AS "FIGHTING BOB" TELLS IT

What Really Happened on the Mayflower Before the Fleet Sailed. The president had decided that he would come to Fort Sumner in the Mayflower to review the fleet, say goodbye to the officers and men, and see a bit of our long cruises—no honor which every officer and man felt deeply and duly appreciated.

As I passed over the gangway, I was met by the president and greeted by him in his usual hearty and courteous manner. A battery of cameras clicked and snapped as Mr. Roosevelt gave me a few last instructions, and I am sure no expression of his face or mine escaped these energetic workers, who, in pursuit of their calling, often make themselves most annoying. For the first time I was authorized by the president to say to the officers and men of the fleet that after a stay of a few months in the Pacific the fleet would return to an Atlantic port via the Suez canal.

Waterproof Matches

Perhaps some of your readers would be interested to know that I have found a simple, inexpensive way to waterproof matches. This same method of waterproofing being taken that it was as good as possible. I dipped a few ordinary paraffine coated matches into a solution of kerosene and water, and after withdrawing them and allowing them to cool it was found that they scratched almost as easily as before being coated with the wax. Several were held under water for six or seven hours and all of them lighted as easily as before immersion. When the match is scratched the paraffine is first rubbed off and the match lights in the usual way. Matches treated as above would be very useful on camping or canoeing trips, as they do not require moisture. Since more rubbing is required to light them than the ordinary match it would be practically impossible to set them

Supply of Lobsters

Pleasant news for lovers of lobsters comes from the Maine coast. The Kennebec Journal reports the supply unusually large for this time of year and prices not exorbitant. On one day recently in Portland there were 75,000 of the much desired crustaceans ready for shipment to Broadway and other centers of consumption. The continued warm weather this fall, says the Journal, has given the fishermen plenty of opportunity to catch the fish, as they have not been forced to remain ashore by heavy seas or high winds. It has also been a very profitable year for the lobster fisherman, as they have had little gear and their boats have not been damaged by severe weather, an expense which is always heavy during the fall gales. There is hardly a day now but that 15,000 or 16,000 lobsters arrive in Portland.
