MORTGAGE TO COVER BONDS

Instrument Filed by Nebraska Traction & Power Company.

ISSUE IS OVER ONE MILLION

Mortgage Covers All the Franchise Rights of Concern Organized to Operate in and Around Town of Ralston.

To cover a proposed bond issue of $1,300,000 the Nebraska Traction and Power company, which is organized to operate in and around the town of Ralston, has filed a blanket mortgage with the register of deeds and the county clerk.

The mortgage runs to the Midland Guarantee and Trust company, as trustee for the bondholders. The bond issue will be dated October 15, 1908, and the bonds, though issued in different denominations, will be of the face value of $1,000, $500 and $100.

The mortgage sets out specifically these franchises which have been acquired by the company and which are covered by the mortgage:

- 1. The franchise granted by the county board to Shimer & Chase for the right to use Q street for the franchise of the South Omaha to Ralston for a street railway track.
2. A franchise granted to William D. Crist for an electric light, power and street railway company in Papillion.
3. A franchise for an electric light, power and street railway plant in Ralston.
4. A franchise to operate a street railway system in Ralston.
5. A franchise to operate a telephone and telegraph system in Ralston.

Covers Other Property. Besides these franchises the mortgage covers right-of-way and other real estate in Ralston owned by the company and its personal property. Besides this it includes personal property it was necessary to file it with the county clerk as well as with the register of deeds.

One of the conditions of the mortgage is that beginning October 15, 1910, and annually thereafter, from 2 to 4 per cent of the net earnings shall be set aside to provide a sinking fund with which to reduce the principal of the bond issue.

The mortgage is signed by Mel Chl, president, and J. F. Emmet, secretary of the company.

William D. Crist, general manager of the company, said last night the company had already disposed of about $50,000 worth of the bonds locally and would put the rest on the market from time to time as the property is developed.

The first work of the company, he said, would be the building of an electric line from South Omaha to Ralston and the building of a power plant in Ralston. This line they expect to have in operation by Christmas. Later, he said, the line will be extended to Papillion and a sub-plant located there. This will give a line about seven miles long.

SIPE'S TROUBLES ENDLESS

Man Who Lost Foot in Accident Now in Fair Way to Lose Wife.

Louis V. Sipe, deprived of his foot by an accident last winter, is now in a fair way to lose his wife. Friday afternoon he filed for divorce from Gertrude Sipe, charging her with infidelity. Last winter Sipe was working for the Omaha Ice and Cold Storage company putting up ice at Cut-off lake. His foot caught between a pulley and cable and was so badly mangled it had to be amputated. The alleged infidelity, he says, occurred last spring after the accident had laid him up. He also charges her with cruelty. The Omaha Ice and Cold Storage company recently compromised his suit for damages in district court by paying him $5,000.

CLAIMS KINGS BEAT HIM

Former Employee of Wool Men Sues, Charging Attack by Two Brothers.

Charles H. King and Leslie B. King of the Omaha Wool and Storage company are defendants in a suit for $50,000 filed in district court Friday afternoon by John N. Bauer, an expert wool sorter employed at the warehouse. Bauer says in his petition he had trouble with the Kings November 11. He alleges that Leslie King knocked him down and that both of them jumped on his face and beat and kicked him severely. His face was badly cut and bruised, he asserts, and his right eye permanently injured. Bauer says he was employed by J. A. Deifeider, vice president of the Wool association, to sort and sell his wool.

When The Blood Goes Wrong

Man Suffers in Many Places Like A City Whose Sewers Spread Disease.

When the blood of man becomes impure and the blood of his city impure, the off impurities and leaves them to fester and fester themselves through the skin, just like a city in whose sewers foul gases arise and escape up through the cellars into houses, bringing contagion and death. What a city needs is a generous flow of pure water to carry along and away the sewage which breeds death and disease. What the system needs for the blood that impure is a purifier that will stimulate the flow of the precious fluid, that will check the impurities and remove them by the flow of the blood from the system naturally, without irritation, infection and pain.

ELECTION FEE SUIT BEGUN

John E. Van Gilder and Robert Pritchard File Petitions in District Court.

Suit to test the right of election officials who served November 7, 1906, to a fee of $3 each from the county was started in district court Friday afternoon by John E. Van Gilder and Robert Pritchard. Van Gilder served on the board in one of the precincts of the Twelfth ward.

By a mutual understanding between the meeting, the city and the school board, the two latter bodies paid the election boards $2 each in 1906 and the county paid the expense of moving and setting up the voting machines as its share of the expense. Van Gilder in his petition asserts that the county should have paid the officials $3 also, and he recently filed a claim for that amount.

The county board rejected it and he has appealed to the district court. The suit will affect several hundred officials who served at the same election.

LOSS OF EYE WHILE DRUNK

For the Disaster Ford Smith Sues Saloon Keeper for Five Thousand Dollars.

For the loss of an eye in a drunken fight with two companions, Ford Smith has begun suit in district court for $5,000 against Edward A. Roehrig, the saloon keeper who sold him and his companions the liquor on which they became intoxicated. Smith says he is a speculator on the South Omaha market, earning from $100 to $300 a month. The evening of September 21, he says, he went to Roehrig's saloon at 304 North Sixteenth street, and began to drink, becoming somewhat intoxicated. Bud and George Weatherford, two brothers, were in the saloon, and he says they also drank too much. The three engaged in a fight in which Smith had his left eye injured by a kick. A few days later he had the eye removed. He says he cannot ply his trade any more and will have to go to work at common labor.

