Fountainville, Pa., Feb. 18, 1902.
 H. B. Hartman, M. D.
 Dear Sir: I have been thinking of writing to you for some time to let you know what Peruna did for me.
 I am 57 years old. I lost my health about six or seven years ago. I first had dyspepsia and employed different doctors.
 Last year I injured one of my kidneys. I had one of the best doctors for that. He put me to bed, not to move for two weeks.
 I slowly recovered, but was so weak and prostrated that I could walk but a short distance. In fact I had to keep quiet.
 I took several remedies, but obtained no relief. I also had catarrh in some form.
 My wife advised me to take Peruna, and it is with pleasure that I can say that by taking one and one-half bottles of your Peruna, it cured me and I feel all right. I send this with many thanks to you, as I enjoy life again.
 My wife has also been taking your Peruna for asthma and it helps to relieve her. I am constantly taking Peruna in the house constantly. Again I say I thank you for Peruna.
 Sincerely yours,
 PHILIP KRATZ.
 Fountainville, Pa., Nov. 8, 1903.
 Dr. H. B. Hartman,
 Dear Sir: I have good health now and your valuable medicine gave me good health. I have had no doctor for some time, as I do not need any. When I take cold I take Peruna and in a short time I am all right. My wife is subject to asthma. She takes Peruna at that time, and she has had no need for a doctor for some time. With many thanks for your medicine, we remain,

 Sincerely yours,
 PHILIP KRATZ.
 Fountainville, Pa., April 6, 1905.
 Dr. S. B. Hartman,
 Dear Sir: We have Peruna in the house all the time and when we think we need it, we take it. We are about sixty years old and have not called a doctor to our place for some years.
 We go out in all kinds of weather and sometimes when we go on a trip we take Peruna along. A preventive is better than a cure. That has been our experience.
 I had poor health some years ago and when I found your medicine I hit the right thing. We both thank you for your good medicine.
 Sincerely yours,
 PHILIP KRATZ.

Witness to Signatures.
 I, John Donnelly, Mayor of Doylestown, Pa., have been acquainted with Mr. Philip Kratz for 25 years. I know him to be an honorable man and useful citizen. He, in my presence, signed the above statements concerning Peruna, which I have every reason to believe are true in all particulars.

Latta is a second cousin of Congressman-elect James P. Latta.

Runaway with Cork-Legged Man.—Two runaway girls from Stuart, Ia., are being sought by the police in Omaha, as they left Thursday night on a Rock Island train and are thought to have been found for each side and has cut down the profits and traffic of the steam railroads to such an extent that in many cases the railroads, as a policy of self-preservation, have bought up competing trolley lines.

BRIGHTENING RURAL LIFE

Agencies that Have Taken from Farm Life Most Depressing Drawback.

FOUR FACTORS EACH PLAY PART

Effect of the Trolley, Telephone Motor Car and Rural Free Delivery—Big Steps at Moderate Cost.

Four factors are working together in banishing the isolation of country life. These are the interurban trolley system, the telephone, the automobile and the rural free mail delivery. When one contrasts the difficulties and semi-stagnation which so long held sway over the rural districts, with the marvelous changes which have come within comparatively a few years, the vast transformation is evident. It is, in fact, a revolution of the first importance. It has already obliterated, or is fast obliterating, the narrowness of action and movement which for innumerable ages has hampered in both rural and urban populations. It is making the pure, salutary reaches of country and forest, seashore and mountains, adjuncts of the cities. On the other hand, it is bringing the advantages of the city and town within easy distance of the country. Thus all of our population partakes of its benefits.

