Girls of Central City Show Dame Fashion a Trick or Two.

WANT TO VISIT THE CORN SHOW

And There Are Plenty of "Citizens" Who Will Give Them a Cordial Welcome If They Do Come.

The directoire nown has invaded Merrick county. Central City is in the threes of excitement and the whole country side is ablaze ("alifaze" is always the verb when the "whole country-side" is spoken of). The National Corn exposition is responsible, but the National Corn exposition will not be hauled on the carpet by the League for the Inculcation of Modesty in Costume. because the directoires which have thrown Central City into a fervor are not of the style which first appeared at the Longchamps race course in that dear Paris. but the Corn show directoire kind, a garb as modest and decorous as it is striking and handsome.

At a farmers' institute held this week in Central City to arouse interest in the Corn exposition, there were a mere 2,000 people in attendance at the program and the number of corn and other grain exhibits ran into the hundreds. This was not the feature of the institute, however. Twenty comely Merrick county girls, averaging 18 years of age, appeared in the costume of the Corn exposition Indian directoire girl. a panoply of feathers garnishing the heads of the young women by being neatly in-serted at intervals in the Grecian band or fillet which circumvented their foreheads. Flowing from their shoulders in soft folds and representing the husk of an ear of corn were cloaks of yellow taffeta.

Skirts Are of Silk.

The skirts were of slik, hand painted to represent kernels of corn, and their shoes were of golden hue also. These young women, " , sang a number of choral selections, were the hit of the institute, and on their appearance Miss Flora Kelly, county superintendent of schools, was warmly congratulated, for she it was who devised and carried out the scheme.

It is hoped that the twenty will come in a body to the Corn exposition, and each and every one of the girls is "just wild" to attend, so that the scheme is in a fair way to be consummated.

"The relation of the Corn exposition to Thanksgiving day," said General Manager J. Wilkes Jones in answer to a question Thursday morning, "is as follows:

"The Corn exposition, participated in as it is by twenty-eight states, really amounts to a national expression, although a bit little belated one, of the gratitude of the American people for their immense agricultural presperity and also the expression of their determination to make the most in the future, through intelligent understanding of the problems involved, of the gigantic possibilities which are at hand."

Washington State in Line. The spirit of the Corn exposition has had no better illustration than is narrated in a letter from August Wolf, representative of the Spokane Chamber of Commerce. to a friend here. Speaking of Washington farmers entering, he says:
"Of course, you understand that our people do not expect to grab off any prizes. but we are entering the show to make it complete, believing it is one of the most valuable educational institutions that has get been instituted in the country."

The exhibits in question, Mr. Wolf writes about as follows:

You may be interested in knowing that while eastern Washington is not a corn district, some of our farmers in the Paiouse county, south of Shokane, will send exhibits to your corn exposition. December exhibits to your corn exposition. December 8 to 19, just to show what has been accomplianed by intelligent methods in this part of the country in a few years. I am informed also that the agricultural department of Washington State college, at Pullman, eighty-four miles south of Spokane, will send a representative exhibit to your big festival; which should be of interest to every agriculturist in the country.

Electricity from Colleges. Union college of Schencetady, N. Y., is to be represented at the National Corn exposition not only by banners and pennants, but also by a unique electrical display. Dr. C. P. Steinmeiz, chief consulting engineer of the General Electric company and also head of the electrical engineering department at Union, has submitted to the Western Electrical company of Omaha a description of his "scintillating aluminum red" that it may be fifted up in the Auditorium. Some of Dr. Steinnietz's mercury are lamps will be used to illuminate the Union college colors. Union college is noted for its electrical department and an effort will be made to present this fact to the thousands who attend the corn exposition. Dr. Stemmets is known as being in the very front rank of electrical investigators and inventors of the world and is in a class with Edison and Westinghouse. He has the unique distinction of having declined a "raise" in salary from the General Electric company a few years ago on the ground that he was already receiving all he needed and that care of additional money would bother him and take his mind
