All Thief Wants is the Cash—After receiving a pair of trousers from the owner's room to the hall, a burglar, who visited Charles Robinson's home Monday night, only took $1 from the pocket and left the garment. Robinson lives at 211 Lake street. The thief forced the back door of the house.

Lawyer is Sued for Divorce—Louis M. Phillips, an attorney, is defendant in a suit for divorce brought by Mrs. Anna M. Phillips. Non-support and infidelity are charged. The plaintiff prays for alimony, $500 a month, and for the custody of two children, Robert, a girl, aged 4, and Robert, a boy of 2 years.

Louis Erhardt is Buried—Louis Erhardt, who died from the effects of an electrical shock last week, was buried Tuesday morning. The service was held at the church of St. Mary Magdalene, Nineteenth and Dodge streets, and interment was in the German Catholic cemetery at South Omaha. Father Sinn conducted the services.

Thug Snatches Woman's Purse—A case of pocketbook snatching was reported to the police Monday night. Miss Gertrude Ashcroft, while at Twenty-fourth and the belt line, within a short distance of her home, was met by a man who grabbed her handbag and ran down the tracks. Her loss was about $1. She lives at 4120 North Twenty-fourth street.

Gets the Protection There—While under the impression that a crowd of people were following and seeking to kill him, Logan Helm ran to the police station Monday night and begged Captain Dunn to protect him. This the captain did by locking up the man in a cell. Helm is believed to have been using drugs or else to be demented. He says he is from Cornell Bluffs.

Looks out for "Black" Beggar—Miss Jonts, of the Associated Charities, has received from the Lincoln association a warning to look out for a "black beggar" who masquerades as a church worker and solicits money under the aliases of Mathews, Blanchard or Savage. He served time in the Lincoln jail for soliciting money under false pretenses and came from Lincoln to Omaha. Miss Jonts has been notified that the man is now working in South Omaha.

Contractors in Legal Mixup—A suit for $45,000 for breach of contract has begun in Judge Kennedy's court. The contract was between the Lamoreaux & Peterson, who were the contractor, and the former of the sum indicated by taking away a promised contract for some miles of grading in Montana on the Milwaukee extension to the coast. Phelan & Shirley had the chief contract, and after submitting a part to the plaintiffs, took it away, so the charge runs, because they could get it done cheaper by others. The contract would have been a highly profitable one to the plaintiffs. A jury will decide the merit of the claim.

Commercial Club Committee—E. T. Swobe, vice chairman of the membership committee of the Commercial club, is to have charge of the campaign for membership during the absence of E. A. Hendricks and has called a meeting of the committee which is to push the work. The meeting will be held at the Commercial club rooms Wednesday. Dan Fuller, chairman of the trade extension committee of the Commercial club of Omaha, has called a meeting of his committee for Friday, when the next trip over Omaha's trade territory will be discussed. The route is not known as yet and not even in prospect except that the trade boosters have planned for some time to visit South Dakota and northwestern Iowa.

PLUMBERS HEAR OLD CRIES

Conventions Are Reminded of Hard Work by the Storm.

TROPICS DELEGATES "FROZE UP"

Technical Papers and Discussions Engage Attention of Sanitary Inspectors and Engineers at the Home.

"My pipes are frozen, come quick." "Cold wind has put out my radiator." "Snow is driving up through the storm sewer and drifting up against the front yard." These are some of the calls that members of the American Society of Inspectors of Plumbing and Sanitary Engineers thought they heard Tuesday morning when they met at the Hotel Rome for the second day of a session, the topic for discussion being "Plumbing Design."

"When I heard that wind begin to blow I thought I heard the telephone bells ringing and complaints coming in by the score," said President Edward Quinn. "I looked for a time as though we could adjourn to some cellar and have an illustrated lecture on 'Frozen Pipes,' but I guess the plumbing in Omaha can stand a more severe test than the storm of this morning."

Men from the Tropics. Delegates from Mobile, Houston and Pasadena huddled together in one corner of the convention hall and wanted to know if this was the kind of storm which had been named the "great plains" with bones. One member from Atlanta, where the "possums" come from, asked what they called it when the wind picked the snow off the ground and whirled it over the city in an earth sweeping cloud. He was told by a westerner that such gentle breezes had put the initiative "to blizzard" in the English language, but civilization had tempered the climate and now such storms were simply called "prairie squalls."

