AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Federal Bureau of Animal Industry Helps Out State Officials.

STAMPING OUT TUBERCULOSIS

Loans Use of Two Inspectors and Men at Packing Houses Report Where Diseased Animals Come From.

The bureau of Animal Industry in South Omaha has lately become an important arm in the battle which is beginning against tuberculosis in the animals of the state of Nebraska. It must be said that the fight against tuberculosis in Nebraska, as well as in any other state has consisted, so far of preliminary skirmishes, and there is much lack of general and concerted progress. The government has been trying to co-operate with the state governments for the last two years. The greatest handicap has been lack of state appropriations and state laws.

Not long ago Dr. Peters of the state experiment station, in which a special department has been equipped for the testing of animals suspected of tuberculosis, appealed to Don C. Ayer, chief of the South Omaha bureau, stating that the state funds had been exhausted, and asking that the United States government place two inspectors at his disposal to make tests in suspected localities. The matter was taken up with the result that two men are now working in the state under the direction of Dr. Peters.

To assist Dr. Peters the government inspectors in South Omaha take note of the animals condemned. In case a number of animals out of a single load are found to be infected the load is traced back to its origin. If the farmer can be found who had the diseased stock, his name and address is sent to Dr. Peters, who immediately writes the party telling him of the fact that a large per cent of his stock was found tubercular in slaughter and asking him if he will be willing for the sake of the rest of his herd, and the neighboring herds, to submit to a tuberculine test and to follow out directions for stamping out the disease.

The usual process is to make the test and to ship all diseased animals to South Omaha for immediate slaughter under the laws of the federal inspection service. Every place in the state where tests have been recorded has been charted on a map which Dr. Ayer keeps. In this way the counties most affected have been located. The need of stringent measures is apparent when it is known that 1 per cent of beef cattle, 10 per cent of dairy cattle, and 2 per cent of hogs are at present tubercular. The annual loss from this cause in the United States is $14,000,000. In Nebraska no cases have been located west of the line passing through Red Willow, Frontier, Lincoln, Custer, and Brown counties. Many cases have been found in a section about Dodge, Colfax and Stanton. As 80 per cent of some loads from those sections have been condemned. Of these animals one-third go for offal, one-sixth for tallow, and the rest are so slightly affected as to pass largely for food.

Regarding the possibility of any aid from the present state legislature, Dr. Ayer said: "I doubt very much if the state will receive any additional appropriation for the battle against tuberculosis. One case of smallpox properly handled would scare the legislature into an appropriation many times greater than the prevalence of 100,000 cases of tuberculosis could produce. The loss from tuberculosis is a thousand to one greater than smallpox in human beings and the loss in animals goes up into the millions every year.

"In the cases in the future where tests are made and animals are condemned to immediate slaughter for the purpose of cleaning up the herds, the government should and probably will bear a part of the loss; the state, I think, should also bear a portion of the loss, and the farmer should be willing to lose a portion also for the sake of making his other animals less subject to the disease. The tuberculine test is the most accurate known. It is safe to say it never fails to show the presence of the disease when it exists."

Police Search for Bradeen.

The South Omaha police are looking for George Bradeen at present for having swindled 200 or 300 laborers out of their money. He made these men a proposition to take them all to Tennesee to work in government service on the levees of the Mississippi near Memphis. Each of the men gave him from $1 to $2, it is said. They were to have left the city yesterday, but when the time came Bradeen had disappeared and no special could be found headed to the south. Many of the men had pawned their overcoats to get money with which to go to Memphis and to pay the fee of the employment agent. Yesterday many men without overcoats, believing they would have no use for them in Tennessee, were shivering about the city jail for lack of them. No trace has been found of Bradeen. He is well known to the police department in South Omaha, having been connected with it as an inmate of the jail and as a suspect a number of times.

Big Price for a Coat.

