BRIAN'S IDEA OF TAXATION

greater than the amount of interest returned for the preceding biennium. This is attributed to the interest being increased from 2 to 3 per cent for the average daily balance of state funds deposited in the various depository banks.

State School Funds.

By the passage of senate file No. 388 of the last legislature, providing for the payment of warrants by the state treasurer and the investment of same in the school fund when sufficient money is on hand in such fund, thereby taking these warrants from the hands of speculators who desire to carry them as an investment, the records of this office are placed in such shape that our book shows the total amount of state indebtedness by the daily balance of such registered warrants, and no general fund warrants have been registered for the holder of same since April 5, 1907, so that the school fund has the benefit of the interest accrued on all warrants owned by the general fund of the state.

The money received from investments in warrants, from bonds coming due and from payment of principal on school land has to be reinvested by the Board of Educational Lands and Funds and the records of this department for the last four years indicate an average yearly investment of over $1,000,000. I believe the various county and school district bonds which will be offered for sale will be inadequate to consume this sum of money available for investment, and this will require the buying of other state securities, as has been done in the past. The records of this department show a larger income received by reason of buying these bonds direct from the states which issue them, and they also show an increase of from 1/2 to 1 per cent for bonds purchased this biennium over the income received on bonds purchased for the preceding biennium, making an additional annual income of $150,000 on the amount of bonds purchased during the last two years. In order to maintain this precedent which has been established of going out and buying bonds direct, I would recommend that an appropriation be made available to this board for the continuation of buying bonds direct from the various states.

Gregg Wants Long Term.

Before Governor Sheldon selects a successor to James E. Delsell, member of the State Board of Education, whose term expires some months ago, he will have to pass upon a proposition which has, it is reported, been put up to him, which involves considerable detail.

It is reported that Charles Gregg of Kearney, already a member of the board, is anxious to be reappointed, but his time does not expire until next year. By then Governor-elect Sheldon will be at the head of the state and Gregg does not desire to trust himself to the consideration of the democratic executive.

So he has proposed to Governor Sheldon that he will resign. Then, instead of appointing Delsell for a five-year term, the governor can appoint him to the full term and appoint Delsell to fill out the Gregg term of one year. This would put it up to Delsell to take his chances with the incoming executive.

It is reported on the most reliable authority that Gregg has made his proposition to Governor Sheldon, but that the governor has as yet not decided what to do in the matter.

Delsell, it is reported, will make no objections to the proposition if the governor decides to permit Gregg to resign and appoint him for the five-year term.

Falling to make this proposition work it is said Gregg is in favor of the selection of R. J. Barr, principal of the schools at Grand Island, to succeed Delsell, and the latter also favors this if he cannot get the job himself.

Fight for Speakership.

The speakership fight has reached the slow dog-trot stage and already some of the aspirants are almost winded.

At this stage of the game Henry of Holt county has the lead and there is no doubt about that. Dividing the old members with Henry, is Graff of Cumming, from whom there is no likelihood. The western counties, so the card reads, are about equally divided between Taylor of Custer and Bowman of Nuckolls.

Then comes Pool of Johnson and Clark of Richardson with the southeast portion of the state for either of them, with Henry Gerdes in the background ready to pick up after any mistake either makes. Pool and Clark are going to divide the Douglas delegation after it gets through with Stocker. R. E. Lee Howardman was down here one night this week and had a conference with Clark of Richardson, and this is taken to mean, considered along with other straws, that Clark will find a friend in some of the Omaha delegation. Pool, however, is not objectionable to the other bunch, and it is a case of which of these two has the best hand when the showdown comes.

It is reported that Henry is for county option or prohibition, but, strange as it may seem, that has not alienated from him the support of several members who are opposed to county option in any form. These men give it out that the liquor question is not to enter into the organization of the house, and whichever candidate attempts to secure votes by reason of his stand on the liquor question is going to be swatted.

In the meantime E. O. Garrett, late candidate for lieutenant governor on the democratic ticket, has gone back to work for the American Book company. He takes the job he was supposed to have resigned when he jumped into the political game.

Cone and Richmond Meet.

The gladiators met in the lobby of the Lindell hotel this noon and neither shed blood.

They were Tremore Cone, the leather-jungled statesman from Saunders, and Henry C. Richmond, the democratic oracle from Fremont and the national committee.

These two are fighters. For days they have been arrayed against each other in a political battle and the chief clerkship of the house is the prize.

At the conclusion of the conference, which might have been a horrible bloody fight, but wasn't, each said:

Howell Draws Pay.

Lieutenant Governor Hopewell today drew a warrant from the state auditor for $20.25 for serving the state as governor for twenty-eight days. During this period Governor Sheldon was out of the state on business in the interest of the state, but he drew no pay for the time he was gone. The twenty-eight days covers a period from September 30, 1907 to July 13, 1908.

Cannot Escape Tax.

According to an opinion written by Deputy Attorney General Grant Martin, one cannot escape the payment of personal taxes by removing from one county to another, unless he files an affidavit of poverty. It is not only the duty of the treasurer in the county where the delinquent originally lived, the opinion says, to make diligent effort to collect by distress warrant any delinquent taxes, but it is also the duty of the treasurer in the county to which the delinquent has removed to collect the taxes due the same as upon execution, together with his costs, and after so collecting to forward the same to the treasurer of the proper county.

