

NO ESTIMATES ON THE VOTE

Chairmen of Party Committees Both Decline to Give Out Figures.

ONLY CLAIMS ARE ON CONGRESS

Democrats Insist They Have a Fighting Chance in Five of the Eleven Districts in the State—Students Urged to Vote.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

DES MOINES, Oct. 30.—(Special.)—The chairmen of both the republican and democratic state committees have announced they will not under any circumstances give out any "estimates" on the vote of Iowa next week.

At the assembly of the State university yesterday it developed that there were fully 500 Taft men to about fifty democrats.

The assembly was turned into a political meeting and R. Otteson of Davenport spoke for Taft and H. H. Smith for Bryan.

Chairman Price of the democratic committee, when asked the question direct, refused to make a claim that Bryan will carry Iowa.

Something of a sensation in politics was created today by the discovery that some of the railroad employees at Iowa City are receiving in their envelopes on "railroad business" along with instructions as to operation of trains.

Chairman Price of the democratic committee, when asked the question direct, refused to make a claim that Bryan will carry Iowa.

REPUBLICANS OUT IN FORCE

Washington Hall Again Crowded by an Enthusiastic Audience.

POINTERS ON BANK GUARANTY

Senator Brown, General Manderson, A. W. Jeffers and Others Speak—Governor Challenges the Democrats.

An even larger audience than that of Tuesday evening in the same place last night cheered Governor Sheldon, Senator Norris Brown and former Senator Manderson at Washington hall with an even greater enthusiasm than at the previous meeting.

Senator Brown devoted the major portion of his address to shattering the bank guaranty theory.

"Look at it from the depositors' standpoint," said he, "you put your money in a bank in your home town, where you may learn of the condition of the bank, where you know the men with whom you are dealing.

"Contrast this with what the republican party offers. That party favors the establishment of postal savings banks, so that every postmaster may become a bank cashier for the people and with the government, not a bank, behind your deposit and paying interest on that deposit."

General Manderson paid considerable attention to Bryan in his remarks, saying that he had generally respected and sometimes admired the democratic candidate, particularly for his matchless gift of making pleasing, plausible arguments in behalf of wild vagaries.

The speaker then reviewed the career of Mr. Taft and spoke with a lawyer's appreciation and feeling of Taft's declination of a position in the supreme court of the United States.

Following General Manderson, S. C. Barnes and Harry A. Foster, candidates for the legislature from Douglas county, spoke briefly and then A. W. Jeffers took the stage for a short address.

Challenge to Democrats. Governor Sheldon was the last speaker of the evening and he devoted most of his speech to an explication of the election law, unfair charges and misrepresentations of his administration by his opponent and the land tax question.

With respect to national issues he spoke at length on the tariff and the question of its revision. "Suppose," said he, "that Mr. Bryan should be elected, which will not happen. Suppose, if you can again stretch your imagination to such a distance, that a democratic lower house should be chosen, who we then have a cold perspiration along the destructive lines which the democracy favors?"

"Not at all. The senate contains too many men, both republican and democratic, who are opposed to Bryan's kind of revision. Two years ago by of uncertainty about agitation in the business and manufacturing world."

"Mr. Bryan cried for more senators and a new house favorable to his scheme. Still more agitation and uncertainty. And again when he is pleading for a re-election. The business world is still waiting for an end of agitation and an end of uncertainty."

But elect Taft and what will happen? The job will be over to next summer. John L. Kennedy was the principal speaker at another enthusiastic meeting last night at the North Omaha Baptist church, Sixteenth and Ogden streets.

The hall was crowded to the doors and the addresses of Mr. Kennedy, Hugh A. Myers, T. A. Hollister and others caused the greatest enthusiasm.

INNOCECE IS UNRELIABLE Does Not Always Save the Accused From Giving Himself Away.

"Detectives talk a lot about people's actions betraying guilt," said the man in the smoking car, "but I am here to say that a sensitive person who knows he is suspected or may be suspected of some crime, not only may in a very guilty manner, but even may feel as if he had committed the crime in question."

"One time when I was a terribly unsophisticated country lad a man came to our home to board while he looked for timber in the vicinity. The man's name was Thompson, and he wanted the sort of wood that would make spokes for a wheel factory in Portsmouth. He was a sociable, likable sort, gentle in his manners and entertaining in his speech.

"That was the last we ever saw of Thompson. To us it was as if the earth had opened and swallowed him. "Now, of course, there might have been a thousand and one reasons why he did not return. He might have been taken ill. He might have had orders from his house to go to some more promising field. He might have lost his job. The list could be extended indefinitely. But to me, a wild-eyed, imaginative boy, not one possible reason occurred to account for the disappearance of Thompson. Thompson, I told myself, had been killed, no doubt. "From brooding over the thing I began
