WHAT CLUB WOMEN ARE DOING

Mrs. Nellie Kedzie Jones Addresses Woman's Club Monday Afternoon.

WOMEN CRITICISE CAR SERVICE

Will Ask Street Railway Company to Limit Crowding, and So Overcome Unsanitary Conditions.

Monday afternoon's meetings of the Women's club overflowed with interesting features, chief among which was Mrs. Nellie Kedzie Jones of Kalamazoo, Mich., one of the principal speakers before the model kitchen of the Corn Show, who, under the auspices of the domestic science department of the club gave a general talk on home making and the origin of its teaching in schools and colleges.

Both these things and so many other things that "home making" is the only name that covers the subject. "Domestic economy began," Mrs. Jones said, "back in the Garden of Eden, when Mother Eve handed something to eat to the man who had been placed in her care and later when Sarah baked cakes on the hearth."

Secority Party.

Miss Alice Truxell, Miss Verda Scott, Miss Pearl Fitzgerald and her guest, Miss Talliferro of Illinois, spent the week end in Lincoln, guests at the Phi Phi sorority house and attended the dinner dance Friday evening given in the new ball room at the Lincoln hotel by the Delta Upsilon fraternity.

The Power of Example.

She related how through necessity the department was first located in the basement of the main building and as it gained fame representatives of other colleges came to visit it.

Club Meetings.

Mrs. F. P. Kirkendall was the hostess for the Monday Bridge Luncheon club at her home on South Thirty-eighth and Jackson streets. Covers were laid for eight.

Supper Party.

Miss Daisy Doane entertained at supper Sunday evening, when those present were: Mr. and Mrs. George Doane, Miss Lynn Curtis, Miss Daisy Doane, Miss Beale Yates, Mr. Joe Baldrige, Mr. W. Farnam Smith, Mr. Harry O'Neill and Mr. Ben Warren.

Birthday Dinner.

Miss Marion Cornell entertained at dinner Saturday evening at her home, Miss Julia Higginson of Chicago was the out-of-town guest and Mr. Elmer Cope was the guest of honor, the party being in celebration of the birthday. A birthday cake with candles formed a conspicuous centerpiece for the table and Mr. Cope was the recipient of several gifts. Those present were Miss Higginson, Miss Faith Potter, Miss O'Connell, Mr. and Mrs. Harley Moorhead, Mr. E. E. Cope, Mr. Ross Towle and Mr. Lawrence Harkness.

Prospective Pleasures.

The Elks will give a dancing party on the evening of Wednesday, December 16, at their club rooms.

Come and Go Gosip.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Townsend of Cambridge, Wis., are visiting at the home of the former's brother, Captain C. H. Townsend.

Club Notes.

Mrs. F. H. Cole, president of the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs, was the guest of the club women at Oakland Saturday evening enroute from Walthill, where she visited Mrs. H. L. Keefe, former president. After a morning's conference with Mrs. W. S. Swanson, state corresponding secretary, the club women of Oakland were entertained at the home of Mrs. Roberts to meet Mrs. Cole. During her stay in Walthill Mrs. Keefe opened her home in her honor. Mr. and Mrs. Keefe will be guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cole in Omaha several days this week.

that the alley was really eleven feet wide now, but that those owning property on the south side had encroached on it until it is now less than half its original width. The matter was referred to the legal department for an opinion.

The council voted to repeal the ordinance opening Fifty-first street between Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets.

Dr. E. K. Johnstone, first lieutenant in the United States army, was the guest of R. Z. Drake, president of the Standard Bridge company, Monday. The doctor arrived in Omaha in the morning with Battery F, Fifth artillery, from the Presidio, San Francisco, enroute to Fort Sheridan, Chicago, and laid over in Omaha all day.

Dr. Johnstone and Mr. Drake formed an acquaintance last summer under unusual conditions.

Mr. Drake and a party of friends from Omaha were visiting in the Yosemite valley, where the doctor and his regiment were encamped. Mr. Drake became ill. That is not significant unless you happen to know Mr. Drake. He is a man of peace except when sick. Then he suddenly becomes a man of war.

On this occasion in the Yosemite he was even more bellicose than ever. To fall ill in such a place, surrounded by the most beautiful handwork of nature, out to have a "good time"—this was too much.

In some times to summon a physician. "There was one," the army surgeon was alone in those parts and he was not obliged to go private practice. Though he was a most gifted young man and exceedingly skilled in his profession, Mr. Drake's friends hesitated to call him.

"Why, I can't say that doctor to go in there and see Mr. Drake; he'll throw him out of the tent, kick as he is," exclaimed one of the party most familiar with the Omaha man's eccentricities.

But Mother Necessity spoke, spoke sternly.

The rest of the story is told by Mr. Drake. "That man's treatment of me made him and my lifelong friends," he said. "I can't believe that it was his connection with the army, or his military aspect that overcame me, but anyhow I subsided and got well a little after he took hold of me. But the funniest thing of it all was to see my friends outside, holding their breath for the storm to break inside the tent."

So when Mr. Drake learned that Dr. Johnstone was in Omaha Monday the affairs of the Standard Bridge company were laid on the shelf for the day.

Dr. Johnstone is one of the men who is elevating army life. He improves what extra time he may have in writing and
