Condition of Voice Makes it Necessary to Cancel Several Dates.

Great Crowds Greet Republican Candidate in Newark.

WILL REST IN OHIO WEDNESDAY

Judge Taft Expects to Be Able to Keep All His Night Engagements Except One in Chicago.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—That Judge Taft's voice is in such bad condition that he will have to cancel many of his dates for speaking was indicated by Chairman Hitchcock on his return today from a morning's visit with Mr. Taft at Newark, N. J. This means a rearrangement of Mr. Taft's itinerary, but it will not affect his dates in New York. He will be in this city as arranged. The day speeches will be omitted.

It is also expected that most of Mr. Taft's dates in West Virginia will be cancelled. Mr. Hitchcock will work now on the West Virginia situation so far as Mr. Taft is concerned. The dates of Mr. Taft's speeches in Connecticut also may be cancelled. Dr. Richardson, the throat specialist, who is traveling with Mr. Taft, is of the opinion that his voice has been affected chiefly by his outdoor speaking. By abandoning the day speeches, which were to have been out of doors, it is believed that Mr. Taft will be able to meet all of his engagements with the exception of Chicago. Dr. Richardson said that he never saw the candidate looking better, and that Mr. Taft is more hopeful of the result than he has been at any time since the campaign began. He will rest in Ohio Wednesday.

Chairman Hitchcock believes from notification he has received that there is a fighting chance in Missouri for the republican national ticket. Mr. Hitchcock expects to go to Chicago within the next five days. General O. C. Howard of Vermont, came to headquarters today to volunteer to take the stump for Taft and Sherman. He was assigned to the campaign in Ohio from October 23 to October 27 and in Indiana from October 28 to October 31.

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 19.—William H. Taft and party arrived here early today on the first stage of a day of campaigning which will embrace three states. A big crowd gave Mr. Taft an enthusiastic greeting on arrival. The reception committee, which met Mr. Taft at the train, was headed by former Governor Franklin Murphy. Among the other guests were Senator Kean, former United States Attorney General John W. Griggs and Chairman Hitchcock of the republican national committee. After breakfast he received callers, among them Governor Fort, Senator Colby and several members of congress from New Jersey. He was then driven to Hlaney's theater, where he addressed a large gathering.

The theater was filled and many were unable to gain admittance and had been turned away before Mr. Taft began his address with a brief review of the record of the republican party, saying that he referred to these accomplishments, including the progress of the Philippines, Cuba, Porto Rico and the Panama canal, and the control of corporations, to show that the republican party is the party that does things. He followed with a discussion of corporation control, comparing what had been done by President Roosevelt, with Mr. Bryan's proposition to "destroy every corporation."

Control of Corporations. Mr. Bryan's plan, said, would result not only in destroying the trusts, but would destroy independent competition. On the other hand, the republican plan to control the corporations would be effective in stamping out evils, but at the same time would permit and encourage corporate as well as individual enterprise. Turning to the tariff, Mr. Taft said revision was certain. It would result in the majority of cases in reductions, but that the measure of protection might be equal and more schedule would doubtless be raised. He denied Mr. Bryan's assertion that the republican party would not give an honest revision.

The unanimous sentiment in favor of tariff revision manifested in the Chicago convention, Mr. Taft declared, was ample evidence both that the revision would be made honestly and in good faith.

Restoration of Confidence.

Mr. Taft concluded his speech by discussing the recent panic, which, he said, had come about through too rapid expansion of business. The evil effects of the depression already are appearing, said he, and all that is needed to bring about normal conditions again is a restoration of confidence. Judge Taft reviewed Mr. Bryan's political record with considerable detail, and declared that every theory the nebraskan had advocated had become or later been shown to be fallacious. This was illustrated, he said, by the Oklahoma constitution, "which is a perfect zoological garden of Bryanian panaceas."

In this connection Mr. Taft paid his respects to the demonstrated proposition for government guaranty of bank deposits. This plan, he said, would work out to the entire benefit of the dishonest or inferior banker, who would be placed on an equality with sound banks and honest methods.

