Contributions on timely topics invited. Write legibly on one side of the paper only, with name and address appended. Unreturned contributions will not be returned. Letters exceeding 300 words will be subject to being cut down at the discretion of the editor. Publication of views of correspondents does not commit The Bee to their endorsement.

One of Bryan's "Crowds."

ENDICOTT, Neb., Oct. 18.—To the Editor of The Bee: Reading the morning World-Herald of October 16 of the Bryan meeting here, I cannot help but give the true version. Mr. Bryan's train arrived at 7:35 a. m. and there was not to exceed eighteen voters (mostly old-time populists and some republicans) and sixty or seventy school children to meet him, and he spoke by actual count seventy-two words, and the train was backed up to Fairbury on its return. Mr. Gilbert, democratic nominee for congress, spoke two or three minutes, (the most he said of importance was, "We will meet") to a crowd of like proportion. To show the interest taken an old soldier farmer kept on plowing in his field in 20 feet of the depot. When a paper says hundreds of farmers drove in here and they left a Mr. Brandon to address the overflow meeting it becomes a "hoaxing, laughing farce."

CHARLES DAWSON.

Bryan's Performances.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Oct. 18.—To the Editor of The Bee: Your Letter Box Brigade has interested me to some extent, and as you allow both parties to use the Letter Box, I would like to ask any of the correspondents to answer the important question that Governor Hughes asked Bryan, as he does not seem inclined to do so: What did he do when he was four years in congress, with a democratic president, and the house and senate absolutely controlled by democrats? Now, I have voted twice for Bryan, but I have got to have some explanation of the above or else you can hear my vote drop, when it goes into the box, for Taft. I am commencing to think that in following Bryan we have been following blue skies. When the most important issues are ignored in a campaign I think we had better commence to sit up and look around, and that we cannot afford to support a man just because he is a campaigner, and run the risk of upsetting good times unless we have some assurance (that the would-be party can show a record and stand on it, not merely talk.

A COMMERCIAL MAN.

The Bee as a Vote Getter.

OMAHA, Oct. 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: I wish to suggest that arrangements be made with the central committee to send The Bee to every voter in Nebraska from now until November 3. This could be done at about one-twentieth of the cost of any other method of getting the facts before the voters, and would help the republican ticket more than any other work now being done. If we could get The Bee to the people who are now reading nothing but Bryanism we could get ten votes to one without it. Many people believe in Bryan and his mistakes because they do not read both sides of the question. Much of the campaign literature sent out is thrown aside, which would be the case with The Daily Bee, as it fairly and squarely gives both sides of the question, and I hope arrangements can be made to send it to every home in Nebraska until after election.

GARDENERS HOLD LAST SHOW

Boys Exhibit "Stuff" Produced for Prize Winning Contest at Y. M. C. A.

Omaha's young gardeners will have another chance Saturday to show the products of their industry during the last summer and at the same time get an opportunity to participate in the division of cash prizes to the extent of $50 for the best exhibits of vegetables. This is the last of the exhibits by members of the School Garden club, which was organized last spring among the boys of Omaha's grade schools.

Field and popcorn, sweet and ordinary potatoes, pumpkins, squashes and carrots will be the vegetables entered for the prizes. The exhibits will be the last of the Young Men's Christian association building most of the day Saturday.

Paving Work at Fremont.

FREMONT, Neb., Oct. 18.—(Special.)—Work on the Sixth street paving, the contract for which was let last June, will begin Monday. A quantity of paving brick is on hand and the paving will be easily finished before cold weather. The delay has been owing to some difficulty in getting brick that stand the test.

REPUBLICANS ARE UNITED

Campaign Devoid of All Evidences of Factional Differences.

SENATORSHIP NOT DISTURBING

State Called Upon to Decide What Constitutes a Gambling Device in Making Appropriations for Fair.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
DES MOINES, Oct. 18.—(Special.)—The most remarkable and agreeable phase of the campaign in Iowa is the entire absence of all small quarreling and all evidence of factionalism among the republicans. The action of the legislature in providing for submission to the republican voters of the question as to who should be the republican senatorial candidate is regarded as the one thing which has assured harmony in the state. Without this it is now admitted by all prominent republicans that the state would have had a democratic governor and legislature and a democratic United States senator. It was to avoid this contingency that the legislature was called in special session. At that time it was threatened that an issue would be made of the expense of calling the legislature together, but now the people all agree that it was the best thing which has happened in years. Following this there has been a complete cessation of all factional controversy among republicans and the senatorial matter is being left to the voters.

Both Governor Cummins and ex-congressman Lacey are campaigning the state for Taft and leaving the senatorial matter to their friends. Lacey has headquarters open in Okaloosa, Des Moines and Sioux City and is distributing a vast amount of literature and also making use of the papers, but the old familiar attacks upon Governor Cummins have disappeared. Governor Cummins has a small room in Des Moines, where a very little work is being done by his friends. He has sent out a folder giving voters instructions as to how to vote on the senatorial matter. The newspapers of the state have left the whole senatorial matter alone and are devoting themselves to issues. The chief arguments being brought out for Lacey are that he helped to make the Dingley bill, and upon this record and that of his good work for pensions recently he expects success. The Cummins campaign is made on the record of the party under his administration in Iowa in recent years, and especially the large number of reform measures he has favored.

The republican state committee is making use of Governor Cummins, Attorney General Byers, State Auditor Carroll, Secretary Wilson, ex-congressman Lacey, M. D. O'Connell, A. U. Sammis, George D. Scott, George W. Clark, W. H. Adams, George Cullison and others as speakers and good meetings are being held in all parts of the state. Cullison was a democrat and chairman of a democratic state convention a few years ago.

The principal campaign for the democrats is being made by Fred White, candidate for governor, assisted by a few outsiders.