H. B. Hearston was fined $15 and costs for stealing a duck overcoat off a dummy in front of D. Michael's second-hand store on N street yesterday. At the jail he put up the story that he had seen a sign on the coat saying "Try me on." He said he did accordingly and before he got through the proprietor came out and found him with the goods. Michaels said he was reading inside and was attracted by seeing the sleeve on the dummy was missing and again when he looked the whole dummy was gone, together with the coat. Considering the size of the fine, Hearston is paying pretty dearly for his coat.

Jap Boy Draws a Fine.

George Mecsha, a Japanese boy, was fined $25 and costs yesterday, it being charged that he pulled the ring off Emma Thramek's hand at the Cudahy Packing company's plant, where both worked in the same department. The Japanese boy said he had given the girl the ring and insisted that he had a right to it. She just as positively denied that the Jap and she had any such acquaintance as to result in his giving her a ring. Another case for menacing threats was suspended against the Jap boy and he will be given a chance to show that he will not molest the girl.

BELLEVUE DEBATERS AT WORK

Students Prepare to Contest for Place on Various Teams for Intercollegiate Meetings.

The winter months, from the close of the Chrisumas holidays until the opening of spring vacation the first of April, see literary and debating work in Bellevue at its best. The literary societies will this winter have the greatest success of years. Enrollment on the various societies is greater than it has been in the past, while the work has a more aggressive character and individual effort shows a marked advance. The enthusiasm which during fall and spring is turned toward athletics is finding an outlet in literary channels.

In past years the rivalry of various societies has usually caused many literary contests and debates. This winter, however, the presence of many debating clubs will curtail any extensive debating between the literary societies proper. It is probable that one or two debates will take place between the various literary bodies, but not more.

In the past literary work, such as participation in oratorical contests or intercollegiate debates, has not been given credit toward graduation, but the Bellevue faculty has now intimated the probability of a change in this particular, whereby those who win places on the debating teams or as alternates, and those who take part in the oratorical contests, shall be allowed one collegiate credit. This change has gone a long way in stimulating rhetorical endeavor, but more because the work is thus recognized and a competition for excellence aroused, rather than because of the credit allowed.

Debating is now in full swing and January will be devoted by all clubs and individuals to the study and discussion of the income tax question, which is the subject of the triangular intercollegiate debate. Early in February the local debaters will hold a contest to choose those who shall compose the teams for this debate. Alternates are also chosen for each team. The eight highest decide among themselves as to which six shall represent the college at home with the affirmative of the question and who shall debate away from home with the negative.

Two splendid debaters graduated last spring, Quigley and Crossman, who, with Phelps, represented Bellevue at home last year and won every contest by unanimous vote of all judges. But there is yet an abundance of material if the various individuals do the work they are capable of doing. The sophomore class especially is showing some unexpected strength.

The last debate will be the Nebraska intercollegiate triangular contest arranged between Bellevue, Doane and Cotner. This contest will come off just before the spring vacation, probably about the last week in March. The Bellevue-Cotner meet will occur at Bellevue, with the locals upholding the affirmative of the question. On the same night the Bellevue-Doane contest will be held at Crete, with Bellevue taking the negative.

BRUNING KEEPS HIS DATE

Reveals Secrets of Republican Caucus to Democratic Colleague.

UNDERSTANDING NOW IN EFFECT

Kennard Finally Agrees to Support Bruning if He Will Give Trainor Good Place, and Bruning Answers Monday.

Fred Bruning, republican county commissioner, who denied being in collusion with the democrats on the board, attended the secret caucus of the republican members and upon adjournment divulged everything that transpired at the caucus to Oscar J. Pickard, democratic county commissioner.

Mr. Bruning, earlier in the day denied to a reporter for The Bee that he was in a "tie-up" with the democrats. Mr. Pickard also, earlier in the day, told a reporter for The Bee that "we have an understanding with Mr. Bruning." It is supposed that this "understanding" must have already been in effect and contemplates on Mr. Bruning's part disclosures to his democratic confederates of all the confidential relations transpiring between the republican members at any meetings or caucuses prior as well as subsequent to the reorganization of the board.

