ARRESTED ON MURDER CHARGE
Omaha Police Pick Up Woman Wanted at East St. Louis, Illinois.
Virginia Amos, a colored woman who is wanted in East St. Louis on a charge of murder, was arrested yesterday by Detectives Maloney and Van Dusen and is held at the police station until an Illinois officer arrives to take her back.
She was arrested at the request of the East St. Louis police, who state that she is charged with having shot and killed John Dunlap, a colored man, in that city on April 2, 1904. She was traced to this city, where she has a sister who lives at 1115 Capital avenue. The woman under arrest has not lived with her sister, however, but since her arrival in the city has worked as a domestic.
At the police station last night she refused to answer any questions and would say nothing about the charge against her. She refuses to return to East St. Louis without regulation papers. These will be secured in a few days and she will be taken back for trial.
Later in the evening the woman admitted that she fired the shot which caused the death of Dunlap. She says that she was in a fight with another colored woman, Tillie Richards by name, who is a notorious East St. Louis police character and has since served time for shooting a police officer and that she was bitten badly on the lip. A prominent scar on her lower lip, she says, was caused by this. When she got away from the woman she fired at her and hit Dunlap by mistake, killing him.

AND THE GOAT IS NO MORE

Reason, the Jimocrats Picked His Frame at Much-Talked of Banquet.

FAITHFUL COME AND PARTAKE
Goat was Not Only Thing Disposed of, However, and Banqueters Were Happy Last Night, If They Do Need Seltzer Today.

Goat meat, with the other delicacies enumerated, proved a temptation which the loyal Omaha Jimocrats were unable to resist Thursday. The now famous banquet at Nelson's saloon, Twenty-first and Cumings streets, began shortly after noon and continued until well into the night.
To say that there was a full attendance would be to perpetrate a too obvious pun, but it is estimated that more than 1,000 of the faithful registered their appearance during the afternoon and evening and part of the time the number of hungry on the outside awaiting their chance at the festal board was equal to the lucky ones who were inside doing things to the belly goat and the rest of the menu, not neglecting the last three items on the list.
The festivities reached a noisy, not to say bibulous, zenith about 5 o'clock in the afternoon when Mayor Dahlman, leader of the unaffiliated, made his appearance, took his place at the head of the table, beamed greetings on the assembled clans and pronounced the event as officially open.
Soul and Other Things Flow.
Then followed a feast of reason and flow of soul and other things which set the populace howling with enthusiasm, for he it known that when it comes to handling out the spoken word to the unaffiliated in the midst of such inspiring circumstances there are any number of Jimocrats who can go some.
J. P. Butler acted as toastmaster and after a few well chosen remarks, as is customary on such occasions, he introduced the mayor, who made a rousing speech in which he threw large and florid verbal bouquets at everybody present and absent who in any manner contributed "to our magnificent victory," or words to that effect. He referred to his candidacy for re-election and warned the hearts of his lieutenants, as well as his noncommissioned officers and privates, by promising another "magnificent and sweeping victory" in the spring.
Others who contributed to the eloquence of the occasion were Tom Flynn, Charles Shabata, Tom O'Connor, "Vance" McDonough, Colonel Charles Fanning and Robert Wolf.
Although the banquet was held in the Eighth ward there were delegations from the other wards, some of them carrying banners on which the number of their ward and their valiant deeds in the cause were suitably inscribed. The First, Second and Tenth wards marched to the scene with a combined delegation and a large banner announcing them as "The Old Reliables."
A visit last night to the impromptu banquet hall showed that after the smoke had cleared away the goat and other edibles had also been cleaned up and nothing remained but some sandwiches and a few remnants of the liquid refreshments which were being steadily disposed of by the old guard, who were making speeches beginning "Now, this is the kind of a map I am," but everybody was talking at once and there was no one to listen, also the bouncer became busy a time or two.
But it was a great day for the Jimocrats.
