NEW MAN ON THE BATTLESHIP

Ensign and Mrs. Paul P. Blackburn Have a Son and "Grandpa" is Happy.

Thomas W. Blackburn received a message yesterday from Seattle that made him smile. It was one of those fine, growing amiles, one that doesn't soon come off. When he smiled once, he smiled again and then he feil to laughing.

"Grandpa," he chuckled to himself. 'Now, what do you think of that? Well, Burlingtonit's a great thing, anyway, and I never knew before how young grandpas really were.'

Mr. Blackburn had received a measure from his son, Ensign Paul P. Blackburn, at Seatttle that a new man was aboard the ship-a son had arrived.
