American Syndicate Acquires Quarry Rights in Its Vicinity, but Will Not Destroy Historic Place.

DUBLIN, Oct. 10.—(Special.)—Emigrants who have returned from America, and their status have been occupying the revision courts in the exclusion of almost everything else this year. The revision court is a court held annually for the purpose of revising the register of those entitled to vote at parliamentary and local elections, and in many districts where the parties are equally divided the election battle is really fought at these courts.

The question to be decided in most of the cases of returned emigrants is whether they are American citizens or not. Most of them are proud enough of their American citizenship and boast of it loudly on their return to the old country, but when they are caught once more in the whirl of home politics and desire to take their part in the elections, they find it convenient to forget their American nationality.

Eventually, Glendinning, jr. returned to Ireland, entered Irish politics and in time became an M. P. No one ever questioned his qualification before, and the revision judge this year decided that there was not enough evidence as to the law and the facts regarding Glendinning's American citizenship to justify him in striking his name off the voters' list.

Patricio Irishman had another scare by a newspaper announcement that an American syndicate had bought the Giant's Causeway, that remarkable formation in County Antrim which is familiar to all tourists, and was about to break it up for road metal.

Extensive tests have shown that the columnar basalt when crushed makes an ideal road metal, and that the columns themselves are the best known materials for seawalls and other building purposes.

An interesting find has recently been made during the demolition of an old house at Marshalee lane, Dublin, in which it was known that a number of Robert Emmet's followers lived. It consists of a number of old swords and scabbards which it has been established, were made by Mayfield who carried on business in Dublin up to 1800 and who made most of the weapons used by Emmet and his men.

A surprising state of affairs has been disclosed by a complaint made by the medical officer at a recent meeting of the management committee of the Richmond district lunatic asylum at Dublin. The doctor complained that the asylum was overcrowded because of the large number of old people who had been committed. He reported that these old people could by no stretch of the imagination be classed as insane.

A weird story comes from the neighborhood of the poor law authorities' attention for them the work-house authorities will now be compelled to make proper provision for them, and a drastic inquiry will be made to discover who is responsible for certifying sane men and women as lunatics.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The Serbian National Assembly is in secret session this afternoon discussing the attitude to be adopted towards Austria-Hungary.

Austria-Hungary has served notice upon Serbia that it will tolerate no further "provocation" and that it is prepared for eventualities.

London is the seat of negotiations between M. Iswolsky, the Russian minister of foreign affairs, and Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign minister, looking to the convocation of an international conference to maintain peace.

The Serbian delegates evidenced their hostile tendencies this morning by electing to the presidency of the assembly a man well known to be in favor of war with Austria-Hungary.

Prince Nicholas of Montenegro has expressed his deep sympathy with the people of Bosnia and Herzegovina and declared that he was no longer under obligation to observe the stipulations of the treaty of Berlin referring to Montenegro.

The report that three Austrian gendarmes were killed by Servians on the Bosnian frontier yesterday has not been confirmed. It is only one of a number of more or less sensational and unsupported rumors current in Europe.

Judge Gives Reasons for His Trip Through Dixie Next Week.

They Should Take Part in Government that Their Progress and Enterprise Entitles Them To.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 10.—"I am going south to make speeches in Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, Virginia and Maryland, not so much with a view to carrying those states to the democracy of the north, but as a part of the union, and as such ought to vote for the party which will give them the influence in the nation to which test progress, energy and enterprise entitle them."

Judge Taft said this to the Taft-Sherman club in Cincinnati, Ky., which came to the Union hotel today to pledge its support. His address throughout was an expression of intense feeling regarding the political condition of the south.

ATTORNEY EGAN DISBARRED

South Dakota Supreme Court Enters Order Against His Continuation in Practice.

PIERRE, S. D., Oct. 10.—(Special Telegram.)—The supreme court handed down its opinion today in the disbarment suit brought by the Minnehaha County Bar association against George W. Egan, nominee for state attorney of Minnehaha county.

On account of his action in the Julia Ann O'Grady case the court holds in this case the conduct of Egan not only shows unfitness to be a member of this court, but also his perception of the duties and responsibilities of an attorney are such as to render him an undesirable associate for the members of the profession.

His name is ordered to be stricken from the rolls of the profession in this state.

OKLAHOMA ON SAFE SIDE. Does Not Depend on Guaranty Law to Protect Its Own Money.

BOND REQUIRED OF THE BANKS. C. O. Whedon Issues Pamphlet Reviewing Bryan's Record—Republican Speaking Dates Are Announced.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Oct. 10.—(Special.)—"If the guaranty of bank deposits makes the deposits secure, why is it that the state of Oklahoma requires a bond from the banks in which are deposited state and school money?"

