Cork and Dublin Need Better Sanitary Regulations.

NATIONAL SPIRIT STRONGER

Gaelic Language Gains Popularity in North of Ireland—Emigration Shows Big Drop This Year.

DUBLIN, Oct. 24.—(Special).—The sanitary conditions of the three leading Irish cities is causing grave concern to the authorities responsible for the public health. Just now there are serious epidemics of typhoid fever in Dublin, Belfast and Cork and the sanitary authorities are at their wits' end to find a means of checking the disease and preventing its recurrence. Belfast has an unenviable record in the matter of typhoid. Ever since 1873—the year in which deaths from this disease were first separately recorded—the deaths from typhoid each year in Belfast have been normally about 50 per cent over the average for other cities in the United Kingdom. Health commission after health commission was appointed to investigate, and, after exhausting almost every possible cause, the authorities in Belfast have come to the conclusion that the prevalence of the disease is due to the custom of the working class of gathering shellfish on the shores of the Lough and eating them raw. Belfast Lough is a famous place for cockles and mussels, and every Saturday afternoon and Sunday hundreds of people may be seen along the shore gathering the shellfish and carrying them home in great bags. The waters of the Lough, however, are badly polluted from the sewage of Belfast and other towns on its banks. Every effort has been made by the authorities to discourage this practice and recently a city bylaw was passed making it illegal to gather shellfish from the Lough. But to cope with the typhoid evil have led to the city having the best water supply in Ireland.

Epidemic at Clontarf.

Dublin is having a serious epidemic of the same disease in the Clontarf district, and so far the authorities have not been able to fix the cause. Clontarf is not a working class district and the general sanitation is good. Both the water and milk supplies are suspected and exhaustive tests are being made. More than ninety cases have been reported within the last ten days. Cork has only itself to blame for the condition in which it finds itself. The slums of Cork are among the worst in the world and there are large areas that can be reformed by pulling down the present buildings altogether. At a recent meeting of the corporation one of the councilmen said that the slums of Cork were worse than anything in ancient Egypt, and Sir Edward Fitzgerald declared that the worst slums were to be found in modern Constantinople. Sir Edward also denounced the slum landlords, who, he said, literally traded in human lives. The corporation is now considering an extensive housing scheme which will enable it to transfer the population of these slums to healthier surroundings.

The growth of the national spirit in the north is again illustrated by the report which comes from Ballymoney this week. Ballymoney is probably the most Orange town in Ulster and the last place in which one would expect a flourishing branch of the Gaelic league. At the meeting of the Ballymoney Board of Guardians last week, however, a member announced indignantly that he had just learned that the Gaelic league was holding a class in Irish night in the local Orange lodge and that most of the brethren were studying the national language. The shocked guardian wanted to know if the board could do anything about it, and he was still more shocked when the board laughed at him, and passed a resolution in favor of the teaching of Irish in the new National university.

New Interest in Gaelic.

The studying of Irish is also taking on new life at Maynooth, the training school for the Irish Catholic clergy. For a good many years it has been the fashion at Maynooth to sneer at Irish, but the language revival has made itself felt here, too, and today almost every young priest feels it his duty to encourage the movement. At the recent prize giving Canon O'Leary, who is one of the pioneers of the movement, told how his mind had been directed to the national tongue by John McElate, the great archbishop of Tuam. When the canon was a student at Maynooth he won a prize for an essay on "The Elizabethan Age of English Literature." The prize was presented by Archbishop McElate, who said to him, "You spoke of the learning and literature of Rome, you spoke of the learning and literature of Greece, you spoke of the learning and literature of France and you spoke of the learning and literature of Ireland, but you did not say one word of the learning and literature of Ireland." The rebuke set the young priest thinking and from that day he has been a leader in the fight for the preservation of the Irish tongue.

Great Drop in Emigration.

