"I Have the Fullest Confidence in the Efficacy of Per-u-na."

RUDOLPH B. SCHWICKARDI.

WAR VETERAN'S TRIBUTE TO PER-U-NA.

Rudolph B. Schwickardi, Capt. 39th N. Y. Vol. Inf., writes from 1818 G. St. N. W., Washington, D. C., as follows: "Having the fullest confidence in the efficacy of Per-u-na, both as a tonic and as a remedy for catarrhal trouble, I commend its use in the strongest possible terms. It should be in every household."

War Left Ailments.

Mr. William J. Lee, 301 Morgan St., St. Louis, Mo., member Frank P. Blair Post No. 1, Grand Army of the Republic, and ex-Commander of the U. S. S. Benton, Miss. Squadron, writes: "The war left me with a complication of stomach, liver and kidney troubles, and I decided to take Per-u-na for my affliction. I began to use it about five years ago at the earnest solicitation of some friends. At that time I was only able to be up about half of the time, and my health was simply miserable. I consider a bottle off and on is a preventive."

"I certainly do endorse your remedy, and am glad to do so."

Helped From Chronic Catarrh.
Capt. Lemuel M. Hutchinson, Montpelier, Vt., writes: "It gives me pleasure to write you this letter at this time on account of the good your Per-u-na has done me when I was quite done up with a very bad cold."

CITY OFFICIAL IS INDICTED

John Hasburg, South Omaha Councilman, Charged with Bribery.

DENIES IT AND SAYS IT WAS LOAN

Grand Jury Returns Bill Because He Accepted $25 from Clifton Carpenter in Connection with Certain Claims.

John Hasburg, a democratic councilman in South Omaha, has been indicted by the county grand jury on charges of soliciting and receiving bribes in connection with claims and contracts against the city. Two indictments were returned against him and Mr. Hasburg appeared in court Saturday morning and gave bonds. In both cases John J. Ryan acting as his surety.

The first indictment charges that Hasburg, as a member of the city council solicited and received from Clifton Carpenter $25 by telling him it would be necessary for him to give up that amount in order to have his claim for labor on the new city jail building allowed. This, it is alleged, took place July 20.

A second indictment charges Hasburg solicited and received from Moses Horwich a bribe of $5. Horwich was one of the bidders for a quantity of old iron which was to be sold as junk. It is asserted in the indictment that Hasburg told Horwich it would be necessary for him to pay him $5 in order to secure the acceptance of his bid.

After he had been released on bond Hasburg talked guardedly about the case. "It is politics," he said. "The council is closely divided and the other faction was anxious to get control. I borrowed the money from Carpenter and his books will show that it was a loan. I intend to pay it back and have intended to all the time. It was not given as a bribe, but merely as a loan."

The indictment is the result of an inquiry made last week into the conduct of business by the city officials in South Omaha. The grand jury is said to have gone closely into the contracts for the building and furnishing of the new city jail and jail.

GRAND JUROR UNDER CHARGE

A. H. Anderson Dismissed from Service and to Be Arrested.

SEEKS TO INFLUENCE A WITNESS

Young Woman Says He Tried to Get Her Promise to Shield a Friend of His Said to Have Wronged Her.

A. H. Anderson, a member of the county grand jury, was summarily discharged from the grand jury by Judge Sears Saturday morning after a hearing lasting over an hour. Judge Sears declared the evidence showed Anderson had used his office in an attempt to shield a friend, also directed Deputy County Attorney Magney to draw up a complaint for contempt of court against Anderson and file it as soon as possible. Mr. Magney announced the complaint would be filed as soon as it could be drawn and Anderson would be taken into custody.

Anderson's hearing was the result of disclosures made by Emma Brown, an 18-year-old girl, who has been in charge of juvenile authorities for some time. Miss Brown was a witness before the grand jury last Wednesday and she is said to have given evidence against him she charged with being the cause of her waywardness.

That evening Anderson, according to his own story and the girl's, met her near Sixteenth and Harney streets and struck up an acquaintance with her. Anderson took the girl to dinner to the Heidelberg and drew her into conversation in an effort to find out the name of the man who was first responsible for her waywardness. She gave him the name of a friend of his and he took her to see this friend. There was considerable difference in the evidence as to what the conversation was when the three met. The girl asserted Anderson was seeking to protect his friend.

Miss Anderson declared his purpose was to find out the name of the man who was his friend, he said, denied any relationship with the girl two years ago when she first went wrong.

Anderson and Girl Meet.
Anderson and the girl met several times Thursday and Friday and Anderson introduced her to his wife as his ward, claiming she had been placed in his charge by one of the juvenile officers.

The girl said Anderson told her that whatever he said was private between them. She also testified Anderson had made improper advances to her which she had repulsed. Anderson denied having any improper motives and said the girl misunderstood him.

It came out during the taking of the testimony that Anderson and his brother-in-law had had a fight because his brother-in-law reproached him for being with the girl.

After listening to the evidence, Judge Sears scored Anderson and declared his action tended to bring the grand jury into contempt.

"A grand juror who goes out of the grand jury room and peddles information he receives as a grand juror is not a grand juror. Such actions tend to bring the grand jury into contempt. It is not the place of a grand juror to take a young girl who has been a witness before it to dinner to visit her late at night or take her to see a man whose name has been brought out in connection with the testimony. I find you guilty of corruption of your office for the purpose of shielding someone who might come before the jury. I dishonorably discharge you from the grand jury and your place will be filled by another."

