MAJORITY AT SOUTH OMAHA

City Treasurer's Report Shows Large Balance to Credit of the City.

MAJOR PART IN THE SEWER FUND

Frank McGrath Has Arm Amputated as the Result of an Accident in the Union Pacific Yards.

The city treasurer's report shows $33,539.51 received during the month of October, and disbursements amounting to $40,032.59. This leaves a net balance in the treasury amounting to $289,973.16.

Although the above balance is so large it does not represent the amount of money applicable to the general expenses of the city government. Most of the money is in the sewer funds. In fact, $236,029.56 is to be spent in completing the sewer work. This money is to be applied as follows: Mud creek sewer, $128,253.50; Jetter creek sewer, $48,981.78; N street gulch, $16,250.95; north branch of N street gulch, $13,474; Twenty-first street, $5,534.28; Highland Park, $12,875.

These expenditures will leave $132,178.54 in the city funds. Nearly $60,000 of this is in the special improvement funds. The balance represents the cash on hand from the collections of the new levy which fell due October 1, and the amounts remaining unexpended from the former months. The major portion of the levy will be collected before January 1.

Quiet Month for Police

Judge Callinan made his report for the month of October, 1908, which shows one of the quietest months in the annals of South Omaha, 163 people being brought to judgment. Of this number of men he dismissed seventy, sentenced thirty-five to the city jail, fifteen to the county jail, suspended the sentences of six, continued three, granted appeal in two. In thirty-two cases fines were imposed and the collections from that source amounted to $207.

For the first time in years a whole month passed without a case arising in which the defendant was bound over to the district court. This is explained, however, from the fact that the grand jury was in session and they took charge of the suspected cases and brought the several indictments which arose in South Omaha.

Poer for Police

Captain J. C. Trouton was thunderstruck Thursday morning by the question of Mrs. Frank McGrath over the telephone. It was: "What shall I do with my husband's arm? Will you come and take it?" The officer thought this was the newest thing in jokes, but continued his inquiry. He found that Frank McGrath's arm was indeed off and required taking by the police. He said he thought he had no concern, but referred the woman to G. H. Brewer, the acting coroner. It was found that her husband had undergone an operation at the South Omaha hospital during the night and she had asked for the arm. When she got it home she did not know what to do with it. The coroner said he had no instructions to give in such a case. The police advised the woman she might have it buried by making arrangements with the sextons of the cemetery.

The accident by which Frank McGrath lost his arm occurred in the Union Pacific yards in Albright. He was struck by a northbound engine and knocked down, the wheels almost severing the arm. He was brought to Lower N street and taken to the South Omaha hospital in the ambulance. There the operation was performed and the arm turned over to Mrs. McGrath at her request. The hospital granted the most unusual request. McGrath is a strong man and not over middle age. Little could be learned of the circumstance. He lived at Twenty-fourth and Polk streets. He was said by the train crew to have been trespassing on the right-of-way.

The woman, according to the reports of the police, will be in destitute circumstances while her husband is recovering. There are several children, with little food, scant clothing and only a scrap of coal. A cold day would make the family suffer.

The matter will be brought to the attention of some of the charitable institutions of the city. An investigation will probably show what is actually needed.

MAN DIES WHILE AT HIS WORK

William R. Hardy Succumbs to Apoplexy at Fifteenth and Martha Streets.

Immediately after William R. Hardy felt weak and nervous while working, he fell dead of apoplexy at the corner of Fifteenth and Martha streets, about 9 o'clock Friday morning.

Hardy roomed at a rooming house at 718 north Nineteenth street, conducted by Mrs. Green, and was setting out trees in a yard at 1412 Martha street, he being an agent for the Shenandoah Nursery company of Shenandoah, Ia. Upon feeling weak he went to a saloon at 2022 south Sixteenth street, where he took a drink, and was returning when he fell dead. Dr. Kukul was passing in his buggy and saw the man fall, but when the body was reached by the doctor, life was extinct.

Because the man was unknown in the neighborhood, a false report about a man named Shanahan being dead, began to circulate, as Hardy had that name on his linen. Officer Morgan went out from the police station on the emergency motorcycle and investigated the case. Coroner Brewer took charge of the body and will hold an inquest at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. The man is between 50 and 55 years old, and none of his relatives has been located as yet.

BOYD HOST TO BOTH TEAMS

Manager Monaghan Invites Nebraska and Ames to Attend the Theater.

Manager Ed J. Monaghan of the Boyd has extended an invitation to both the Nebraska and Ames football teams to occupy boxes at the Boyd Saturday night after the game which will be played at Dietz park. Ames will occupy the boxes on one side and Nebraska the other, and the boxes will be decorated with the college colors. Tim Murphy, who is with his company at the Boyd, is a lover of the great college sport, and as soon as he heard of the game extended the invitation for the teams to see his play. It will be college night at the Boyd, and the students from both colleges will vie with each other in shouting their yells back and forth across the theater.

Best Medicine

Says a Doubting Thomas

"I Am Convinced That Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the Best Medicine I Have Ever Taken. I Say This With Due Deliberation After the Use of Two Bottles."—Chas. E. Getchell, Webb Mills, Maine.