The above is a question which a number of people have been asking since the appearance of the Oklahoma senators here as champions of Haskell and the bank guaranty measure.

In Oklahoma the banks are required to deposit a percentage of their money and create a fund to pay off depositors of defunct banks. It is evident, however, that the state has little faith in this guaranty proposition, for it still requires state depositors to put up securities or a surety bond to insure the state against loss in case of bank failure.

Nelmer Mr. Bryan, Mr. Shallenberger, the Oklahoma boomers nor any other advocate of this law in Nebraska has so far as heard from told this part of the story to the people of this state.

A letter was received from Oklahoma yesterday saying that the state required securities or a surety bond from banks in which state or school money is deposited.

Whedon Trails Bryan Up. Charles C. Whedon, who has been a close student of political questions for a number of years and who has been a thorn in the side of the democratic nominee for president, has just issued a little pamphlet entitled "A Review, Mr. William J. Bryan's Positions, Past and Present."

In the little book, Mr. Whedon quotes extensively from the writings and speeches of Mr. Bryan and then discusses and gives his own reasons for the well known and rapid changes of the candidate on various questions. The following taken from the chapter headed "The Lincoln Hotel Incident," gives an idea of what Mr. Bryan will have to answer, when he talks to the readers of the book.

"The state democratic convention of Kentucky assembled at Lexington on the 11th day of June, 1898. A few days previous to that date Mr. Henry Watterson, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal journeyed from Kentucky to Nebraska and for some days visited Mr. Bryan at his Fairview home. What was the purpose of that visit?"

Mr. Bryan tells in his book that in 1898, the Courier-Journal, of which Mr. Watterson was then editor, contained the following editorial, which may be regarded as somewhat personal:

"Mr. William J. Bryan has come to Kentucky, and Kentuckyans were taken aback. He is a boy orator. He is dishonest. He is a daring adventurer. He is a political faker. He is not of the material of which the people of the United States have ever made a president, nor is he even of the material of which any party has ever before made a candidate."

"ASK THE CROOKS"

Governor Hughes Gives Illinois People Political Gauge.

FIND OUT WHOM THEY OPPOSE

Says This is Key to Situation in New York.

HE DEFENDS OFFICIAL ACTS

Reasons Given for Vetoing Two-Cent Fare Bill.

SPEECH MADE IN SPRINGFIELD

New York Executive, Who Was Joined by Governor Deneen, Also Spoke at Bloomington, Pontiac and Joliet.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 10.—"Ask the crooks of New York about it. Do not ask them whom they are for, ask them whom they are against. Then you will learn the truth."

Governor Charles E. Hughes of New York, arriving after an all night run from Webb City, Mo., in a speech at action, thus opened a discussion of railroads with particular reference to his veto of the 2-cent fare bill in New York state.

Governor Deneen of Illinois joined Governor Hughes at Alton, Ill., where the New York governor spoke before a large audience. He made other stops in Illinois at Lincoln, Bloomington, Pontiac and Joliet. The Hughes special reached Chicago tonight, where Governor Hughes in a speech completed a tour of the middle west states. Governor Hughes said in part:

"I have been asked why I vetoed the 2-cent fare bill. I will tell you. I do not believe in arbitrary legislative action. I believe in compelling the discharge of public obligations, in giving adequate and impartial service at reasonable rates and a rigorous insistence on the performance of public duty.

"But we have large enterprises connected with our public service which are of vital importance to the interests of the people. Our railroads are our arteries of commerce. Upon their efficiency all classes in a community are dependent. We want improved facilities, new stations, improved trackage and increased car facilities. We want freight moved promptly. We want passenger service of the best.

"Thousands of workmen are dependent upon the efficiency of our railroad enterprises. Its unreasonable curtailment means loss not only to commerce, but to labor and the impairment of the thousand-fold activities of the community.

"We must insist upon reasonable rates. The legislature has the power to fix reasonable rates, but it has no power to attempt arbitrarily to reduce earnings unless it knows what it is about. We provided machinery in New York so that matter might be investigated and studied in advance of action, so that what was to be done could be ordered to be done. It is an easy thing to take a pair of shears and proceed to deal with a rate sheet. It is a different thing to do justly by enterprise. In order that we might have fair inquiry and understanding we provided New York for a public service commission with comprehensive powers and at the same time we oppose any arbitrary and ill-considered action. That was the reason for my official conduct in the case specified."