The secret caucus of republicans was held in the commissioners' room at the court house yesterday afternoon. As soon as it adjourned Mr. Bruning went to the Owl drug store at Sixteenth and Harney streets, where he unbosomed himself of all the secrets to Mr. Pickard.

The other members of the board who participated in the caucus observed the bond to disclose nothing of what took place.

Only Three at the Caucus.

The caucus was attended by Commissioners Kennard, Trainor and Bruning. The commissioners talked over the chairmanship for an hour when Mr. Bruning emerged, put on his coat and started down the street. Before he had walked a half block Commissioner Pickard fell into step, as though by prearranged signal and the two went to the drug store.

"They wanted to name the committees I should appoint," Mr. Burning told Mr. Pickard, the "they" meaning Commissioners Kennard and Trainor, "but I told them that there was no use in being chairman if I could not appoint my own committees. I simply told them that I was 'standing pat,' that I wanted to be chairman and that if I was re-elected I would treat the democrats with equal fairness to the republicans."

When reminded of the fact that if Commissioners Kennard and Trainor combined their votes on Trainor he, Bruning, would have to look to the democrats for support, Mr. Bruning said that that made no difference, he did not care who voted for him, just so he was elected.

Kennard Backs Trainor.

In the caucus Commissioners Kennard and Trainor put it plainly to Commissioner Bruning that the chairmanship rightfully should go to Mr. Trainor this year, as he had never had it, whereas Mr. Bruning was chairman once before. Mr. Bruning, however, declared that it made no difference with him, that he wanted the chairmanship this year and that Mr. Trainor could have it next year.

They then asked him about the committees and pointed out that the republicans, being in the majority, should have the most important committees, though, of course, maintaining that the democrats should not, by any means, be ignored in the slightest degree.

In reply to this Mr. Bruning implied that he would give the chairmanship of the committee on roads and bridges to Pickard, and the chairmanship of the committee on court house construction and on the county hospital to Bedford, also democrat. This would leave the committees on the detention schools, charities, claims, judiciary and such to the republican members.

Finally Commissioner Kennard, the retiring chairman, came out plainly and said:

"Mr. Bruning, if you will concede to Mr. Trainor the chairmanship of some important committees as he asks, which is no more than fair in the event that he concedes to you the chairmanship of the whole, I will vote for you for chairman."

"Well, I'll think it over and let you know Monday," said Mr. Bruning, with a smile, and he left to keep his tryst with the democratic members.

FOUR FALSE FIRE ALARMS

All Come in Less Than Half an Hour and Supposed to Be Work of Discharged Fireman.

An unidentified person, who is thought to be a discharged member of the fire department, amused himself early Saturday evening by turning in false alarms from four different places in the city. All the alarms came through the fire boxes and no trace has yet been found of the man who did the work.

The four calls came within twenty minutes of each other. The first came from Fourteenth and Capitol avenue at 7:15 o'clock, the second from Seventh and Douglas streets at 7:20 o'clock, the third was from Ninth and Jones streets at 7:26 o'clock and the fourth from Thirteenth and Jackson streets at 7:35 o'clock.

In addition to these calls there was one from 2213 Howard street shortly before 7 o'clock. This alarm was caused from some bed clothing which caught fire, but which was extinguished before the arrival of the department.

An alarm from Sixteenth and Farnam streets about 10:30 o'clock was found to have resulted from a burning chimney at the Henshaw hotel, from which no damage resulted.

On account of the close proximity to the Burwood theater, however, the management of the playhouse decided to be on the safe side and dismiss the audience. The announcement was therefore made from the stage that there was a small fire in the vicinity and that while there was no immediate danger to the theater it was deemed advisable for the audience to take its time and leave the building.

This was done without any excitement or confusion and within a minute or two the house was empty.