The candidates for congress are all working in their own districts and every one of the republican candidates is on the stump.

Gambling Devices at Fairs.
It is up to the state of Iowa to decide upon what a gambling device is, especially a gambling device at a county fair. This relates especially to cane racks, rag-doll racks, cigar schemes and various devices which are usually found at all fairs, where the young people may get rid of their money. The state pays a bonus of $20 to each county or district fair in the state. Complaint has been made that in a number of these fairs there has been violation of the law in regard to permitting the use of gambling devices. It has been put up to the attorney general to decide whether in view of this violation the fair associations can get their money. If gambling has been permitted under the sanction of the fair managers, the state will not pay the bonus. No gambling of any kind or any game of chance are permitted at the state fairs.

A Reform in Prison Methods.
A bill will be presented to the next legislature providing that penitentiary sentences shall be reckoned as commencing at the hour of the sentence by court or of incarceration in jail thereafter, instead of being reckoned at the time of actual commitment to the penitentiary. There has been more controversy over this one thing than almost any other in connection with the prisons. It is found that most prisoners want to claim as applying on their sentence the time between the sentencing and that of reaching the prison. In some cases this is several weeks. A recent case came to the attention of the state authorities where a prisoner was held in jail after commitment for two months, just because the sheriff did not have time to take him to prison, but this incarceration did not count on his time served. A law will be offered to correct the injustice of the system.

Indians in Iowa Win Point.
The success of the Musquakie Indians in Tama county in establishing in-court their right to boycott the Indian school near the "reservation" is given by the authorities to mean practically the abandonment of the school at Toledo. It is true that there are a number of the Indians who are entirely willing that their children shall attend school, but the leaders of the tribe are as they have always been, bitterly opposed to education in any form. They do not even learn the English language, and transact all business through interpreters. Judge Reed of the United States court for the northern Iowa district, held that the Indians cannot be compelled to send their children to school, and that their own land in fee simple and hardly sustain the same relation to the government as Indians elsewhere. The decision is the most important that has ever been given in connection with the tribe.

Iowa News Notes.
ATLANTIC—The Parker White City Carnival company arrived in the city yesterday afternoon from Perry, and is now in possession of the city for the carnival which is to be held this week.

CRESTON—Word has been received here of the death of Joseph H. Red Oak, father of ex-senator Junkin and an uncle of Paul Junkin, editor of the Advertiser-Gazette of this city. Funeral services were conducted today.

ATLANTIC—Sheriff Duval, Saturday afternoon, arrested in this city Fred Duval, wanted at Mount Ayr, charged with seduction. He has been here since July 3, working in the Star livery stable. He is being held pending the arrival of the officials from Mount Ayr.

AMES—The First Voters' club has induced the college authorities to grant a vacation for the Monday and Tuesday of election week in order that the students may go home to vote. Political sentiment is strong here, and it is likely that many will avail themselves of the opportunity.

MARSHALLTOWN—Paul Radloff, who was convicted of arson for burning the W. S. Gile barn about a month ago, was sentenced to ten years in the Fort Madison penitentiary by Judge J. M. Parker in the district court Saturday. The local option will be appealed, and an appeal bond of $10,000 was furnished. Charles Martin, convicted of breaking and entering a freight car, was sentenced to five years at Fort Madison.

CRESTON—Creston and Lorimer high schools played a hotly contested game on the gridiron here yesterday in which the local team carried off a victory, standing 26 to 0. Although the visiting team put up a strenuous game, they were easily outclassed. The local team this year is a strong one and so far during the season has won all contests in which it has engaged.

ATLANTIC—Mrs. Katherine Strider died of some ailment of the city at 7 o'clock Saturday morning. She was 72 years of age and had been ill for some time. Her husband, Mr. Strider, died of the same disease in 1907. She was born in Cass county for many years. She leaves seven children, five of whom are girls and two boys. The funeral was held yesterday at her home, and interment made in the Atlantic cemetery.

LAKE CITY—A turnip weighing nine pounds, big enough to furnish a man with dinner, was grown by Will Strees, a farmer, on a clearing on the bank of the Racoon river. In addition to the giant turnip Mr. Strees has produced enough other freak vegetables to furnish a banquet for a county fair all by himself. His collection, which he has taken to the state fair, includes a pumpkin weighing four pounds, a yellow, very loose-leaved cabbage weighing more than would appear; a stalk of corn ears on it; a bunch of barley which formed higher than a man's head; a tomato vine, planted and nurtured by Mr. Strees, which climbed over one side of their modest home.

GRAND JURY OUT VISITING

Monday in Juvenile Court and Goes Next to Inspect Rescue Home.

The county grand jury relaxed from the arduous labor of hearing witnesses Monday forenoon and spent the morning in the juvenile court where the members took a deep interest in the proceedings. The jurors listened to a number of cases in which youthful wrong doers and their parents and accusers were examined by the court. The visit to the juvenile court was by invitation and it was to have taken place a week ago but the jurors could not be present.

The grand jury will visit a number of public and semi-public institutions this week. Among them will be the Salvation Army Rescue home, the City mission and other semi-charitable institutions. The purpose of the jury is to acquaint itself with all the charitable and penal institutions in the county.

"Frisco Pete," the self confessed leader of a gang of young pickpockets will be given a job by the court as soon as he is given a chance to prove it. Judge Estelle is of the opinion that the boy in ready to quit crime and he will be given a chance to prove it.

"Frisco Pete," the only name he has been known by in Omaha, gave himself up some time ago after the police had spent several days looking for him. Monday he kept his word and appeared in court. He brought with him a gold watch which had been taken from the gypsy tent on the carnival grounds. Several of the gang were in court also. They testified Pete had been their
