by paying, for the present at least, the tuition in the Omaha schools of those pupils residing in Cut-Off who have passed the sixth grade.

At the meeting of the board last week it was represented that there were five pupils who, having passed the sixth grade, the highest grade taught in the Courtland school, had gone to the Lake school, which is the Omaha school most accessible to that portion of the city of Council Bluffs lying west of the Missouri river. The Omaha school authorities, however, notified the parents of these pupils that they must pay tuition the same as is demanded of nonresident pupils. This the parents stated they were unable to do and, further, that even if they could afford to pay such tuition, did not believe that they should be required to do so, on the grounds that the school district of Council Bluffs should provide suitable education for the children living within its limits, even if the Missouri river did intervene between the city proper and that portion of the municipality known as Cut-Off.

Three Weeks of Session Closes, with No Important Law Enacted.

APPROPRIATION BILLS

Dendlock on Junketing Trip Forces Other Legislation to Background -School Officials Oppose Codifying Laws.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) DES MOINES, Feb. 8 -- (Special.)-Their weeks of active work on the part of the Iowa legislature without a single measure of state-wide importance passed, in line with the reccomendations of the governor. This is the record of the thirty-third general assembly to date.

The only measure which was of statewide application which has passed was one to make Lincoln's birthday a legal holiday, and this had no opposition. The other bills which have gone to the governor are mainly legalizing acts or acts to correct small errors in the code.

The only bills which have really got fairly started toward the code are certain senate bills intended to strengthen the laws for enforcement and to revise the method of procedure in criminal actions, The bills were introduced by Senator Cosson, after consultation with the attorney general, and upon the specific recommendation of the governor in the biennial message. They give to the sheriffs and county attorneys additional powers and duties, and This is directed especially at the failure of local officials to enforce the liquor laws in communities dominated by the saloons. A supplemental bill is one to give additional powers to the attorney general and to give him an official to send into any part of the state and undertake executive duties. Still another gives the governor the power of removal of incompetent or rebellious officials. This latter is being opposed by the present governor for fear of harm to the party. The bills relating to sheriffs and attorneys passed the senate unanimously.

Nothing has been done in regard to appropriations, as only the bills for state institutions have been received. The state has about $1,500,000 for expenditure in the two years. The three state colleges are asking $1,000,000 and the board of control asks $500,000 for the fifteen other institutions. The houses got into a deadlock on the matter of sending junketing committees out to investigate, and the appropria-

The next most important matter is a proposal to create an insurance deparment, or rather to transfer the department from the office of auditor to that of governor and give it better standing. Authorizing county or district agricultural high schools with state aid.

Placing the state educational institutions under one board.

In the work of the legislature the senate has gone very much further than the house, the committees of the latter not reporting any bills upon which the house could work. The organization of the house was effected by compromises which prevents any concerted program, and there is fear that important measures will fail just because of this fact.

We were at the Kirkwood hotel during the early part of the night, when about 10 o'clock a messenger came hurriedly into the hotel lobby and asked if Postmaster General Dennison was there, that he was wanted immediately at the Ford theater, as President Lincoln had been shot. The Dennison boys and I hurried out immediately to find the postmaster general, and accompanied him to the vicinity of the theater. The street was densely thronged with an excited mob calling for instant vengeance upon the assassin of the president.

She grasped his hand and stroked it, moaning in anguish, and kissed his forehead repeatedly. The blood was still clotted in his hair and beard, but his face wore an expression of extreme pallor, accentuated by his dark, straggling beard. His eyes were closed and to all intents he was dead.