SHOTGUN VICTIM NOW SUES

Henry Agnew Asks $3,000 Damages Because Isadore Friedman Potted Him in Foot.

A suit for damages was filed Saturday morning in the district court by Henry Agnew against Isadore F. Friedman for alleged carelessness in the handling of a shotgun, the explosion of which inflicted several wounds upon Agnew's feet. The plaintiff claims the accident caused him great sufering and confined him to the hospital. Agnew asks $3,000 damages.

The affair happened in the second-hand store of I. Friedman, 211 South Twelfth street, on the morning of January 6. Friedman started to demonstrate the weapon while ignorant that it was loaded and, turning toward the rear of the store, pulled the trigger to test the action. It exploded, catching Agnew in the feet.

Conditional Pardon for Von Haller.

OMAHA, Jan. 9.—To the Editor of The Bee: The article which appeared in last evening's Bee was in entire accordance with the evidence produced at the trial of George Von Haller, yet it was not in accordance with later evidence which was formally presented to Governor Sheldon by the attorney who prosecuted Von Haller for the state. That evidence was the dying statement of a man who was an eye witness of the tragic murder of Rees. That statement was sworn to by the man's wife and a man who was present at the deathbed of the man, who solemnly declared that it was not Von Haller who fired the fatal shot and battered the face and head of the unfortunate Rees. I was present at the trial of Von Haller, and felt then that the principal witness against him showed too intense a desire to convict him of the murder to make him a credible witness in swearing away the life or liberty of his friend. Yet I did not see how the jury could have returned any other verdict than the one it did return. Still, all of those jurors who could be found a year ago in this county signed a petition to the governor asking for an unconditional pardon for Von Haller. Attorney Slabaugh, who prosecuted him, joined in that petition and eloquently pleaded for the pardon of the unfortunate man, alleging that while he prosecuted him with all his energy, believing him guilty upon the evidence, yet he was fully persuaded now that Von Haller was not guilty of the murder of Rees. I also pleaded for him before the governor, believing fully that it was not Von Haller who did the fatal shooting. The governor was not convinced fully at the time, nor did he seem to be last week, or he would have granted an unconditional pardon.

I write this statement in justice to Von Haller, who is coming to live among us, to begin his life over, in order that he may be given a fair opportunity to make that life a sobered, better life than the wayward, reckless life which led him into trouble and shame. I am certain he will make good, and to that end he will have my friendship and help to the very fullest extent. JOHN WILLIAMS.

CAMPAIGN FOR NEW MEMBERS

Young Men's Christian Association is Trying to Double Its Membership.

"Double the membership" is the slogan that is being used by the members of the Young Men's Christian association during the campaign for new members that was begun last week. The present enrollment is 2,515 and the secretaries and directors are anxious to increase this sufficiently to place Omaha above all her sister cities as regards association membership.

With this end in view Membership Secretary William Parker has organized ten committees of ten men each to work for new members and every man and boy belonging to the association is also expected to secure a recruit.

That the local association ranks high among American city associations is shown by the recent campaign carried on in Denver to secure new members for the association there. "Beat Omaha" was the watchword and every effort was made to get enough members to place Denver ahead of Omaha in importance among association cities. It is not yet definitely known whether or not the Denverites succeeded in their endeavor, but whether or not Omaha will rank even higher than before if present plans carry and the local association adds a healthy list of new members to its rolls. The campaign is to last for some time and is being waged among both boys and men. At the present time there are about 300 more members in the association than there were at this time last year.

Not a Catholic living within the diocese owning 160 acres of land gave less than $500 toward the erection of the school building.

BIG ELECTRICAL SHOW IN MAY

Dealers Lay Plans for a Show on Bigger Lines Than Ever Before.

PERMANENT COMPANY FORMED

Plans Laid Far in Advance and an Effort Will Be Made to Interest Big Manufacturers in the Show.

