AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Andy Maryt Buried by Cavein of a Telephone Conduit Ditch.

TAKEN OUT SERIOUSLY BRUISED

Absence of Registrar of Vital Statistics in Embarrassing Undertakers in the Matter of Intermittents.

Andy Maryt, an employe of the telephone company, was buried in a conduit yesterday evening by the caving in of the earth above where he was at work. He remained under ground for nearly an hour before he could be reached. His injuries, however, were not serious, though painful. The physicians thought at first that his neck had been broken, but after being taken to the hospital it was found that the injury consisted of a severe straining of the muscles, which left them powerless. The telephone company is putting in a conduit of large dimension alongside of the Q street viaduct at Twenty-seventh and Maryt had been put to work there in the afternoon because he could understand English. He had been working only an hour or two when, after bringing in a load of cement, the roof of the conduit where the excavation was in progress caved.

Most of the time he was under ground he was unconscious, but escaped smothering by the slight protection afforded by his wheelbarrow. The accident caused a large crowd to gather and the excitement amounted almost to frenzy at times. After reaching the hospital Maryt was able to tell of his experience and rapidly recovered his mental balance. It will be several days before he will be able to get up.

Mixup Causes Trouble.

"Notwithstanding the lack of a registrar of vital statistics, a man who has the right to issue burial permits, I shall continue to bury the dead," said Morgan Heafey last night. This statement was brought about from the fact that the resigned registrar has refused to do the work without pay and the newly appointed registrar has refused to accept the appointment tendered by Dr. W. H. Wilson, head of the State Board of Health.

In two or three instances the undertakers of the city have met with difficulty in shipping cases. It is likely that unless the difficulty is speedily settled the undertakers will have to resort to the expedient of having the bodies for shipment entered as a formality in some of the Omaha undertakers' establishments, so that the proper permit may be issued. In the South Omaha cases to be buried in South Omaha cemeteries little difficulty will be encountered, in all probability, but in cases where the body goes to Omaha for burial much difficulty will be experienced for the reason that since the investigations of a year ago the management of the Omaha cemeteries are absolutely strict on every detail of the law.

The whole difficulty, as charged by E. P. Roggen at the time of his resignation, lay in the fact that the chairman of the finance committee had refused to honor his claim for a 10-cent fee on each record of birth and death, which he had been accustomed to receive. The chairman is Matt Peterson, one of the democratic members. The other democratic members stand with him as does one republican. It has been laid at the door of republicans by papers representing the democratic interests, but the facts, as admitted by Mr. Roggen show a squabble among the democrats of the city council with the city clerk's office. Roggen explained that Matt Peterson became angry because he, Roggen, had testified in such a manner concerning the city finances, that Peterson was called before the grand jury and given an examination which tried his patience. To get even, he cut off the pay of the deputy registrar's fee.

Roggen then resigned and refused to do the work on the ground that there was no fee attached, and he could not be compelled to work for nothing. Dr. Wilson appointed Dr. John Koutsky and the doctor refused to accept. The latest is a communication from Dr. Wilson recommending that the mayor and city council agree on an appointee. This may be taken up Monday evening.

In the meantime the technical difficulties of getting along without a registrar have grown quite serious. The record of births is not so serious, but the deaths bring about unpleasant situations.

Little Work for Police.

South Omaha has been very quiet in police circles for a month. So much so that the department has only two or three minor cases to work on. One of these is the case of Roman Storoza, who was arrested on suspicion Wednesday. It has developed that he has been handling a lot of stolen shoes. The man who sold him the shoes is wanted by the police. He made good his escape to Sioux City, however. The arrest of Storoza, it is hoped, will lead to information concerning the other man which will result in his arrest.

Leo Wieha was yesterday arrested at the instance of the Nebraska Furniture company. It is charged that he used his credit to secure a lot of furniture and when he gained possession sold the furniture at a sacrifice to a second-hand dealer and attempted to get out of town with the proceeds. He failed in this and will therefore have to answer the charge of obtaining property by false pretenses.

RULING OF NATIONAL IMPORT

Decision by Judge Munger Defines Right of Manufacturers Using Trade Marks.

A decision of national interest has just been handed down by Judge Munger relating to the right of one manufacturer using the name of another manufacturer of a similar product where the names of the manufacturers are identical.

Judge W. H. Munger handed down a memorandum in opinion Friday morning denying the injunction prayed for by the Walter Baker company, chocolate and cocoa manufacturers, to restrain the grocery firm of Sidney C. Gray of Columbus, Neb., and others from selling chocolates and cocoa products bearing the name of "Baker" that are not manufactured by the Walter Baker company.

