in his light wagon Tuesday morning at Thirteenth and G streets, almost in front of the German home, South Omaha. He was seen to struggle for breath and then to tumble out of the rig to the ground. He was taken by the residents to a private house and Dr. A. H. Koenig was called. He was dead when the doctor arrived and the doctor thought the man was probably dead at the moment of his fall. One of his shoulders was dislocated, but otherwise the injury caused by striking the ground was slight.

Martin Kalcak had a small place on the Fort Crook boulevard and was engaged in market gardening. He was driving to Omaha with a load of potatoes and other garden produce when he was stricken.

mat vines and tender flowers are knocked out of business. Killing frosts prevailed throughout the upper Missouri valley during the night and light to heavy frosts throughout the lake region. Heavy rains are reported in the east, with light rains in the Ohio valley.

HALLOWE'EN LEAF PARTY

Details for a Novel Entertainment in the Gay, Golden October.

A pretty way to entertain in the gay and golden weather of October is to vary the usual Halloween frolic by blending it with a leaf party. says The Housekeeper for October. The hostess has now opportunity, above all others, for beautiful and elaborate decorations and at small expense, for nothing is prettier for decorative purposes than natural foliage and the woods at this season are showing their richest coloring. Golden browns, russets and scarlet leaves and here and there a touch of verdant green that Jack Frost has a few days to gather the various colored leaves and form trailing chains and garlands of these which wind about the balustrades and above the doors and windows. A hay window may be transformed into a shady bower by having a generous supply of vines, leaves and noised plants artfully arranged and a dash of yellow suggestive of Halloween may be employed by using yellow flowers. In this nook, cover the floor with leaves for a leafy carpet which will swish and rustle as the guests walk in and out. An artistic setting could be given the feast by covering the table with a cloth apparently of leaves. A piece of green tulle or gauze the foundation upon which have leaves thickly sewn, overlapping each other and radiating from the center in all directions. A single stitch in the center of each leaf will be sufficient to hold it in place so the making is not at all difficult. Fruit is ever an attractive centerpiece for the dining table. A large bowl or dish lined with leaves, around the base of which vines are twined intermingled with gay yellow flowers will be suitable to hold clusters of different hued grapes, pineapples, pears and apples.

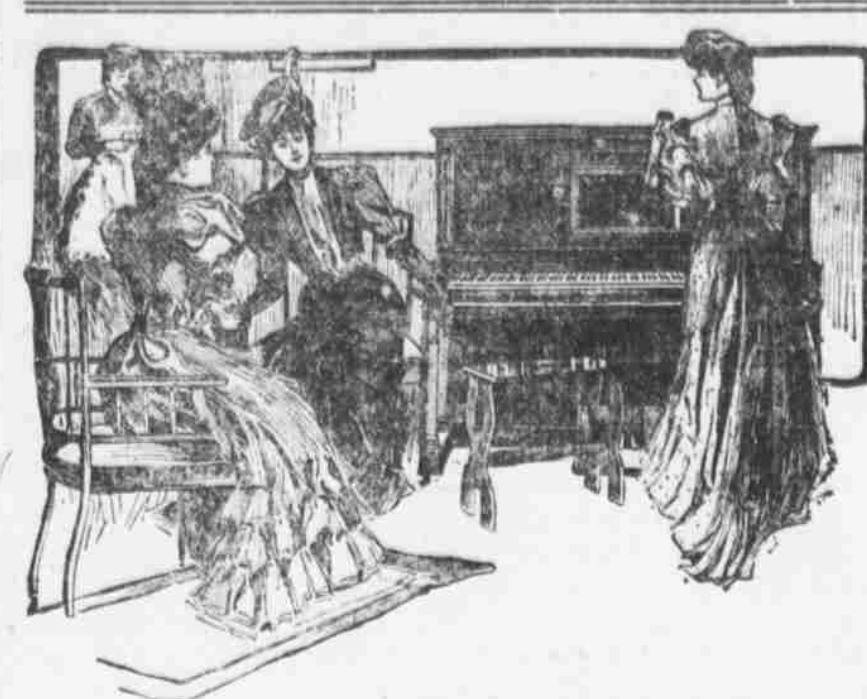

Serve the salad in a nest of lettuce leaves and have the ice of platechop frozen in leaf shape. Cakes cleverly shaped as little leaves would be unique and pleasing. Line the nut bowls and buncheon dishes with leaves and serve sweet cider with a sprig of mint in each glass. Pumpkins and black cats always suggest the night of October thirty-first. There are pumpkins to be had large enough for a child to curl up in and others so small that they can be put in a tea cup. For the latter scooped out as candle shades. Black cats may be shown on the guest cards with little stuffed velvet ones are well chosen for favors. Of course, the time honored Halloween games must not be forgotten; these interspersed with a leaf contest would prove an enjoyable way to amuse the guests. For this contest there should be in readiness a large basket of leaves tied with bright ribbon, containing as many kinds of leaves as possible, no two being alike. Distribute cards and pencils among the guests, then pass the leaves around one by one while each person writes on their card, opposite the number corresponding to that attached to the leaf, what kind he thinks it is. When all have been examined the hostess reads her numbered list aloud. The contestants correct their own lists. The prize may be a picture of a forest, and a palm leaf fan tied with a bow of yellow ribbon will make a good booty prize.