Emigration from Ireland shows a great drop so far this year. The latest return shows that the emigration in August last year only amounted to 3,742 persons as compared with 7,922 last year, and for the eight months ending August 31 the total was only 28,322 compared with 40,000 in the corresponding period last year.

The king is selling off his estates in Ireland, according to an official report just issued. On July 15 last he sold his estate at Carrigan, Inishowen, consisting of three acres, three trees, thirty perches, for $5,000 to the Congested District Board for Ireland, and during the present year two other estates have been sold by his majesty for $5 and $5, respectively. This reduces his total holdings in Ireland to about 200 acres. The income from the Irish estates last year was about $100,000. Some of them are very valuable town property.

The Dublin corporation has refused to license a number of motor cabs for use in the streets of the city, and the Jarveys have thus scored another victory. A few months ago they succeeded in driving the motor omnibuses off the streets. The reason assigned by the corporation for its action was that the Jarveys were "a very despicable class of men who did not deserve a license."

Contest on Franklin Field Proves Fine Exhibition of Foot Ball Tactics.

FRANKLIN FIELD, PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21.—The weather cleared off during the morning and at 2:30 p. m. the hour scheduled for the game to begin, the conditions were good for foot ball. A stiff wind from the east blew straight down the field. There were more than 20,000 persons in the great enclosure when the teams came on the gridiron.

Several line plays failed to gain for Pennsylvania and an on-side kick rolled to the Indians five-yard line, where Braddeck fell on it. Two plays put the leather over the Indian goal, Manier carrying the ball. Scarlett kicked the goal. Score: Pennsylvania, 6; Indiana, 0.

After Thorpe had failed on a try at field goal from the thirty-five yard line after the kick-off, the ball frequently exchanged hands. Spectacular end runs and brilliant tackling by both teams were features.

Neither side could do much through the line and many plays had to be resorted to. In the kicking duel, Holmbeck out-punted Thorpe. Each side sprang trick plays which gained only short distances, as the players of both teams were on the alert.

TAFT TO GOMPERS

Labor Leader is Accused of Misrepresenting His Decisions.

CHARGES DEMAGOGIC WIND

Injunctions Issued by Candidate Stamped Out No Rights.

INDIANA TOUR IS RESUMED

First Address Made to Great Crowd at Richmond.

WORD TO FARMERS EVERYWHERE

Former National Chairman New and State Chairman Goodrich Accompany Him—Address Tonight at Gary.

RICHMOND, Ind., Oct. 24.—The Taft special left Indianapolis at 7 o'clock this morning for a tour northward in the states which ends tonight at Gary. Former National Chairman Harry S. New and State Chairman Joseph P. Goodrich accompanied Mr. Taft today, as did Judge L. G. Monk of the state supreme court, Judge D. W. Cornstock and former Civil Service Commissioner William Dudley Soule. Judge Taft continued short talks to farmers wherever stops were made.

"Mr. Gompers wants to know what I am charging him with," asserted Judge Taft in his address to the thousands who pressed to hear him at this place and in the answers, the question in this manner:

"I am charging him with misrepresenting the effects of my labor decisions. He asserts that by the injunctions I issued the rights of laboring men were stamped out. I say that is unbecomingly demagogic wind. Instead of being called an enemy labor, I certainly am entitled to be called a benefactor of labor. I say as it fell to my lot to lay down the rules of law upon which the trades organizations in this country have increased in the last decade to the usefulness to themselves and to society and obtained the power which they are now exercising."

WINCHESTER, Ind., Oct. 24.—After being driven through the throngs in the streets of this town, Mr. Taft, standing in his automobile, paid his respects to Mr. Bryan as an inspirer of confidence. He said: "Orders are being made today contingent on the election of the republican ticket, although Mr. Bryan would have you think those are not all of them. Mutual organizations, Business men don't—up nights thinking how to make checks which shall affect the election, but it is because they really believe that the November election is going to determine whether we shall go back to the prosperity of more than a year ago, or whether we shall go down to that natural limitation of democratic panics and four years of depression, and why should it not be so? What is in the record of the democratic candidate to commend him to men who have the control of investing capital as insuring a business certainty and a future?"

