GAS IN CONDUITS EXPLODES

Manhole Covers Blown Off and Broken Into Bits.

FARMER HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Wagon Was Over Manhole When Cover is Blown Through Wagon Box and Farmer Thrown to the Pavement.

Gas which had accumulated in the confult of the Independent Telephone company on Broadway and South Main street caused a succession of explosions shortly after 10 'clock yesterday, causing considerable exitement, but, fortunately, doing but little damage. One after another the heavy iron coverings of the manholes along the route of the conduit were blown high in the air and shattered by the force of the exploions. Although pieces of the broken from manhole lids were blown in every direction, no one was injured. As the manholes were successively blown into the air dense clouds of smoke and vapor were emitted from the holes,

The first explosion occurred at the corner of Broadway and Main street, and was followed rapidly by others at the different man holes as far east as Park avenue and south on Main street to First avenue.

The music store of the Schmoller & Muel ler company on South Main street, a few doors south of Broadway, suffered the most damage from the explosion. A jagged piece of the shattered manhole covering was blown through the plate glass window, and a piano standing in the window was considerably damaged.

Narrow Escape for Farmer. R. J. Harris, a farmer of Hazel Deli

township, had a narrow escape. He was driving east on Broadway and his wagon was just over the manhole at the corner of Mrs. Dalley's report shows that the Glen avenue when it was blown up. Hiram Wheeler in Hard Straits. FORT, DODGE, Ia., Jan. 13 .- (Special.)-Judge W. S. Kenyon, general attorney for the Illinois Central, discovered Hiram Wheeler, a former republican candidate for governor of Iowa, a man broken in spirit and dependent upon the scanty bounty of his daughter. Once he owned about 3,000 acres of Iowa farming land and was a prosperous and well liked man, popular enough to receive very hearty support for the candidacy of Iowa's greatest office. Now he is unkempt, ragged, a pathetic figure who exists and is swallowed up in the great tide of humanity that calls Chicago

Hiram Wheeler converted his farms into money many years ago and went southwest where he lost everything. Since then he has drifted back to his daughter, and his discovery by Kenyon was occasioned by his appearance in a big legal case of the Dilinois Central's recently in regard to lake front land. Wheeler claimed to have a title to it, but it was found that he must have been seven years old when he bough it if his assertions were true and the claim was so tangled and uncertain that nothin

Message of Governor.

In his message to the legislature Governor Garst urged more effective regulation of the liquor traffic. "There is no doubt," he said, "that the trend of the times is in the direction of the thorough control and reasonable restriction of the traffic in intoxicating liquors. I believe that the law should be amended so that the machinery for the enforcement of the regulations surrounding the saloons and the liquor traffic will be strengthened and be made effective in every community in the state. I would also recommend that you memorialize congress for a change in the revised statutes so that it would be definitely provided that the initiative for issuing a federal license for the sale of intoxicating liquors would be with the local community directly interested. The federal government should not legalize, so far as it can do so, the liquor traffic in places where the people do not want it to be legalized or tolerated. "It is asserted that 85 per cent of the destitution, crime and degradation of the state is due to the nefarious traffic in intoxicating liquors. With the thought that the saloons may be reduced in number and be under better control and surveillance, I recommend that the law be amended so as to require the payment of an annual license fee of $1,200, divided so that onethird goes to the municipality, one third to the county and one-third to the state." Expansion of the powers of the Railroad commission was reccomended. "That commission," the governor said, "should have authority over the telegraph and telephone lines as much as over other common carriers. The commission also should have some measure of authority over public utilities, such as street car lines, water works, gas and electric plants." He suggested also that congress he me-morialized to permit taxation of national banks, the same as state and savings banks in the state in which they are located.
