Negotiations looking to the settlement of these suits have been pending for some time. C. J. Chinn of Colorado Springs, we of the attorneys for the Portland Gold Mining company, has been in the city for the last two days conferring with Congress man W. I. Smith and State Senator C. G. Saunders, the local attorneys for the company, and County Attorney J. J. Hess and Harl & Tinley, special counsel for the

A number of the original cases were consolidated and on the result of this trial the outcome of the entire attempt of the county to tax the corporation stock practically depended. Since the hearing before the court briefs have been filed by counsel on both sides from time to time and no decision had been handed down by the court. The transcript covered 700 pages and the briefs 300 pages more. Statement by Attorneys.

Charles M. Harl, one of the special counsel for Pottawattamie county in this litigation, made the following statement when the settlement was announced and the formal order issued by Judge Greene in accordance with the terms of the compromise:

At different times during the progress of the litigation suggestions of possible settlement have been made by the mining company, but the offers were such that company, but the offers were such that they could not be considered by the county. Recently, however, the matter of possible compromise was again taken up. The Portland Gold Mining company made an offer of $20,990 cash in settlement of the tax cases against it, which proposition was by the board accepted and consummated by a judgment for that amount. The assessment was based upon the highest also by a judgment for that amount. The assessment was based upon the highest sales of Portland stock for each of the years covered by assessment. The value of the stock fluctuated very greatly during these years and the court would probably, in view of all the circumstances and the doubtful character of the case, fix the assessment at the lowest value of stock for each year, which would have cut the claim of the county from one-shird to oneclaim of the county from one-third to one-half. In addition to that there would have been assessment of something like $1.000,000 leducted from the value of the stock, the issessment made against the real estate of the company in Colorado, this assessment under the statute being deducted from the value of the stock for assess-tution, a decision against them would have been appealed to the supreme court of the United States, which could not have been determined for something like three years. Then, in view of the fact that all of the property of the Iowa corporation had been transferred to the Port-land Gold Mining company of Wyoming, it would have required a suit in the courts of Wyoming to enforce that judgment, in which would be presented other claims inwhich would be presented other claims in-volving the effect of the federal consti-tution protecting in each state the judg-ments of every other state, that case could have been appealed to the supreme court of the United States with like delay. volved, it would have been from five to seven years before the cases could have been finally determined and there was the possibility of defeat at any stage of the litigation, and after a large amount of money had been invested in costs and Oxpenses.

In view of the fact that the Board of Supervisors, while having abiding confidence in the justness and legality of the dain of the county, deemed it better to scept $20,000 in cash than invest a large mount in costs and expenses with the hances of litigation and the certainty f a long period of time before anything ould be utilized. There was also the ould be utilized. There was also the orger that during the litigation the Port-nd mines, which have been in operation om ten to thirteen years, might be exhich the claim of the county could be callzed. In view of all of these facts, be Board of Supervisors concluded that a sin settlement for $20,000 would be more etisfactory to the taxpayers of the county on risking other money in this protracted paid in the litigation, the county does not receive much out of the settlement. Harl & Tinley under their contract with the county were to receive 15 per cent of whatever amount might be recovered through the tax suits into the county treasury. They will therefore receive $3,000 out of the $20. 000. Fleener & Schleicher, who were working under a 15 per cent contract with the county, "discovered" that the Portland company had not been assessed. They will receive $3,000 and this will then leave $16,000 to be apportioned among the state, county, city and school district. The city will get the largest share, something in the neighborhood of $8,000, while the county's proportion will be not more than $2,000.

Ten Million Pounds More for Iowa Than in Previous Years.

Trend is Toward Larger Central Plants Located in Cities-Sale of Oleo in the State on the Increase.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 19 .- (Special.)-The production of creamery butter increased in Iowa last year 10,000,000 pounds and the number of creameries decreased by forty-two, leaving a total of 552. This shows the remarkable change taking place in the creamery business by the abnormal growth of the concentrating stations. These figures are from the annual report of Hon-Herbert R. Wright, state dairy and pure food commissioner, for the year ended the first day of the present month.

The total number of pounds of butter made at the creameries and stations in the year, as reported, was 101,552,063. It was of an approximate value of $25,000,000. There are 100,000 patrons of these creameries and more than 800,000 cows furnish the milk. The business is being centered in the large cities where the stations are located that buy cream and ship long distances. About one-third of all the butter made them. There are now three condensed milk factories in the state-at Perry, Waverly and West Liberty.

The sale of oleo is evidently on the indealers in the state, and the commissioner estimates the number will soon be doubled The courts of Iowa have established that oleo "of a yellow color" cannot be sold in Iowa even as oleomargarine, hence most of that sold in Iowa is especially white in

The dairy commissioner makes a strong practical value, since all the inspectors can do is to catch the milk just as it goes to the customer.