"What is there in his record tending to show that he is a sound economic theory when he hears it or sees it? What is there to lead conservative business men to believe that he would, should opportunity come and a stringency attack us, make an executive order, which he might do, that should put us on practically a silver basis? The investment of money in controlled and patriotic, but on strictly business principles, and the men who advance it live in Europe and in this country and they know Mr. Bryan. They cannot help having known him for the last twelve years as we know him. And I submit to you, ladies and gentlemen, republicans and democrats, whether anything could happen in the history of the country that would render the business future of the country so uncertain and therefore so little likely to inspire confidence as his election to the presidency."

MACK REVIEWS SITUATION

Democratic Chairman Says Bryan Will Receive 301 Electoral Votes.

RESULT NO LONGER IN DOUBT

All the Solid South and More Than Half the North Are Claimed for the Nebraska Candidate for President.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—National Chairman Mack authorized a statement today in which he claimed the election of William J. Bryan by a landslide. He announced that his reports showed that Mr. Bryan would receive at least 301 electoral votes, or fifty-nine more than is necessary for a choice.

"The rumblings and thunder of the Bryan landslide in the west are already heard in the eastern states, and today I can confidently predict the election of Mr. Bryan. That a landslide in the west will extend to the shores of the Atlantic. It means the democratic national ticket will carry every doubtful state in this section, and in rock-ribbed republican districts the majorities of that party in recent years will be reduced to a minimum. Basing my forecast on the most conservative lines, in view of the optimistic reports I have received from all sections of the country, I figure that Mr. Bryan will have at least 301 votes or fifty-nine more than is necessary for a choice. This comfortable majority will be increased rather than decreased when the vote is counted."

"In addition to the 196 votes of the solid south and in this I include Maryland, I am confident that Mr. Bryan will carry New York, New Jersey, Idaho, Montana, Colorado, Nebraska, Nevada, Indiana, Ohio, Delaware, Kansas and South Dakota, a total of 201 votes. All over the country there is a change of 50 to 60 per cent in the Roosevelt vote of 1904 to Mr. Bryan."

Says New York is Safe.

"The result is no longer in doubt in New York. The thirty-nine votes in the state are assured for Mr. Bryan. He will win by a substantial plurality. The Empire state can no longer be included in that territory called 'the enemy's country.' I speak from information gained from a thorough canvass by representatives of every county in the state."

"From Connecticut I have received very encouraging reports. Judge Robertson, the democratic candidate for governor, will carry the state by about 20,000 plurality. This is not an extravagant statement when you take into consideration the fact that the tremendous republican majorities of 80,000 in 1904 and 60,000 in 1906 were reduced to 7,000 in the gubernatorial contest in 1907. Mr. Bryan's four of the state on Friday last and the ovation he received spelled victory to my mind. The disunionists of the republican party in West Virginia and the swing of the labor vote in that state to Mr. Bryan are powerful factors for his success."

"Delaware, we expect to win. The people are not with resounding against a party branded with Dupontism."

Ohio and Indiana.

"In Ohio and Indiana every element is working for our success, and despite the great republican majorities of previous years I am confident that both states will be in the democratic column. They are for Bryan today, and there is no reason for believing that the next week will witness a change of sentiment. Eighty per cent of the labor vote in both states, and fully as large a percentage of the German population are for Bryan. Illinois is doubtful, with the chances for Mr. Taft, but if he wins it will be by a greatly reduced plurality."

"The Pacific coast states all show a Bryan trend and a disgust at the extravagant, destructive policies of Mr. Roosevelt. In each, particularly in Oregon, state issues are an important factor."

"The mountain states, from information I have received within forty-eight hours, will, I am confident, be counted in the Bryan column."

"In fine, I figure at the present time Mr. Bryan will have at least 301 electoral votes. I include in my estimate the following states:
