the Bible and the Book Written by Mrs. Eddy, the Founder of the Fnith.

Frank H. Leonard of Brooklyn, N. Y., member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, addressed an audience Thursday evening at the Star theater. Council Bluffs, which completely filled the first floor and balcony. In the audience were many members of the church frem Omaha.

Mr. Leonard, who was introduced by J. A. Barris, first reader of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in this city, proved himself to be a most interesting and pleasing speaker.

He opened his address by relating how he became a Christian Scientist by being cured of what was claimed to be an incurable organic disease through Christian Science. His address in part follows:

Science. His address in part follows:

I have heard it said that Christian Scientists do not use the Bible; that all we use is "Science and Health with a Key to the Scriptures" written by Mrs. Eddy. No statement could be more untrue, because the disclosures of the Spirit of the Word which maketh allve, comes only as a result of the continuous study of the Bible with the aid of the Christian Science text book. Almost every denomination has its Bible-helps prepared for the use of the lay members of the church by those presumed to have the knowledge of what lesson the scriptures have for mankind, in such a scriptures have for mankind, in such a manner that Bible study may be intellimanner that Bible study may be intelli-gently induiged in.

That is what the Christian Science text book is—it is our Bible help; it is the book that we study our Bible with; it is the book that has rent the veil of mystery from top to bottom, revealing the spiritual im-port of the scriptures and opening to us the Holy of Holles.

STATEMENT OF CITY FINANCES Nothing in Emergency Fund to Pay

Election Expenses. The financial report of City Auditor Mc-Aneney for the month of September, which completes the first half of the fiscal year, was given out yesterday and will be submitted to the city council at its meeting next Monday night. The report is of particular interest at this time inasmuch as the municipal authorities are confronted with the problem of discovering funds wherewith to pay the expenses of the special election on October 27. The councilmen have inferred from the several opinions given by City Solicitor Kimball that all of the expenses incurred in connection with the waterworks question should be paid out of the contingent or emergency department of the general fund. The report of the city auditor shows that at the end of September there was only $510.15 in this fund, which is not even sufficient to pay the bill of W. H. Bryan, the expert hydraulic engineer, not to mention the expenses of the special election and the cost of publishing the "booklet" on the waterworks question. The total amount appropriated for the maintenance of the several city departments for the fiscal year was $80,000. This amount was based on the certain revenue from the 10 mill tax levey for the general fund and the uncertain revenue from the ing in northern Iowa. first six months of the fiscal year $45,871.90 Des Moines today. The Bryanites had come in a bunch to cheer for their favorite; they left at the conclusion of the address either quiet or cheering for Taft. In this The opera house was filled and the speaker to exist. Under the primarry law the respect the meeting was the most noted was accorded strict attention and liberal ever held in Lincoln, and many times it applause. Senator Beverldge paid his retook on dramatics.

The meeting which Senator is everlage addressed was held at the Auditorium under theories, including the guaranty of bank the auspices of the Young Men's Republican club and it concluded a day's speaking in Nebraska for the Indiana man. The Auditorium was packed to the doors, gallery and ground floor and hundreds stood. Not a man left the hall until adjournment. The Union Veterans' Republican club was there in a body and its drum corps and its singers furnished the music. Senator Beveridge was introduced by Senator Burkett and within a few minutes after he began his address he mentioned the name of Mr. Bryan. This was the signal for the packed gallery to let loose and it did. Many on the floor took up the cheering and for a time it looked as though the Bryanites were in SHELDON DRAWS AT KENESAW the majority.

Patiently the Indiana man waited until the cheering subsided, then he asked the people to listen to him as one American talking to another. Personally he said, he had great respect for Mr. Bryan, but party and candidate.

Question for Bryan.

Senator Beveridge began by showing that there were republican senators who opposed the Taft policies. He then asked Mr. Bryan five questions which he had asked on previous occasions and which had not been answered. In these inquiries Mr. Beveridge asked Mr. Bryan if the democratic senators would favor his policles. He called the names of these senstors. He asked if Mr. Bryan would repeat any of the progressive legislation enacted during the last seven years. He asked if the people were not entitled

Improves His Opportunities. He told the crowd the republicans has enacted a temporary currency law and ther and appointed a commission to draft, after investigation, a stable, scientific law. He gave Mr. Bryan credit for being the one man who could think up a currency plan over night, that would be perfect. As he delivered his telling blows at Bryan's fallacies, the crowd at first cheered, then yelled and on one occasion shouted for several minutes. The democratic leader who sought to pack the house with Bryan sympathisers furnished Mr. Beveridge with splendid democratic audience, many of whom showed by their change of front, that they were converted into Taft voters. Mr. Beveridge had a splendid day and talked at nine different towns, making a different speech at each. At Sutton one man inquired about the guaranty of bank deposits and the republican stand on that question. At the conclusion of the speech By his eloquence and agurment tonight he stood forth and said: "I am convinced