Engineers Commend Taft.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 19.—Judge Taft was personally given a hearty commendation by a delegation of prominent railroad employees, which boarded his special train today. Acting as spokesman, Benjamin E. Chapin of the Order of Railroad Conductors, told Judge Taft that the railway men of the east would almost unanimously support him at the polls.

"We believe you were right in your injunction record, and the principles that laid down have since been made a part of the constitution of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers as well as in the constitutions of the other big railway service organizations. We are unalterably opposed to Bryan's personal views regard-

Little Girls Pick Envelopes from Big Pile and the Lucky Names Are Announced at Once by Those in Charge.

DALLAS, S. D., Oct. 19.—The first name drawn in the opening of Tripp county was May A. Melser of Kennebec.

Few of the 33,000 persons who registered at this place were present when the drawing of the Tripp county Rosebud lands began this morning in the big tent. The drawing began shortly after 10 o'clock. The nineteen large iron cans were opened and the contents spread out on the front of the platform.

Ex-Congressman Cole of Fairbanks, Alaska, made a short address. He was the second delegate from the territory and came here to the opening from Alaska in the interests of his sons, who desire to draw a claim.

After the preliminary arrangement of emptying the iron cans which contained the applications of the 114,700 persons who had registered, the drawing began. Judge James W. Witten made the announcement of the first name drawn.

The winner of the first number in the Tripp county opening was Miss May A. Melser of Kennebec, S. D. She is 23 years old and lives with her parents on a farm about four miles from town. Her application was mailed from Fresno, S. D. Her affidavit was sworn to before T. D. McLaughlin, a notary at Kennebec, S. D., is a new town of 200 inhabitants and is thirty miles west of Chamberlain.

Just twenty-five minutes after the cans were opened and thoroughly stirred Dema Rose was carried to the front of the platform by Judge Witten and told to walk anywhere she pleased and pick up an envelope from behind her back. The little miss, who is only 4 years old, was frightened and about ready to cry. She walked to the middle of the pile of envelopes and reached down and picked up the winning envelope.

After Thomas W. Gale had finished speaking, the little girls Dema Rose and Virginia Wagner, were introduced by Judge Witten. They were heartily cheered. They acted as ushers for the remainder of the morning. Little Miss Rose is the daughter of C. M. Rose, Mayor of Dallas.

The second and third names drawn were, Peter Swift of Ponca, Neb. second, and E. H. Hanne of Meadow Grove, Neb. third. The opening of the heavy iron cans was quickly done. A wire had been enclosed with solder near the tops of the cans and this wire was pried loose, allowing the tops to be lifted off. The empty cans were lifted off the platform at a convenient place by the men.

Following are the first hundred names drawn in Tripp county land lottery: 1—May A. Melser, Kennebec, S. D. 2—E. H. Hanne, Meadow Grove, Neb. 3—Otto Schneider, Mitchell, S. Each village school turned out in force the children lining the track as the train sped by, every pupil waving two flags, American banners, and the children of their native land, and every one cheering continuously.

Admiral Sperry bowed his response from an open window, and his officers waved their hats, while the ladies of his party fluttered flags and handkerchiefs from every window of the train. The trip was one long procession through a lane of waving flags. The wonderful inspiration of the massed children's voices was evidently a part of a carefully thought out plan. It is the intention of the reception officials to have 1,000,000 school children this week, voice the sentiment of the nation's coming generations.

On reaching Tokio, the train was met by a committee composed of representatives of every department of the government. Secretary Jay, of the American embassy, and the entire staff from the legation were also on hand to greet the visitors.

After the exchange of formal greetings on the station platform a procession was formed and then came a great surprise, when the band struck up the National Hymn and 10,000 school children marched in a chorus which packed the entire approach to the station, sang the words of the hymn in English. The entire effect of the American naval officers walking through the narrow passage between the walls of children of Japan singing the national anthem in English was such as to stir the inspiration and enthusiasm even of the weather-beaten commander of the American fleet, who, with his officers, bare-headed, passed along.