The first paper was by Frank W. Tower of Springfield, Mass., on "Soil and Vent Pipe Design," while Henry B. Davis of Washington, D. C., read an address on "Three-Inch Soil Pipe Stacks." Other papers were by Charles M. McHugh of Cedar Rapids, Ia., C. R. Schmidt of Baltimore, Md.; William Hey of Portland, Ore.; John C. Alford of Chicago, James R. Walker of Waterbury, Conn., and Francis H. Wright of Chicago. All papers were on technical subjects and of interest to the members of the society. From seventy-five to 100 attended the session at the hotel in the morning.

The afternoon session was short and was also held at the hotel, adjourning at 2 o'clock. "Institutional Plumbing" was the subject for discussion and was participated in by Harry W. McVea of Omaha, Frank Drummmond of Rochester, William G. Williamson of Detroit and Thomas J. Clifty of Chicago.

MAN FIGHTS TO KILL SELF

E. C. Haynes Grapples with Wife and Friends in Effort to Drink Carbolio Acid.

Edward C. Haynes, a switchman, living over the F. A. Cressey shoe store, Twenty-fourth and N streets, South Omaha, attempted to commit suicide at 9:30 p. m. Monday by taking carbolic acid. He returned home from Omaha in a state of frenzy, according to the statement of Mrs. Haynes, and had been drinking alcohol all day. Showing her the bottle of acid he threatened to drink it. Mrs. Haynes seized his hands, but he tore away, spilling acid on himself and on her hands. A guest in the house also attempted to get the bottle and threw Haynes on the floor. He had now spilled acid on his face and in his eyes. Then he drank the rest, a small quantity.

Dr. Sepp and Davis probably saved his life. He was taken to the County hospital Tuesday noon, and there may be taken to the state hospital for neuritis.

Haynes has not been working for a long time. He has a wife and four children, who have been maintained by the rooming house which the woman manages.

OSTRICH FARM NEAR OMAHA

That is the Slog a Man Sings to a Woman Way Down in Georgia.

Here's an industry in the very shadow of Omaha that no Omaha man has ever heard about, even though the industry is flourishing and its products are on sale in every large city of the country. The industry is the "Nebraska Ostrich Farm" and it is located twelve miles from Omaha, at least one Ed Hughes says there is such an industry, that it is located at such a distance, that plumes from the farm are on sale everywhere and that he, Hughes, owns a sixth interest in the farm. This is the information Hughes wrote Mrs. E. B. Smith of Atlanta, Ga., a prospective employee.

Mrs. Smith thought it strange that with severe sick headaches for years. They seemed to arise from disordered stomach and impure blood. Not a morning could I arise without dull feeling and pains in my head.

"I tried family physicians' pills, laxative and blood medicines, all failing to produce the desired result."

"My confidence in medicines was badly shaken, but I thought I would give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial. In a short time my appetite improved, my headaches diminished, and the dependent feeling gave way to a cheerful spirit."

"My headaches have been cured, and I recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla."

"I have been keeping a general store for nineteen years, and in that time have sold a great deal of Hood's Sarsaparilla. My customers universally praise it, and in my own experience it has done what no other medicine could do." R. A. GOWENS, So. Holland, Ills.

Hood's Sarsaparilla effects its wonderful cures, not simply because it contains sarsaparilla, but because it contains 26 different ingredients, each greatly strengthened by this peculiar combination. These ingredients are the very remedies that successful physicians prescribe for various diseases and ailments. There is no real substitute for Hood's Sarsaparilla. If urged to buy any preparation, call it "good as good" you may be sure it is inferior. Call it "good as good," and yields the dealer a larger profit.

Get Hood's Sarsaparilla in its usual liquid or tablet form. Sarsaparilla, 100 Doses, 21c.

ostriches would be raised in Nebraska and therefore wrote Mayor Dahlman and asked him if there was such an industry here, telling the mayor that she believed Hughes is stringing me and has evil designs."

The mayor's head of the ostrich farm and agreed with the Atlanta woman that the man Hughes was "stringing" her. Fearing that the woman would not wait for a letter, but would come to Omaha, immediately the mayor sent her a telegram Tuesday reading: "Your man Hughes is a dreamer. Nebraska raises corn, but nary an ostrich."

WIFE LOST, HE SEEKS BALM

Suit for $25,000 for Alleged Alienation of Affections Comes Up Before Judge Day.

That Charles Traveltie, a Fremont county, Iowa, farmer, threatened to disinherit his daughter if she did not get a divorce from William Rood of Omaha is one of the principal charges on which the case of plaintiff's divorce suit for $25,000 damages for alienation of affection. The case began before Judge Day in district court Tuesday morning and a jury secured with little difficulty, its personnel being:

S. F. Woodbridge, John Barshoff, Odie Mason, Harry A. Withrow, Mike Brennan, S. P. Swanson, Charles Stiegel, Odo Hahn, Jr., Charles Durbin, J. J. Sorenson, John D. Foster.

