OFFICERS DO QUICK WORK

Detectives Recover Plunder and Burglar Takes Hairs After Burglary.

Within twelve hours forty-two cravenette rain coats stolen from the Interstate Rubber company Tuesday night were recovered and one of the burglars placed under arrest by Detectives Ferris, Dunn, King and Murphy and Patrolman McDonald.

In the arrest of James Patrick, who was captured by Officer Hell while trying to dispose of thirteen cases of various descriptions, the police believe they have the burglar who broke into the Martin-Cott Hat company after midnight Tuesday and stole several dollars worth of caps and $100 worth of dress gloves.

The coats were recovered in the barn of Henry Myers at Twenty-fourth and Clark streets and Charles Haskings, a negro hostler employed at the barn, was seized under arrest. Haskings confessed to cutting the coats and gloves from the coats and gloves of Detective Savage of his complicity in the burglary, but refused to divulge the names of his accomplices.

Entrance to the store of the Interstate Rubber company was gained by breaking into of the transom over the front door. Here the burglars selected forty-two of the best cravenettes of "The Chief" brand and made their escape by breaking the lock on a rear door. The booty secured by the burglars here is valued at $800.

By climbing the fire escape in the rear of the Martin-Cott store the burglars entered a fourth story window and proceeding to the first floor, they made a careful selection of dress gloves, taking $100 worth and made their escape by prying open the front door.