After fifteen minutes of continuous singing the band stopped and the leader stepped out and 10,000 voices cheered again, giving the American cheer three times and a tiger. The American officers were then conducted to carriages in waiting and the work of the day was commenced.

The admirals of the fleet were driven to the Shitza palace in the imperial carriage, attended by aids. The twenty-seven captives and commanders were taken to the Imperial hotel. The streets leading to both places were literally packed, hundreds deep, with madly cheering crowds. The effect of Admiral Sperry and Officers Greeted by Cheering Thousands All the Way to Tokio—Official Calls Made.

TOKIO, Oct. 19.—Monday morning broke calm and beautiful over Yokohama bay, the harbor being bathed in brilliant sunshine, which threw into strong relief the gleaming white sides of the American battleships which were lying at anchor beside the darker Japanese fleet which shadowed strongly against the horizon.

The first item in the reception to the Americans was the departure of Rear Admiral Sperry and the admirals and captains of the fleet for Tokio. They were driven to the station in carriages elaborately decorated with flowers, where they entered a special train at 9 o'clock.

Even the carriages of the train was especially prepared for this occasion, having been newly painted and draped with American flags and beautiful decorations, while the interiors were filled with flowers. Along the whole eighteen miles to Tokio, through a country interspersed with quiet thatched cottages and native villages, there was a continual ovation to the Americans.

MEETING OF METHODIST BOARD

Number of Important Conferences to Be Held Commencing This Week.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The annual meetings of the great administrative boards of the Methodist Episcopal church, these boards consisting of bishops, officials, ministers and lay members, are to be held in the three weeks beginning October 21. The appropriations which are to be made for the support of the benevolent interests of the denomination during 1909 will aggregate more than $4,000,000. The group of important meetings includes the semi-annual meeting of the bishops and two important conventions, one of the Methodist Episcopal Laymen's Missionary movement and the other of the Methodist Federation for Social Service.

From October 21 to 28 the Woman's Home Missionary society will hold its annual meeting at the Church of the Covenant in Philadelphia. The bishops will hold their semi-annual meeting at Indianapolis on October 25 and will then assign to each bishop the annual conferences he is to administer for the next year.

From October 29 to November 5, at Cincinnati, will be held the annual meeting of the general executive convention of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society. On November 4 and 5 the general committee for the Freedman's Aid society will be held at Indianapolis. This organization maintains twenty-five institutions for the education of colored young men and young women in the south.

The general committee for foreign missions will meet at St. Louis on November 4 to 19 to make appropriations for foreign missions. The board of foreign missions disburses about $1,500,000 annually. Immediately following and intimately related to the meeting of the general committee for general missions the first conference of the Laymen's Missionary movement of the Methodist Episcopal church will meet in St. Louis for two days to effect a permanent organization and to consider methods and means for increasing the interest of Methodist men in the foreign work of the church.

On November 12 the general committee of home missions and church extension will hold its annual meeting in Topeka, Kan. The first convention of the Methodist Federation for Social Service will be held in St. Louis from Tuesday to Thursday, November 17 to 19. The executive committee has decided to make a workers' conference for the social workers of the Methodist Episcopal church and Methodist Episcopal church, South. South churches will have joint representation on the program.

KANSAS GETS GOOD RAIN

Wind and Rain Visits State and the Moisture Does Much Good.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 18.—A wind and rain storm of unusual severity prevailed in western Kansas this morning. Aside from the blowing down of small frame buildings and the snapping of a few telegraph poles, no damage is reported. Telegraph service was interrupted for several hours. The rainfall is the heaviest in western Kansas for several weeks and much good to crops will result. There were light showers last night in central and eastern Kansas.

Sleuman-Hart Inquest. That Eva Hart came to her death from a gunshot wound at the hands of Sewell Sleuman, and that Sewell Sleuman came to his death from a gunshot wound inflicted by his own hand in a house at 4304 Burdette street, city of Omaha, county of Douglas, state of Nebraska, on the night of October 13, 1908, between the hours of 11 and 12 o'clock.

