AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Man in City Jail Thought to Be a Long-Sought Fugitive.

MURDER CHARGE AGAINST HIM

Memphis Authorities Communicated With for More Complete Description, and Meantime Accused Will Be Held.

John Markel, a prisoner in the South Omaha jail since Wednesday, is suspected of being a man who escaped from his keepers eight years ago and who has since been a fugitive from justice. He was put through a searching process yesterday by the chief of police and intimated that he had a story to tell but did not admit his connection with the case for which he is suspected. The story of that case is that he killed a police officer in Memphis and escaped from jail before being transferred to the state penitentiary. The man was never recaptured. The South Omaha police have the description of the man and a photographic likeness which is strikingly near the present appearance. The South Omaha authorities are conferring with the Memphis officials to see if the man is still wanted and to get a better description.

One Arrest at Taff Meeting.

The South Omaha police arrested one man last night at the Taff rally for disorderly conduct. He was in the crowd, and while in a state of thorough intoxication insisted in trying to out-talk the speaker. Captain J. C. Trouton placed him under arrest and the noise from his corner of the crowd ceased. At the jail he refused to give his name and was booked under the name of John Doe. No other disturbance called for the action of the police, although the whole department was dispersed through the crowd.

Prisoners' Drinks Cut Off

John Kempnich was arrested yesterday morning for trying to smuggle whisky into the city jail. He came to the jail and asked to see a friend named Joe Kovale. Both are Austrians. He asked permission to leave his coat with his friend, who complained of being cold. The officer in charge discovered the whisky and at once placed the man under arrest. He was given a lecture by Police Judge Callahan, but was allowed to go, as he was a recent immigrant and pleaded ignorance of the regulations of the jail.

Close Call for Bad Wreck

A wreck occurred in the Burlington yards Wednesday night which came near being fatal to the train crew. The switch engine working in the upper yards was derailed at Thirty-sixth and I street, near the Omaha Co-operative company's building. The derailment occurred on a culvert and the engine pitched over the grade and hung suspended by the coupling with a heavy string of freight cars behind. This was called the most remarkable accident and this suspension alone saved a drop of thirty feet or more. The engineer and fireman jumped off before receiving any injury. The steam is said to have scalded the engineer's arm slightly. The tracks were blocked for several hours. If the train had been under headway the results must have been serious.

To Brighten Mahogany.

Most housewives are troubled with a cast or cloud that collects on oak or mahogany furniture and woodwork. This cast will disappear quickly if wiped with a good-sized chamoin skin wrung almost dry in water.

It will also polish the furniture and the dust does not seem to collect so readily after using.

OLD CHUMS MEET IN OMAHA

John L. Sinnott of Newark and Rev. P. J. McCarthy Have Reunion.

A pleasant incident of the gathering in Omaha of representative officers of the cities of the country was the meeting of John L. Sinnott of Newark, N. J., and Rev. P. J. McCarthy, dean of St. Patrick's church, Jackson, Neb. Mr. Sinnott and Father McCarthy are natives of Newark and were chums and schoolmates way back before the war, and had not met each other for forty years. Their paths diverged about 1888, when the young McCarthy began his studies for the priesthood, and later choosing Nebraska as the field of his life's labor. Mr. Sinnott stuck to his birthplace and became a prosperous insurance broker and politician. When chosen to represent Newark in the convention of the League of American Municipalities, memories of his old schoolmate were revived and knowing him to be in this vicinity determined to locate him. Father McCarthy happened to be in the city, paying his respects to King Ak-Sar-Ben. He was quickly located by Mr. Sinnott, and both clasped hands with the affection and ardor of renewed youth.

Such memories as these old boys recalled—memories treasured by all five elders—they exchanged before a group of sympathetic friends, who laughed as they laughed over adventures and experiences, fights, games, swimming matches and thrilling contests in the base ball field.

