Y. M. C. A. OPENS UNIVERSITY

Will Begin Elaborate Course of Study on Monday Night.

Work of such extensive scope that it rivals a full-fledged university will be inaugurated at the Young Men's Christian association Monday evening. Members of all the score or more classes of the educational department will assemble in the auditorium to hear the year's program outlined by the instructors and brief remarks by F. L. Haller of the Lullinger Implement company and other business men of equal prominence.

At the same time the first young men's gymnasium class of the year will begin swinging dumbbells and practicing setting up exercises and the evening will really see the start of fall and winter work in the association. An idea of just how extensive these endeavors are to be can be gained from reading the list of courses offered in an educational way.

The staff of instructors gathered by Educational Director Miller is a stellar affair. The faculty includes graduates of the best technical schools and colleges in America and men who have proved their worth by rising to the highest professional positions in Omaha.

and the others are of equal prominence and ability. Twenty-four classes a week will exercise in the gymnasium this year.

The figures for daily attendance at the building is, for Omaha, 2,500; Chicago Central, 2,500. (Since the attendance here is taken only on dull or average days, it is probable that the Chicago mark was really eclipsed.)

PAPER WITH A WAITING LIST It is for the Blind and the More It Circulates the More It Loses.

Of the 80,000 sightless persons in America about 35,000 are able to read blind printing. The fact that they are blind lessens in most instances their earning capacity, and inasmuch as the making of reading matter for them is a costly operation it is practically impossible without aid from wealthy people to supply them with literature.

The oldest newspaper for the blind is published at College View, Neb. It is called the Christian Record, and was founded at Battle Creek, Mich., in 1907 by A. O. Wilson and his wife, who are both blind.

Wilson did the editing, his wife the printing and binding. Wilson has since engaged in other business, but his wife is still the composing room force.

It began with a circulation of 100 copies. Today 2,000 copies are printed each month, and there are 4,000 names on the waiting list. These persons would like to subscribe and are willing to pay the subscription price, but the publisher is in the position of losing more money the more subscribers he gets.

One sheet of paper can carry but one page of printed matter, and the printer printed in read from the opposite side from that upon which the printing is done. When the magazine or book is bound it must be padded at the back to allow for the raised or embossed printing.

Blind printing has been in the process of evolution since 1784, but only within the last ten years has invention made it possible to place the results, either in book or magazine form, at a price that many of the blind could afford.

When the metal sheets are finished the compositor or the editor does the proof-reading. If an error is detected it is necessary to smooth down the surface at that point, or if that is impossible, the plate must be made over again. The mechanical difficulties involved make changes from copy very infrequent.

The metal plates are next put in the printing press on rollers. These rest against other rollers holding rubber mats. The paper runs between, and at each revolution the copper plates force their impression through the paper, turning out printed pages.

In the papers and magazines printed for the blind very little fiction is found. Some short stories appear, but seldom any serial. While most of the papers have a religious tinge, they aim to give condensations of current events.

The College View publication has a wide range of circulation. Nevada is the only state not represented on its subscription list, and copies go to Canada, England, Australia and Mexico.