Judge Warns Others.
Judge Sears told the other grand jurors it was their place to be very discrete in talking about things that had taken place in the grand jury room. He then directed the county attorney to prepare a contempt complaint against Anderson and file it as soon as possible.

As soon as it is filed Anderson will be arrested and tried before the criminal court on the charge. The penalty may be either a fine or a jail sentence in the discretion of the court.

OH, FOR A GUN, HE SOBBED

What an Excelsman in India Saw When He Did Have a Firearm.

A Baboo excelsman has written to his chief asking permission to carry firearms. As a result of making the request he gives the following account of a remarkable meeting with a tiger:

"On the 18th instant, at Chiplion, it became incumbent on me to leave for Katir. At about 5 p. m. we reached Pansani ghat, but I, without waiting the return of my porters, decided to cover as much distance as possible, as they were slow sailing in the horizon, but without previous knowledge of the Singhur jungle being the most tremendous in the district."

"I had not gone a mile and a half distant from Pate Lake when I was led to a great excitement of a tiger. A glance of a tiger keeping close behind a bush, at a distance of about twelve yards, with his body well flattened to the ground and balanced and waving its tail either sides, say, quite ready to make a jump over me as I reach the point of his aim. There was nothing left but to fall on my face. I caught sight of it just at the moment of venturing to my horse and stood in front of it, with my eyes fixed on it."

"The animal then, finding me so attentive as to ward off its attempt, if any, changed the firm gaze into winking, yet hanged down its neck, but was not inattentive at all."

"My horse was innocent of the occurrence for about one minute, but no sooner had it caught sight of the tiger than it ran to the other side of the road with great excitement, but its bridge was soon changed by a branch of a tree standing about twenty yards from me, which made its escape impossible."

"At this the animal heightened its position, buried under some vegetation. I think, as it was sometimes looking toward me and sometimes toward the horse, and was not slow to beat a steady retreat, with my eyes toward the tiger. In the meantime I agreed to a childish game with sense that ultimately proved a cause of relief. It was nothing but an unexpected letter from the sub-inspector of excise, for which I must not fail to thank him as well received about half an hour before my departure from Singhur, prohibiting me from waiting his coming to Katir to solve a question of border. I blew the cover to its utmost capacity, holding it in one hand and struck it against the palm of the other, followed with shouts. This made a satisfactory loud report, at which the animal was as panic-stricken as if it had been shot at, and thus gave away its death-blow attempt and cleared off with thunder-like roar. It was a chance that I was to be saved by the said process, which I must not elate."

"As the animal got out of my sight I mounted my horse with much coaxing and galloped away onward, but with redoubled fear (merely for want of firearms), expecting the reappearance of the animal every moment."—Chalcotta Statesman.

Elwood Riggs Files New Suit—Elwood Riggs, who lost out in litigation before Judge Estelle with the Columbian Optical company, of which he was manager for some time, has filed a new suit in court, claiming $50 from the company as a part of his share of the profits in the exhibits of the company at the Buffalo exposition. The company owned one-fourth of the exhibit and Riggs was to receive one-sixth of their share. He says the defendants represented his share was worth $50. After he became manager of the company he had access to the books and he asserts he learned his share was really worth $1,500. He insists for the difference.

Distinguished Artist in City—Johannes Schumacher, a distinguished artist of St. Louis, is at the Millard. He is the master of a new school in art, an unique water and china color method, in which he has become so successful that his system has been known over the country as the Schunckue. A recent issue of the magazine Humanity contained a long story of his work and life. Schumacher is a typical artist in appearance as well as manner, one to whom his art is his life; he talks in art, thinks in art—is art personified. Born in Germany he studied at the high seats of learning in Europe and went to St. Louis in 1881, but this is his first visit to what he styles "the great northwest." He will remain in Omaha for a week and perhaps longer.

She was arrested with Hayes and another negro, Chase Green of 294 North Twenty-sixth street, on complaint of a neighbor. Green rents rooms and the Mack woman lives at his house. He was charged with keeping a disorderly house, while she and Hayes were booked for disorderly conduct. The wound Hayes received is only slight, a bone of his chest saving him from a more serious cut.

HOLLYWOOD IS SOLD AGAIN

Country Place Owned by Many Persons is Bought by Edward Peterson.

"Hollywood," the farm and country place one mile from Bennington, is again in the hands of a new owner, having been sold for $16,000 by Inez Callahan to Edward Peterson. This is the property originally improved by E. S. Reed, for whom it is named, and who finally sold it to the United States National bank.

C. W. Hamilton, then connected with the bank, took it over and made it his country home for a time. Mr. Reed had bought the property considerably, besides building a beautiful home on the tract, which is 100 acres in extent. Hamilton also improved the property, but tired of it and sold it to Frank H. Kennard, who disposed of it to William Kruger through the A. L. Reed company, the consideration in the deal being $11,000. Kruger in his turn sold it to a man named Becker, from whom the Callahans bought it.

By reason of the beauty of the place and also because it has been sold and resold so many times, there is probably no country property in the vicinity of Omaha which is better known to real estate men.

Another transaction of interest in the sale by the Dundee Realty company, which is largely George & Co., of 1st St. in Fairview, the consideration being $12,000. George Redick has bought the property at Thirty-eighth and Davenport streets for a price not announced from J. F. Coud.