The Advantages of the Trolley.
 The trolley was at first confined to the cities. Then it began reaching out cautiously into the country. Presently it whizzed over the country roads and carried with it such advantages and was so successful that everywhere was seen the rapid building of interurban trolley roads. It was in Ohio and Indiana that the electric railways were first operated, and in those states they have their initial highest development. Conditions in Ohio were peculiarly favorable for the project. Ohio is a large manufacturing state and has a thriving agricultural population. So the trolley began shooting out of the cities and increased so rapidly that there are now about 1,500 miles of trolley lines in the country districts alone. The network spreads all over the state, effecting isolation wherever it reaches. Five of these lines radiate from Cleveland, six from Columbus, seven from Dayton and four from Toledo. There are six other cities which enter any of the great cities. One line has 137 of its 150 miles running through the agricultural districts. From Toledo and Cleveland you can go through all of the intermediate country to Lorain, Elyria, Wooster, Norwalk, Tremont and other places. It is the best developed best length and breadth of the state on the trolley.

Indiana soon followed Ohio's example and most of the other states were equally eager and enterprising. Some of the trolley lines branching out from Chicago and Indianapolis run 100 miles or more. But while interurban trolleys were first developed in Ohio, there are other states which now have longer systems of roads. Along with Ohio, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, New York, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, New Jersey and Virginia are some of the states which are foremost in their trolley services linking the rural regions with the cities and towns. In Massachusetts particularly it has been a very feasible undertaking to spread the trolley over the whole state. The cities lie so near one another that it has been a natural process to reach out from them along long extensions. There is scarcely a populated spot in Massachusetts which cannot be reached on the trolley. This is largely true of Connecticut, Rhode Island and New Jersey and partially so of parts of New Hampshire and Maine. In New York the first interurban trolley lines were chiefly in the upper Hudson valley, in the Mohawk valley and in the vicinity of Buffalo. But more recently great extensions have been made in many other parts of the state. One line runs a distance of nearly 100 miles from Hudson to Albany, nearly north through Saratoga and Glens Falls to Warrensburg. Plans have been made to connect the whole of the country from Albany to Buffalo with a trolley line.

Thousands of Miles.
 There are now at least 17,000 miles of trolley lines which run purely in country districts in the United States. Of course additions are constantly being made. These lines are phenomenally successful and often many a fatality. People by nature are jolly passengers, and there are the luxurious limited and buffet cars. My means of the freight and express cars the farmer can send much of his produce to town at short intervals and get back without delay. The contact with town and city life contributes greatly to their health, vigor, culture, comfort and happiness. The wearing isolation of the old days, with all of its accompanying effects, is at least partly removed.

The Telephone.
 Such other facilities which the trolley does not afford are made up by the telephone. The trolley line is the rural free mail delivery, and a country dweller that wanted to have a talk or communicate with neighbors some miles back from the line would have to walk or drive there were it not for the telephone. By means of this indispensable instrument he can now comfortably ensconce himself in his house, laugh at weather conditions, and communicate to his heart's content for a radius of many miles and frequently with distant places. The spread of the telephone in the rural districts is comparatively new. Until the expiration of the fundamental Bell Telephone patents some years ago, the telephone industry was virtually under the control of one corporation with one centralized management. During the last few years, however, many independent small multiple lines have been established. In the rural districts there are generally two kinds of telephone systems, either or both of which are in operation. One is the mutual system, which includes all systems among the persons deriving benefit from this system is primarily for the benefit of the owners, revenue being an incidental factor. The other is the independent farmer or rural line, it embraces all lines having no regular exchange or central office. The rural telephone line usually consists of one or more circuits strung through a sparsely settled rural district and connected with the various farmhouses. These rural lines frequently are operated in a simple and inexpensive way on a grounded circuit for which barbed wire fences are sometimes used. There is no elaborate apparatus of any kind, but the system is amply sufficient for all purposes of communication. Often these rural systems are connected in some manner with a mutual, or a commercial city system, and the farmer is thus enabled to make extended telephonic communication.

OPERATED THROUGH A MUTUAL MANAGEMENT

At present there are fully 2,000 of these mutual systems in the United States, with about 150,000 miles of wire. The extent in which they are used may be judged from the fact that the annual number of messages or talks on the mutual lines alone is now approximately 200,000,000, at least 175,000 of which are long-distance calls.