County Attorney E. E. Ross of Merrick county, who asked for the opinion, had a case in mind where the treasurer of Merrick county sent a distress warrant to the treasurer of another county for the purpose of collecting delinquent taxes against a party who had removed. The county treasurer to whom the distress warrant was sent said the tax debtor refused payment and said he would fight the matter out in court, and the treasurer returned the distress warrant.

Mr. Martin says it is the duty of the county treasurer, under section 11067, Cobey's Annotated Statutes, 1907, to collect the taxes due and return the money to the proper county, and if he wilfully fails and neglects to perform his duties in matters of this kind, he forfeits his right to office and may be removed therefrom. He is further of the opinion that a county treasurer who wilfully fails to execute such warrant would be liable to the county as agreed upon his official bond for any damages that such county might sustain. There are at least two remedies for his failure to act. First, this being a duty enforced upon him by law, it may be enforced by a mandamus in a proper case. Second, the only endorsement upon the distress warrant that justifies a county treasurer in returning it without collection is the one that shows no property could be found belonging to the delinquent whereon to levy and collect the same. If this return is made when the delinquent really has property it would be equivalent to making a false return, which, under section 11064 makes the officer liable for double the amount of taxes, with interest and costs, to be recovered in the name of the county.

DETAILS OF MURDER GIVEN

Coroner's Jury Finds Nicholas Farrns Acted Without Felonious Intent in Fight.

TEKAMAH, Neb., Dec. 11.—(Special Telegram.)—At the inquest held at Tecumseh over the body of Lester Ball, who was killed in a row there Wednesday night, the jury returned the verdict that Ball came to his death by blows inflicted with felonious intent, by Nicholas N. Farrns.

Farrns was arrested and brought to this place, but as County Attorney Singhaus is away the time for the preliminary hearing was not set.

Farrns and several others had been to Onawa with grain and were returning on the ferry boat about sundown when the boat commenced to leak. It was run on a sandbar to keep it from sinking. Lester Ball heard of the trouble and took a row-boat over to help get the horses off and swim them ashore. The horses were all gotten across about 11 o'clock and when Farrns got into the boat to go over he missed his jug of whisky. Some one told him Ball had taken it across some time before.

When Farrns landed he immediately hunted up Ball, who had taken the jug to his home. Both men had been drinking, and after wrangling for some time, Ball agreed to go home and get the jug, Farrns and two or three others going along. When half way there Ball turned on Farrns and nearly knocked him down by a blow on the jaw. Both men took off their coats and went at it. Farrns pounded Ball unmercifully, breaking his jaw and nose and bruising him up terribly, from the effects of which he died in thirty minutes.

Ball was 34 years old, married, and had four children. Farrns is a well-to-do farmer living east of Decatur.

Lester Ball is a son of Elisha Ball, whom it was first reported was killed.

SHARP SAFE BEHIND BARS

Prophet Says Lord Was Not with Him or Was Taking a Vacation.

KANSAS CITY, MO., Dec. 11.—"The Lord was either not with us or was on a vacation. Now, I know my faith was wrong, that I was mistaken."

That is the statement of James Sharp, better known as "Adam God," who was captured in Kansas late yesterday. It was Sharp who last Tuesday led his followers into a battle with the police that has already resulted in five deaths. A. J. Selsor, aged 72, an innocent bystander, wounded by a stray bullet, is the last of the victims to die. Selsor died at the hospital at midnight last night.

It is a penitent and humble prophet that sits in his cell in the police station here with the responsibility of five deaths upon him, but he insists he was misguided and acted in good faith.

"Honestly, captain," he said to Officer Whitsett, "I believed that we were doing right and that it was God's will. When the bullets commenced to hit me then I had a revelation. I am glad to be back and want to stand for anything that God wills. Oh, it is terrible."

"I had a nice farm in Oklahoma and was doing well when I believed I was called," he continued. "Now I have no money, my children have left me and we have murdered innocent men."

"I'm up a stump, brother. But it was all the fault of the faith. I saw it all as soon as the bullet hit me."

"I expect to be killed," added Sharp in answer to a question. "I don't care how quickly it comes. I only want time to write a letter to my followers and tell them that the faith was wrong."

LIST OF EXPORTS IS LARGER

More Manufactures Shipped Out This Year Than Any Preceding One.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—More manufactures were exported from the United States in the fiscal year 1908 than in any preceding year, aggregating in value three-quarters of a billion dollars, according to the annual report of the chief of the bureau of statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor. His report shows that the value of exports to Europe is increasing yearly, being $368,000,000 in 1908, as against $355,000,000 in 1907; $315,000,000 in 1906 and $283,000,000 in 1905. In 1908 60 per cent of our manufactured exports went to Europe. Copper led in value of exports to Europe of this material, $97,000,000 being sent. Refined minerals came next, totalling $55,000,000, while of iron and steel manufactures the value was $47,000,000.

The value of manufactures exported from this country to all North America during the year was $129,000,000, of which the principal item was iron and steel,