This is the verdict of the coroner's jury in the inquest of Sewell Sleuman and Eva Hart. The inquest was held by coroner Brewer at the Hastings undertaking parlors, 709 South Sixteenth street, Monday afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock. The jury consisted of these men: Harry Wilkinson, foreman, 2407 Dodge street; Oscar Peterson, 718 South Sixteenth street; Martin Dunham, 712 South Seventeenth street; E. H. Herbert, 1402 Douglas street; George Windhelm, 1414 South Sixteenth street; Becht, 1446 South Seventeenth street.

Much Progress is Made.

Yesterday was a busy day for officials and relatives to whom fell the lot of looking after the bodies and affairs of Sewell Sleuman and Eva Hart. The coroner's jury held an inquest returning the verdict stated above, the body of Sleuman was taken by his brother, George, to Hastings for burial, and that of Miss Hart by her brother, Byron Hart, to Regar, Mo.; the business affairs of Sleuman were wound up, his office closed at Adams, who is preparing in county court. The relatives took the bodies to the respective burial places last evening on the first trains possible after the coroner's inquest.

Only a small number of persons was present at the inquest, which started promptly at 2 o'clock. Byron Hart, the brother of the young woman, took the witness' chair after the jurors had taken their places. In answer to a question, Mr. Hart, who is a bookkeeper for the Omaha Printing Company, stated that the sister had known Sleuman for about two years.

Did Not Go in Death Room.

You had better accompany to his testimony, met the special police officer, Harry Ulmer, at the door of the Hart residence, the officer having been at the house when Hart arrived there. The two men entered the house together, but Hart says he did not go into the room where the bodies were placed.

In his description of the interior of the house, the young man told practically what has already been related of that part of the case. The greater part of his testimony was in answer to questions put by Attorney James W. Adams, who is representing Sleuman's brother, George, and the other heirs. He took particular pains to ascertain the extent of the damage done to the house furnishings and clothes by Sleuman in his destructive frenzy, during which, according to Byron Hart, he had thrown the pictures onto the floor and tramped on them, thrown a vase down the cellar stairs, cut big slits in the leather upholstery of the lounge in one of the rooms, and slashed the carpets with a butcher knife.

J. P. Comstock, Sleuman's local manager, was called to the stand as a telegraph operator by profession, and that he had been in the employ of Sleuman for some time.

Sleuman Acted Uneasy.

"I saw my employer alive Saturday afternoon for the last time and he did not act then as he had acted before, appearing uneasy. We were out to lunch together Saturday, and he called me late Saturday night. At first I thought he said that something awful had happened, but now I think he said that something awful was going to happen. He told me to bring my brother at Hastings, and then I hung up the phone."

Calling up the operator at central, I learned the number from which Sleuman had phoned—I think it was Webster 6570—and I tried to get it but failed. I am not sure whether I put in a call for George Sleuman as the operator told me Sleuman had told me about something awful going to happen. I made both calls."

Mr. Comstock was asked if Sleuman had ever talked to Miss Hart to him, and said that he had never heard his employer mention the woman. The note which Sewell Sleuman had written on one of his business letter heads, asking that if anything happened his brother George be notified, was read by Coroner Brewer and identified by Mr. Comstock as being in the handwriting of his employer.

Sleuman's Mental Status.

One of the most important bits of testimony elicited at the inquest was Mr. Comstock's statement concerning the apparent mental condition of Sleuman before his death. "Had he ever spoken to you of going to the great beyond?" asked Coroner Brewer, quoting a phrase from Sleuman's own note. "No," replied Mr. Comstock. "He never did."

Then in reply to queries by Coroner Brewer and Attorney Adams, the witness testified that Sleuman had not been paying much attention to his business lately, and seemed nervous and unnatural of late and had made a number of mistakes in figuring up margins on stock and in other work connected with his business.

Harry Ulmer, the police officer who had been dispatched to the Hart home on the emergency motorcycle as soon as the police station was notified of the tragedy, stated that the authorities first heard from Mr. Comstock about 11:30 o'clock Saturday night, and that after receiving his instructions from Captain Dunn, he made the run to the Hart residence at 4304 Burdette street, and arrived there at 11:46 o'clock. "There was a light inside and I rang the
