The Same Thing. "It was a debt of honor so you said!"
The trate sire remarked with vivid rage,
"And now I learn it was a debt of carus,
In which I did forbid you to engage."

"It was a debt of honor, sir," and this.
Was just the answer which his sire got back;
"I tried to cheat at cards and got found And hence they forced me to renounce my-stack." -The Dealer.

For the first time since bridge was introsons ago, the devotees of the game admit tenant Fooks, Captain and Mrs. George that they are tired of it and are looking Ball. elsewhere for amusement. The puzzlo craze does not seem to take the place mates club Wednesday evening at 8:30 of bridge. In the first place anyone from the children to the grandparents can while away the time with puzzles, but with bridge it takes a season to learn, and only a few become expert. Probably the principal reason for the decline of bridge is that there are so many club meetings each week, that after one has accepted the invitations to two or three parties, besides the club meetings it loses its novelty.

Lovers of the great outdoor games of golf and tennis and members of the various outdoor clubs are longing for the ances that it is time to get out the golf s and prepare for another summer of pleasure. The ever popular dance at the Rohrbough and Miss Olive Hammond. Pield club twice each week may be twice as popular as ever and still not crowd the participants because the dance floor has been doubled in size. The dining room space has been nearly doubled and other improvements have been made. The winter season of bridge and theaters and dances is all right in a way but it does not take the place of God's great out-of-doors for these who have learned to enjoy themselves in the fresh air.

Many of the fashionables of Omaha will go to Chicago this week to view the big automobile show and take notes for Omaha's big show the week of February 22. Omaha will allow no city to surpass it in its automobile show which has grown by leaps and bounds until this year will see twice as many exhibitors and twice as many exhibits as last year. Among those going to Chicago to attend the show are Mr. Clark Colt, Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Powell, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Nash, Mr. P. L. Haller, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Buckingham, Mr. George Van Brunt and the week, Mr. and Mrs. Mosher Colpetser.

Against the time when bridge and Sunday night suppers, luchsons, teas and all the other things that go to make up a season, are prohibited, the debutantes are planning a diversion that has the merit of novelty as well as real service-a sewing club. Not that there is anything especially novel about a sewing club but the debutantes have not been accustomed to spend their afternoons with this occupation and so several of the young matrons and others who are proficient, have volunteered to serve as directors and instructors. The several charitable institutions of the city will profit by their industry. For several years the older women have met regularly to sew for the Visiting Nurse association, the Creche, Child Saving institute and Clarkson hospital and it is hoped that the Lenten sewing circles may be made permanent clubs.

TOSSING BOQUETS TO THE HOG Brief Summary of the Great Good the Porker Does the World.

The news of the discovery of an anticholera serum for hogs, by a scientist at the State university of Missourl, is tremendously important, and it is said to be true. The hog may not figure, in the popusody, but when you come to consider his economic relationship to the concerns of humanity where will you find another animal with more points in his favor than just the hog, with all of his bristles and his untidy habits? The hog comes into the world, almost without exception, in a "gregarious form One never hears of a little pig or a mature hog being "spoiled" because he is the only member of the family. There are always others-and plenty of them-to share the favors that come to the how household. It is quite usual for the "family" to number eight or ten, and a litter of twelve is not phenomenal.

Well, within less than a year of the birth of a litter of pigs they are full grown hogs, carrying several hundred pounds of the best meat that ever came from the hand of na

Again, each several hog when he goes to market carries in his corpulent carcass about ten bushels of corn. If you have given the subject the attention it calls for, you can see how much this saves the charges in the transportation of corn. But the hog's usefulness is by no means limited to his life. His real virtues begin o shine forth after he is dead.

To the hog belongs the high privilege and the honor of furnishing the poor man his food. Not that the food is poor, mind you, and not that it is always cheap; but t is more readily produced and more plentiful than any other sort of animal nourishment, and for quality it challenges ompetition and is without a rival.

But it is when it comes to "infinite variety" that the hog shines as a food producer. He is good to eat "in any spot or place." From his head to his tail he is a compendium of delicious parts.-Kansas

WILL LIVE WITH PINS IN HER Doctor Says Nature is Taking Care of the Package a School Girl Swallowed.

Although 15-year-old Florence Smith Patchogue, Long Island, swallowed half paperful of pins-about 100 altogether-three weeks ago, and is still suffering intense pain from those which, after a fortnight's treatment, still remain in her system, Dr W. Charles Willis, who, with most of the nedical profession of Patchogue, has been vorking over her, said that nature would is own wonderful protective walls around the sharp, irritating points of the pins. Miss Smith is the daughter of Mrs Earnest Smith, who keeps a boarding house on Swezy street, Patchogue. She s a pupil in the Patchogue public school but is not fond of study. Her mother has had considerable difficulty in persuading er to remain at school One of their conversations took place during the Christmas otidnys, three weeks ago; and the same night Miss Smith complained of suffering intense abdominal pains. Dr. Willis, who was called in, suspected she was about to have an attack of peritonitis and put her on light diet during observation. During one of her accesses of pain several days later, however, Miss Smith made a con-

"I swallowed half a paperful of pins, about 190 of them." Miss Smith told him "I swallowed them one at a time with a gulp of water-just as if I were taking medicine. I took them because I hated the thought of study and couldn't bear the idea of going back to school."

Dr. Willis called in most of the medical fraternity of Patchogue, and there was an extended consultation.

on record," said Dr. Willis. "Miss Smith will probably recover. But her recovery will be due to nature's wonderful work and not to anything Drs. Overton, Terry and I may do. Although about fifty pins are still lodged in the abdominal tract, the tract does not seem to have been badly affected by them. While the points of the pins have unquestionably perforated the tract, the heads of the pins seem to have stopped up the perforations. Nature, as far as we can judge, is also building adhesive walls around the points of the pins. The copper and gine of the pins may cause Miss Smith to suffer from chronic anaemia and debility all her life. But she will nevertheless get well."

Dr. Willis said he was going to bring Miss Smith to the New York Physical and Surgical hospital on Lexington avenue in few days for an X-ray examination. He also going to write up the case for the Medical Journal as the most remarkable of its kind which he has ever known .--New York Times.