Motors and Mail.
 Especially in the west and southwest has the automobile come to the rescue of the farmer. It is indeed a poor country town that cannot muster half-a-dozen or more of these machines. Often they are of a type not seen in the cities, high wheeled and buggy-built, but they get over the ground just the same and answer the purpose. Automobiles are nowadays a common sight abroad flat cars on the railroads and they seem to trundle out to the middle western and southwestern states by the trainload. With the annually decreasing cost of reliable runabouts of many makes, the automobile is destined to be a very important factor in the civilization of both the deserted and desert spots of the earth.

The fourth agency which is giving the death blow to isolation is the rural free mail delivery. It is no longer necessary to wait for days or weeks to receive one's letters or newspapers or send the mail until a visit has been made to the post-office. That way is archaic in many rural sections now, and will be gone in all, or nearly all, of them soon. Bad weather or good weather, over level roads or mountain roads, the mail is brought right to the door daily.

So it is that these four factors are overcoming that dreadful isolation which has long brooded over many a rural district, causing many a depressing trouble, and often many a fatality. People by nature are social beings; they long for companionship; they ache for society. The pleasures of solitude may be pleasures as a change, for the time being, from the turmoil of crowds, but too much of a dose of it is a melancholy thing. The rural free mail delivery is definitely modified by slashes and long tail effects dangling from the shortened waist line. Now and then a gown of this type is displayed by a girl with all the grace that one could expect from a queen descended from her throne for the express purpose, but her kind are few in number.

The majority of the statuesque girls either walk or stand in an unfortunate manner anything but graceful. And to successfully wear the long cutaway garment every thought must be directed to poise. On the whole, the woman with a sense of proportion and a grain of humor will be glad to return to the inanimate model who stands the way she is put and let the admiring brook from all sides with equal perfection.

 To clean bath tubs, wash bowls and white sinks use benzine or gasoline, saturate a rag and rub all over, and then rub dry with another cloth; if they are dirty repeat. This will save labor and also the porcelain on the tub and sink; keep benzine in a glass jar and keep away from

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Sheriff Busy Serving Warrants on South Omaha Men.
RESULT OF GRAND JURY WORK
 District Convention of Baptist Young People Meets This Afternoon for Two Days' Session—Church Cornerstone Laying.

Deputy Sheriff James Chisak of South Omaha served warrants following grand jury indictments in the city hall until he was tired last night and will complete the service up to thirty-five indictments this morning. He took none of the indicted men into custody, as they were all in the hands of the police under the charge of selling tobacco to minors. The indictments involved nearly every cigar dealer in the city. They will all be forced to appear before the court and give bond for their appearance.

The indictments furnished topics for conversation among citizens to the other about the cigar stores and pool halls last night.

Paper Boys New Press.
 The Drivers' Journal-Stockman has been provided with a new press, which has a capacity of sixteen pages. The paper came out under a different caption yesterday, but it contained the same staff. It was said by members of the staff that the paper will not greatly enlarge its present scope. It is primarily a stock paper devoted strictly to the markets of which live stock is the great element. The paper has been published for many years under various combinations.

Baptist Young People's Convention.
 The Omaha district association of the Baptist Young People's union will meet in convention at the First Baptist church, South Omaha, this afternoon and continue until Sunday evening. There will be five general sessions, occupying about all the time after 2:30 p. m. today. Mrs. B. F. Fellman of Omaha will lead the opening prayer and praise service. A service for the Juniors will follow at once, being led by Miss Lena Warner of Nebraska, with appropriate songs and exercises. A social hour and supper will be enjoyed at the church, completing the afternoon. Saturday evening will be devoted to a song service at 7:30 o'clock and a welcome by Miss Mary Mann. Rev. J. W. Conley, D. D., of Omaha will make the principal address at 8:15 p. m. Sunday morning, Sunday school and sermon at the regular hours, topic, "The Vision of Youth." At 3 p. m. praise service and address by Rev. W. H. Belknap of Blair. This will be followed by roll call and messages of encouragement. Sunday evening the regular young people's meeting at 7 p. m., followed by a song service at 8 p. m. Rev. O. A. Williams, D. D., of Lincoln will deliver the closing address of the rally. His topic is "Baptist Young People and Their Responsibility." This will be followed by consecration and benediction.