Omaha will have another electrical show this year, the time having been fixed for May, at the Auditorium, by a number of the leading electrical contractors and electrical supply merchants of Omaha and Council Bluffs, who met Saturday afternoon at the Young Men's Christian association building. The dates are May 6 to 15, inclusive.

An organization was perfected which will be incorporated at once to handle the show. It will be called the Omaha Electrical Show company and the stock will be held largely by the dealers in Omaha and Council Bluffs.

The following officers were elected at yesterday's meeting: George W. Johnston, president; A. G. Munro, vice president; W. L. Burgess, secretary; J. R. Lehmer, treasurer; J. M. Gillan, manager.

The electrical show held last May was a success even beyond the expectations of the men who promoted it, and with the experience of last year and the confidence which success always brings with it, these same Omaha men feel confident that they can far excel last year's show in every respect. The big electrical manufacturers gave the show but little help last year until they saw it was going to be a winner anyway. This year they will realize from the start that Omaha men can and will put on a fine show and more assistance and more exhibits will undoubtedly come from the leading electrical concerns of the country than last year.

Plans More Elaborate.

Last year the association was uncertain as to just how much money it would be safe to spend on decorations, entertainment and music, but this year everything will be undertaken on a much more elaborate plan. The Auditorium will be converted into a veritable wonderland of things marvelous and beautiful by means of the various electrical devices, and high class entertainment will be furnished during the ten days of the show. Several of the men interested in the organization will visit the great electrical show at Chicago week after next, and while there will pick up pointers for the Omaha show and interest many of the leading manufacturers in the big exhibit in the Auditorium. Mr. Lovett, Mr. Munro, Mr. Corr, Mr. Michaelsen, Mr. Johnston, Mr. Burgess, Mr. Zimman and Mr. Gillan will attend the Chicago show.

CARNIVAL OF DIVORCE CASES

Papers in Eleven Suits Are Filed Saturday and Four Decrees Are Granted.

A carnival of divorce suits reigned in district court yesterday. Papers in eleven cases were filed. Four of these were new decrees.

Grover A. Sumney was granted a divorce because of desertion.

Alleging desertion, Frank D. McKenna was granted a decree of divorce against his wife, Mary McKenna.

Jeptha B. Randolph, who has been suing for a divorce from his wife, Myrtle M. Randolph, was granted a decree.

Barbara Maryt secured a decree of divorce from Andrew Maryt on the grounds of cruelty.

A suit for divorce was filed Saturday morning in district court by Mrs. Nona V. Nolan against her husband, Charles M. Nolan, alleging cruelty and use of vile language, attempts at personal violence and failure to provide for her and a minor child. She asks an absolute divorce and custody of the child, temporary alimony and attorney fees. They were married in Council Bluffs January 5, 1906. Nolan is a blacksmith by trade.

A formal answer has been filed in district court in the divorce case of Mrs. Elizabeth New McKeen against her husband, W. R. McKeen, alleging cruelty. The decree in this suit is expected to follow very soon.

The death of the defendant in the divorce suit of Mollie Ream against her husband, James W. Ream of South Omaha, caused the dismissal of the case this morning in the district court.

Mrs. Maude Kirschner brought suit for divorce against her husband, William Kirschner, in the district court for nonsupport and custody of minor child. Two months before the birth of the child he struck her, she says, with his fist, knocking her down and kicking her.

A suit for divorce was filed Saturday morning for alleged abandonment and extreme cruelty by Mrs. Helen Calvert against her husband, Robert H. Calvert, in the district court. They were married in St. Thomas, Ontario, Canada, September 14, 1905.

E. J. Baker, president of the United Brotherhood of Leather Workers, addressed an open meeting at Labor Temple last night on the subject of the advantages of organization and the rights of the laboring classes. His address throughout was temperate and an elaboration upon the purposes of his visit to stimulate interest in organized labor, the tariff question and the good that will yet come to the cause of organized labor through the decision of Judge Wright in the Gompers, Morrison and Mitchell case.
