Two Classes of Entrymen.

The testimony of several witnesses in the afternoon developed the fact there were two classes of entrymen interested in the Chicago ranch enterprise. One class included those who put up $60 to become stockholders in the congern and the other class consisted of old soldiers who had long terms of military service that they could apply on the time they were supposed to remain on the land before making final proof. In the first class the entrymen paid their own filing fees and all of their expenses paid and were to receive $25 and expenses every time they went out on their claims to make a sort of a compliance with the residential requirements once each six months. But no evidence has thus far developed that any of the old soldiers ever made any more than the first trip when they filed on the land.

The first witness of the afternoon was

J. N. Hostetter, treasurer of the Chicago

Ranch company, who was in the $50 class made for improvements by him as treas-ments he had made an his own claim which, he stated, amounted to some $400
