DOWNFALL OF A PROPHET

New York Community Relieves Its Feelings by Chasing Him Out of Town.

The end of the world, which was to have occurred December 27 just on the dot of high noon, with the disturbance centered just above and below Nyack, N. Y was indefinitely postponed at 12:05 o'clock because of the unexpected translation to another sphere of the prophet who had projected this day of doom, Lee J. Spangler of York, Pa. There happened to be a warrant out for the arrest of Prophet Spangler as a public nulsance contemporaneously with his announced migration to a higher plane than that upon which Nyack stands, and the warrant has not yet been served-in Nyack, at least.

Despite the absence of the prophet which he had previously arranged to account for on the Elljah hypotheosis but which was really accomplished with the help of a horse and buggy, fifteen or twenty women and little girls, dressed all in white, awaited the crack of doom in the Oak Hill cemetery, high up on the snow covered slopes of South mountain back of Nyack. There was a dogfight, one of those who had faith and much weight fainting because of the steepness of the grade, and that was all.

Some time near midnight on Saturday Spangler, who had heard about the warrant, told Mrs. Henrietta Murdock, the high priestess of the saints who gathered in Nyack to await the rolling up of the sky as a scroll, that the Lord had called him and that he was going to go right up to heaven in advance of the general cataclysm. Then he went right out of the back door of Mrs. Murdock's house on lower Main street, over a back fence and into a buggy.

Many of the prophet's followers did not go to bed at all Saturday night, determined to be in at the first blast of the trumpet of the destroying angel. At the first sign of dawn, a party of the faithful-all women white dresses, "specially made for the occasion." Then they foregathered. After bach; press, Miss Annie Miller and Mrs. that they walked in procession to the A. A. Scott; ushers, Mrs. R. S. Grubb. railway station to meet a party of saints who were expected by the early morning train

In due time the train arrived. Not a saint was seen-unless it be the milkman arriving with the early morning supply. Behind the "faithful" was a crowd. This was composed of about 150 rude citizens. They made fun of the disciples holding the annual convention of Spangler when no saints appeared. Undiscouraged, however, the white-robed ones, followed by the rude citizens, marched sorrowfully to Oak Hill cemetery. Why there, no one seems to know, unless it be that the cemetery appealed to them as a happy hunting ground. Arriving, the procession attracted the attention of Superintendent Halsted. Not having been posted as to its object, and not liking the looks of the 150 followers from the grounds. Many of the 150 had eggs which, was rumored, had been sent up specially for the occasion from New York City. The rumor was enough for Halsted; he didn't propose to try the eggs.

Leaving the cemetery the faithful journeyed to the South mountain. There a large congregation had assembled. All waited for the trumpet call of the angel, p but after a while they got tired, nothing happened. Then they dispersed. Spangler got what is known in the vernacular as "cold feet" at the last moment. Whether or not he thought that Nyack was or was not a fit place in which to be found when the all-important moment arrived is not known, but he left town under the shadow of darkness .- New

TURNING DOWN THE GLASS Remarkable Decrease in the Pro duction of Intexicating

Spirits. Uncle Sam has been turning down his glass more frequently than usual of late. Which means, of course, that there has een a decrease in the production of liquor in this country during the last year.

As a result of the prohibition campaign combined with an increased price of grain, there was a decrease in the production of intoxicating spirits of 40,000,000 gallons for the year. Not that Uncle Sam has stopped drinking entirely; he has only determined to be more moderate. And he has been moderate to such an extent that the quantity of liquor which he has rejected is equal to the displacement of six battleships of the new North Dakota type. Imagine Uncle Sam sitting down to table with this vast quantity of liquor beside him. Can you conceive it? An amount of wine and whisky and brandy which would be equal to the displacement of six battleships. Or, if you cannot conceive in your mind the amount of water equal to such displacement, imagine a tank 174 feet 19

nches long, 174 feet 10 inches high and 174 feet 10 inches wide, filled to the brim with its rejected liquor! The report of this amazing decrease in the consumption of liquor comes from Commissioner Capers of the internal revenue bureau. The total production during the year amounted to 126,989,740 tax gallons, which was 40,000,000 gallons less than the amount produced during the sim ilar period in 1907. Because of this decrease the revenue for the full current year are $1,665,000 less than last year. Evidence, isn't it, that Uncle Sam has been turning down his glass?-Philadel-

UNWISE FUNERAL EXPENSES In Time of Direct Need Mourners Extravagent in Showing Grief.

How many Americans are sensible and rational in time of sorrow? Many a famiily whose dear one has been taken goes into mourning and spends more than it can afford for the new clothes. The man whose wife lies dead, and who knows that now more than ever he will have difficulty in keeping his house comfortable for the children, allows the undertaker to sell him an expensive casket. The bereaved heart overcomes the intelligence with the false argument, "It is the last thing we can do for her, and we must do it well." As if we could gratify the dead by such atten-

There is still the grocer's bill to pay, and the doctor's bill for all the long struggle before death came, and one of the chief supports of the family economy has been taken away. Yet we commit the needless extravagance of a pageant that does no honor to the dead, in no credit to the inelligence of the living, but keeps the living for months in cramped circumstances and perhaps makes a tradesman wait for his n cney.