PIPE ORGAN FACTORY COMING

Stahl Company is Looking for Site for Plant in This City.

Three sites, the location of which is kept secret, are in consideration for the factory of the Stahl Church Organ company, which is about to remove to Omaha from Avon, O. E. E. Bogan, vice-president of the company, arrives this afternoon to confer with Hugo A. Stahl, who has been on the ground for some days, over the question of the site. That the company is coming is beyond all question, for announcements to the trade have been printed and mailed, and the company's new letterheads and other stationery have been prepared. The company will begin manufacturing operations at once and will bring here a large staff of skilled organ builders and mechanics. In addition to the manufacturing of pipe organs, the Stahl company will maintain a large repair and building department, and this is welcome news to Omaha church organists and choirmasters, for it has been necessary in the past often to send to Chicago for assistance, and in the event of a sudden breakdown on a festival day like Christmas or Easter, the trouble could not be obviated in time to save the day. The Stahl company, the latest addition to the long list of new Omaha manufacturing plants, was founded in Germany in 1864 by Richard Stahl, father of the three sons, who, with E. E. Bogan, are active in the conduct of the company. Manufacturing in America was begun in Ohio in 1883. The removal to Omaha is caused by a desire of better shipping facilities and because the western country is growing faster than the east. The company will be the only one, it is said, between Chicago and San Francisco manufacturing pipe organs. It makes them as low in price as $500 and from that sum up to $10,000.

JUROR GETS THIRTY DAYS

A. H. Anderson Pleads for His Family Before Sentence.

ASKS JUDGE TO GIVE HIM FINE

Tells Court He Realizes It is Worst Offense Man Could Commit, Save Murder, in Abject Humility.

Thirty days in the county jail was the sentence imposed on A. H. Anderson, the grand juror who was dishonorably discharged from the jury last week by Judge Sears when he entered a plea of guilty to contempt of court Saturday morning. Anderson pleaded for a fine instead of a jail sentence, but Judge Sears declared a money payment was not sufficient punishment to fit the offense and refused to change the sentence. Anderson not only entered a plea of guilty, but he admitted the enormity of the offense.

"I realize now, Judge, it is about the worst offense a man could commit except murder," he said in abject humility to the court. Judge Sears lectured him severely and Anderson, leaning against the judge's bench, humbly assisted the court. When Judge Sears hesitated and raked his mind to find a word strong enough to fit the situation Anderson supplied it. He assented to everything the court said in denunciation of him and meekly admitted he ought to be punished.

After pleading guilty Anderson asked the court to make the punishment a fine and give him time in which to pay it.

"I have a wife and four children to support and I would like to get off as easy as possible so I would have more money for them." "I am sorry for your family," said Judge Sears, "but I can't let that influence me in this case. Your offense was too grave. Your actions reflected on every member of the grand jury and on the administration of justice in this county and cannot be passed over lightly. A fine would not meet the conditions."

After the sentence was imposed Anderson asked for a stay of execution, but Judge Sears refused to grant it.

BARBERS STAND BY ORDINANCE

Object to Repeal of One Compelling Those Who Ply Trade to Pass Examination.

Declaring that it is heartily in favor of the present barber ordinance which requires all barbers to pass examinations as to proficiency and health before plying the trade, the Omaha Journeymen Barbers' union denounces the action of the resurrected Master Barbers' union in petitioning the city council to repeal the ordinance. The journeymen barbers have drawn up and passed resolutions asking for the retention of the present ordinance, and at the meeting of the Central Labor union last night that body backed up the barbers by adopting the following resolution:

Whereas, It has been called to the attention of this body by the Journeymen Barbers' union that an effort is being made for the repeal of an ordinance regulating the practicing of the occupation of barbering in the city of Omaha; and whereas, said ordinance has for its purpose the protection of the interests of the public as well as the legitimate barbers, by fixing the qualifications necessary to enter the practice of said trade and by providing for the enforcement of the same; therefore, be it resolved, That the Central Labor union heartily endorses the present law and the enforcement thereof and that we lend every effort to securing the enforcement of every provision therein.

NORTH SIDE WANTS KNOWN

First Meeting of New Club Formulates Plans for Public Improvement.

The building of a viaduct on Locust street from Fifteenth to Thirteenth street, the construction of a storm sewer east of Sixteenth and south of Locust street and the extending of the Sherman avenue car line on the avenue north of Commercial street one mile to Gust street were the recommendations of the North Side Improvement and Viaduct club, organized last night. The club was organized in McKenna's hall, Sixteenth and Locust streets, and the north end of the city was well represented.

Three sets of committees were appointed to look into the building of the viaduct and the storm sewer, and the extension of the car line, and another meeting will be held in two weeks, when the committees will be expected to report progress.

These officers were elected: President, Joseph Redmas; vice president, W. W. Bingham; secretary, Cornelius Farrell; treasurer, T. H. Daley.