Mr. Getchell, Like Thousands of Others, Who Have Been Greatly Benefited by the Use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, Cannot Say Too Much in Praise of This the World's Greatest Medicine. On November 18, 1907, Mr. Getchell Wrote as Follows:

"After due deliberation, having used two bottles of Duffy's Malt Whiskey, I am convinced that it is the best medicine that I have ever taken. At first I was doubtful, but I doubt no more, for I can truly say to you and to the world that its use has improved my health so much I feel like a new man. For the past five years I have been able to work but little, with pains in my kidneys and bladder. I suffered continually, and until I began taking your Malt Whiskey I got no relief, but since then I have been growing better every day. You cannot imagine how happy I am to be able once more to walk three or four miles without any of the old trouble, and I sincerely thank you for calling my attention to your valuable medicine, and be assured I shall always keep it in the house. If anyone wishes to write me concerning it I shall be glad to answer. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain, great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus destroying the germ and producing a predigested liquid food in the form of a malt essence, which is the most effective tonic stimulant and invigorator known to science; softened by warmth and moisture, its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

If weak and run down, take a teaspoonful four times a day in half a glass of milk or water. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is sold throughout the world by druggists, grocers and dealers, or shipped direct for $1.00 a large bottle. If in need of advice, write Consulting Physician, Duffy Malt Whiskey Company, Rochester, New York, stating your case fully. Our doctors will send you advice free, together with a handsome illustrated medical booklet containing some of the many thousands of gratifying letters received from men and women in all walks of life, both old and young, who have been cured and benefited by the use of the world's greatest medicine.

NEW CAFE IS DEDICATED

First Formal Function in Tolf Hanson's Magnificent New Place

NEWSPAPER MEN THE GUESTS

Affair a Most Pleasant One and Proprietor is Giving for His Enterprise in Growing City Such a Place.

One of the most elaborate and yet most enjoyable and delightfully informal functions ever given in Omaha was the dinner last night at the Hanson cafe, given by Tolf Hanson in honor of the newspaper profession.

This dinner virtually marked the formal opening of the "Cafe Beautiful," and was attended by fifty of the men connected with the editorial and advertising departments of the Omaha newspapers.

ately in the rear of the public dining room on the second floor of the new cafe was the scene of the gathering. The table, oval in shape, surrounded by a massive bank of flowers and potted plants, palms, ferns, chrysanthemums, in almost tropical profusion, while the table was strewn with interlacing vines and cut flowers.

Promptly at 8 o'clock the guests assembled and took their places, and for two hours discussed the most elaborate and select menu which Mr. Hanson and his chefs could devise. At one end of the table sat Carl E. Herring, the toastmaster, with the host of the evening at his right. Immediately next to these were Charles C. Rosewater and T. W. McCullough of The Omaha Bee, and on each side and all around sat the representatives of the other papers and periodicals of the city. Social intercourse and friendly chat filled the time until the last course on the menu was disposed of, when the toastmaster arose and introduced the first speaker of the evening, Congressman Gilbert M. Hitchcock. Mr. Herring, as toastmaster, set the keynote of the various remarks which followed from the other speakers by telling a few humorous anecdotes and congratulating the host on the success of his lifelong efforts to give Omaha a restaurant to which the city and the west can point with pride.

Common Ground for All.

Mr. Hitchcock followed the humorous lead of the toastmaster in his opening remarks, referring wittily to the last unpleasantness and to the advantages which follow from men of different parties and competitors in similar lines of business, meeting together and finding out that after all they have much common ground on which to stand and many mutual interests, one of the most apparent being the wish and endeavor to uphold Omaha. He spoke of the enterprise of Mr. Hanson in establishing such a cafe as a distinct triumph for the city. He elaborated on the bond which unites all the business interests of a city in an endeavor for the common good and referred glowingly to the opportunities which Omaha now presents to the energetic business man and of the growth and development which will come in the next few years.

Charles C. Rosewater followed Mr. Hitchcock, beginning his remarks with an anecdote which brought forth much laughter and continued in a humorous vein which kept everyone in the best of spirits. He gave some interesting reminiscences of the Omaha of today and the city as it was in his boyhood, with special reference to the restaurants of that time in that part of the city which is now given over to the wholesale district, and compared them to the new cafe, congratulating Mr. Hanson upon his enterprise and business courage.

One of his remarks which brought out much applause was that the opening of this cafe was one of the events which proves that Omaha has taken its proper rank among the cities, not only of the west, but also of the entire country.

Mr. Uhl of the News responded to the call of the toastmaster with a few remarks mostly humorous, but also serious in part, as he dwelt on the enterprise of the business men of the city as its chief asset.

Literature and Good Living. T. W. McCullough, managing editor of The Bee, was the next speaker. Like his predecessors he began his remarks with some witty shots directed at some of the other speakers which called forth much laughter, but he also mentioned the connection which has always existed between newspaper men and men of letters and an enjoyment of the good things of life, remarking that the growth of English literature was coexistent with the growth of the nation in a material way and with its disposition and ability to appreciate the enjoyment which comes from such a gathering as this one.

He also referred to Mr. Hanson as the friend of the printer and newspaper men from the time when the host began in life by furnishing lunches to the men in the composing room of The Bee, through all his progress and business growth until the present time.

Charles H. Pickens followed briefly, congratulating Mr. Hanson on the success which was crowned with his present enterprise and expressing the hope of his friends that this is but the beginning of his real work in his chosen line.

Robert Manley was the next speaker. He spoke with special reference to the advertising feature of the new enterprise in its broadest sense, as an advertisement for the city. He also made some jocular references to others of the speakers which were greatly enjoyed.

Victor Bender of the Nonpareil and Victor Rosewater, editor of The Bee, were also on the program for addresses, but both were out of the city.

The evening closed with a toast to the host which was drunk standing, the guests pledging friendship and good will as well as good wishes for the future to the man who had made the evening possible.

Those Who Were There.

Those who sat around the board as shown on the specially engraved and artistic menu cards were: Gustave Anderson, Wm. T. Bourke, Emil Brandels, James E. Brady, Fred Carey, Clement C. Chase, Charles R. Courtney, William C. Crounse, Henry Dooley, George J. Duncan, Rev. Peter Gannon, George H. Gillespie, Stanley G. V. Griswold, Tolf Hanson, Stanley H. Hartman, Henry A.