The original petition alleged that the defendants were selling chocolates and cocoas manufactured by William H. Baker of Syracuse, N. Y., under the name of "Baker" products, and that purchasers were deceived in the purchase of these products, believing that they were the products of the Walter Baker company, which claimed the trade mark of "Baker" in chocolate and cocoa productions. There is another firm, that of W. H. Baker of Maryland, engaged in the manufacture of similar products, but this firm does not seem to be involved in the suit. The suit at bar was begun in February, 1908, in the circuit court of the United States in Omaha and a temporary restraining order granted.

Judge Munger sustains his decision in this matter by quoting from the decision of a similar case in the United States bench in the Lorillard tobacco case.

WOMAN BEWAILS HER YOUTH

Lincoln Girl is Distressed Because She and Her Lover Can Get No License.

Unlike most women, Nanette Zarbaugh bewails the fact that she is young looking. When she and Wilbur C. Hudgens of Lincoln applied for a marriage license they were promptly turned down by Marriage License Clerk Furay.

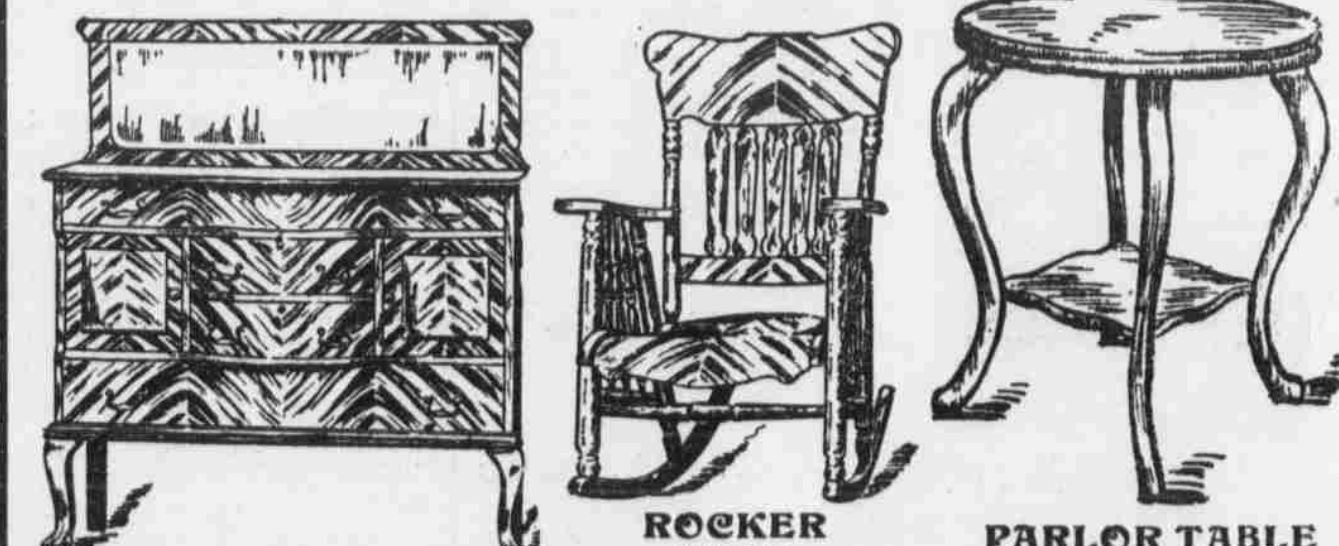

Hudgens protested he was twenty-one and the girl eighteen, but Mr. Furay insisted on being shown. They left the office saying they would bring witnesses. Miss Zarbaugh said she lived in Lincoln for some time and had recently gone to Newark.

"We just wanted to get married in Omaha," said the disappointed groom as he left the office.

SANTA CLAUS IN THE ARCH

Old Saint Nick's Name Will Be Set '98 in Letters of Fire.

Santa Claus will be welcomed to Omaha on Christmas eve in letters of fire blazoned on the new welcome arch across Farnam street, providing the city council adopts a resolution which Councilman Lee Bridges intends to introduce at the next meeting of that body. The words "King Corn," now on the arch, will go out Saturday night with the close of the National Corn exposition and the arch will then be dark for a week.

"King Corn is mighty, but old Saint Nick is mightier," says the councilman from the Second ward, and he believes that if one is to be given a welcome the other ought to be shown the same courtesy.

Providing the resolution passes the words "Santa Claus" will be placed in the panel above the word "Welcome" on the arch.