Church Cornerstone Laid.
 The Christian church will observe the ceremony of laying the cornerstone of their new church at Twenty-third and I streets Sunday afternoon. The program will consist of a sermon and consecration exercises at the Presbyterian church, Twenty-fifth and J streets, at 3 p. m. Rev. S. D. Dutcher of Omaha will deliver the address. This service will be attended by the Masonic grand lodge and Beehive lodge of South Omaha, accompanied by the members of the Eastern Star. The company will march to the site of the new edifice at Twenty-third and I streets, where the ceremony of laying the cornerstone will be conducted under the auspices of the Masonic orders at 4 p. m. The church will be built of a gray artificial cement block, and when finished will be an ornament to that section of the city.

Sunday Services.
 All the churches of the city are to hold a union service at the Presbyterian church Sunday evening as one of the observances of the week of prayer for the work of the Young Men's Christian association. Rev. J. M. Bethwell of the Methodist church will preach the sermon.

"Purple and Backcloth" will be Dr. R. L. Wheeler's Sunday-morning topic. Rev. R. W. Lavers will preach from the theme, "The Great Miracle." Rev. Mr. Garst, district superintendent of the Omaha district, will preach the morning sermon at the First Methodist church.

Instead of the regular service at Lefler's Memorial church the pastor will address the Sunday school on the occasion of rally day. A great young people's meeting will be held in the evening, consisting of a program of special music. Miss Gertrude of York district will deliver an address. John Lewis of McCabe church, Henry Kaiser of Castell and John Dale of Hanscom Park will take part.

Regular morning service of the Christian church at the Young Men's Christian association.

St. Clement's church will observe the Men's Eucharist at 7 a. m. Sunday morning prayer at 11 a. m. Mrs. Mayfield will sing the offertory solo. St. Edward chapel will have vesper service at 7:30 p. m.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.
 The regular 4 o'clock Sunday men's meeting will be dismissed next Sunday. The following Sunday Dr. Loveland of Omaha will address this meeting.

Under the care of J. D. Ringer, chairman of the boys' work committee; Paul Shields, Gordon Ingrham, Edgar Kiddee, John Collins and Ralph Smith are attending the boys' work conference at York this afternoon. This is one of the most important meetings of the work in this state.

This Saturday night "pop" will put on a basket ball game that will be hotly contested. A group of former members, now attending the State university, have challenged the association for a game and have been accepted. This will be one of the most interesting games of the season. There will be junior mat work, and the senior classes will put on an exhibition of class work. The general public is invited. A small fee of 5 cents for members and 10 cents for nonmembers will be charged. Women attend these "pops" and report enjoyable times.

The increase of membership during the month of November has been gratifying. All departments have taken on new life. The physical now records twenty-four juniors and fifty-three seniors enrolled for regular class work. This does not include the individual workers who are using the gymnasium at odd hours.

BENEFITS OF ICE CREAM
 Positive Nutritive and Cooling Value Makes It More Than a Delicacy.
 It is a mistaken notion that ice cream is a mere dainty or luxury. When made of pure materials it is not only harmless, but beneficial. Physicians sometimes order it in cases of dyspepsia and indigestion, and convalescents are permitted to take it, because not only has it the cooling qualities of ice, but it has positive nutritive value. This must be so, for whether it is made of pure cream with only the addition of sugar and flavoring or

Words of Praise