Mr. Sinnott is president of the Newark City Council, and his associate delegate Dr. J. C. Froelich, a member of the city council.

TARVIA FOR DODGE STREET

Repairs to Six Thousand Feet of Paving West of Fifty-Second Is Ordered.

With Bruning and Ure voting against it, the county board yesterday afternoon decided to repair 6,000 feet of Dodge street west of Fifty-second. Bruning and Ure both opposed the resolution, asserting it would cripple the road fund and that the work could be done cheaper by the county under the direction of the county engineer. The contract was let to E. D. Val, at a cost of 45 cents a yard for cleaning the pavement and applying tarvia and $1.50 a ton for the stone used. Ure declared the county could do the work for 45 per cent of this price, but the other members declared the county was not equipped to do the work properly.

The county comptroller presented a report, showing the road fund contains an available balance of $2,508, but Mr. Kennard, who fought for the resolution, said this would be increased $2,000 by accumulations and $500 by the fact the actual cost of grading would be lower than the estimated cost. He held there would be sufficient money in the fund to do the work.

The board in order to help provide funds, passed a resolution providing the cost of grading Military avenue be taken from the permanent road fund instead of the regular fund. This will amount to about $1,900.

DUCHESS AT BERKELEY LODGE

Spent the Summer with Her Boys at House on Kingsgate Cliff.

The duchess of Marlborough has taken to the garden of England, and once again the Kentish air has approved its virtues. The duchess and her boys spent a long season this year at a house on the cliff at Kingsgate, where there is nothing but ozone between one and Norway. And now, it is affirmed, she has taken Berkeley Lodge or Blakely, as it is known in those parts—by Dunkirk and the Blean woods. Berkeley stands on the highest land in the county, and not content with that, its owners have built themselves a towering observatory, from which altitude one can survey the county as far as Pegwell Bay on one side and well into Essex on the other. Berkeley belongs to Mrs. Barnes, one of a notable local family. This has been the first time in its history that it has been occupied by a duchess and a future duke.

TRUTHS ABOUT THE SCHOOLS

Superintendent Maxwell of New York Gives a Few Pointers on Conditions.

Superintendent William H. Maxwell of the New York City schools is a valiant fighter for the rights of neglected children, says the October Housekeeper. Where you see good things in New York schools you see Dr. Maxwell's kindly hand. The recreation centers and roof playgrounds in New York are the result of Dr. Maxwell's untiring and determined effort. Humane provisions for the physical needs of the children in his continual earnest endeavor. But the political controllers are busy feathering their own nests; they must be well housed and well clothed and well fed; and what is left? Thousands of ill-nourished, ill-clad children come daily to the schools. The question of free lunches still hangs to the balance. Spasmodic experiments are tried by philanthropic organizations and abandoned. An overwhelming majority of the children are suffering from adenoid growths, defective sight or hearing and neglected teeth. Medical inspection discovers these things. It is true, but this provision for following up these cases is utterly inadequate. The school of all others in New York that needs a well equipped gymnasium and cheerful outlook is the most gloomy and unhygienic school that I have ever seen in my life—famous 130, for so-called incorrigible boys, where, as one of the teachers expressed it, "the human riff-raff of the tough neighborhood is sent."

These boys are not allowed to leave the school building at noon. If they want lunch (2) they must bring it with them. Curious thing that these boys may have some pride—most curious that even these little wretched ones may have some feeling about eating before school-mates the pitifully meager fare that is the best they can bring from home—and so rather go without. Only until 2 o'clock, it is true; but these are not well breakfasted boys. Many have been up all night. Hunger and confinement for five hours a day for lawless boys doesn't seem like giving them a fair start, does it?

To Preserve Patent Leather. If you want your patent leather shoes to look really nice, clean them with French harness polish, which you can buy at any saddler's or harnessmaker's. Rub it on thinly, then polish with a soft, woolly cloth. Besides making the shoes shine beautifully, this prevents the leather from cracking.