The addresses to the jury began at once. John O. Yeiser, speaking for the plaintiff, and Attorney Mitchell for the defendant. The plaintiff claims that his marriage with Jennie Traveltie Rood would have been happy but for her father, who sought to induce her to cease living with Rood, both while they lived in Iowa and after they came to Omaha in 1902, three years after the wedding. This object, the charge runs, was finally attained by the woman seeking divorce in 1902 and getting it.

The defendant's side represents that Traveltie constantly strove to promote the married happiness of the couple and gave them money when Rood was out of work. It also charges that Rood slandered his wife at the time the divorce suit was initiated.

The first testimony introduced by the plaintiff will show the threat to disinherit. Traveltie is a man of large means and the amount of property at his disposal is large. Attorney Mitchell for the defendant, in his opening statement to the jury in his opening statement on the ground that it was not material.

GIRL AND SWEETHEART GONE

Rosa Mojahed is Believed to Have Eloped with George Simon of Grand Island.

One more girl has eloped. Rosa Mojahed, a 14-year-old Syrian girl, left her home Monday morning and is supposed to be with George Simon, a young man with whom she has been associating. Simon is a roundhouse workman at Grand Island and his parents live at Lexington. He is a Syrian like the girl and is 25 years of age. The police have been furnished descriptions of both and have been requested by the girl's parents to hold her if she is found.

At 8 o'clock Monday morning the girl left her home at 1213 South Thirtieth street, and Simon, who has been in Omaha recently, is said to have met her later in the morning. Since that time Omaha has been troubled by the Mojahed family, who neither are and inclined to the belief that Rosa has been induced to go with her older acquaintance.

For a 14-year-old miss she is rather large and appears several years older. A blue hat, long grey coat, brown skirt and cream-colored waist comprised her traveling clothes, while her supposed partner wore a black suit of clothes, dark brown overcoat and black leather cap. Both have dark complexions, hair and eyes; he weighs about 130 pounds and the about 115, while his height is five feet six inches, is about five inches more than her's.

HARRINGTON'S FATAL HOODOO

Three Chances to Go to Congress, but Always Runged Off the Ticket.

After an absence from Omaha of six years M. C. Harrington, formerly of North Platte, but now in business at Denver, has been visiting Omaha for a few days. Mr. Harrington is the man who was made famous over night by his prediction of the better predicting the end of fusion and the collapse of the populist party, which letter was captured and used by The Bee in the political campaign at the time.

"I am still an uncompromising democrat," says Mr. Harrington, "but in politics have been a victim of peculiar circumstances. I was nominated twice for congress by the democrats of the Sixth district when I lived at North Platte, but each time was fused off the ticket and retired gracefully at the personal request of Mr. Bryan. This last year I was offered the nomination for congress in Denver in a strongly republican district, but things looked so bad that I declined to consider it and then in the landslide the district went democratic, electing a democrat who was drafted with no idea of ever reaching Washington. Colorado is normally a republican state and the chances are that the district will go republican next time, so that the opportunity there is also lost for good."

GOODELL JURY HARD TO GET

Eighteen Men Passed for Cause, with Peremptory Challenges Due.

DOPE AND INSANITY FOR DEFENSE

In Addition to Unbalanced Mind Accused's Attorneys Will Argue that Drugs Made Him Irresponsible at Times.

There is some prospect that the jury will be secured today which will try Van Wilson Goodell for the murder of Edna Kennett. As matters stood at the adjournment of the case yesterday afternoon, the defense had used up twelve of its sixteen peremptory challenges and the state four of its six.

Eleven men have been passed for cause who have not yet been challenged and some of these must of course be among the dozen finally secured. The regular venire became used up during the afternoon and special venire was passed by both sides. It is possible but by no means certain that the jury will be secured by noon today.

In spite of the fact that the quizzing of the petit jurors is rather tedious, the trial holds its interest and the court continues to be filled with spectators. The same questions as on Monday were asked by the attorneys on either side, the state making sure that no one will get on the jury who objects to capital punishment, and the defense invariably asking if the venireman has any prejudice against insanity as a defense.

One juror from the country admitted he had read about the murder.

"It's that case where the girl was killed on the railroad tracks at Florence, isn't it?"

It was decided that he had not formed an opinion on the question of the slaying of Miss Kennett.

The questions about capital punishment recalled to mind the answer of a juror in the Almark murder trial.

He Was Safe, All Right. "Have you any prejudice against capital punishment?" English had asked.

"Well, I never had any of that business," was the answer to which the county attorney replied, "No, I guess not from the looks of things."

It is now known that besides insanity the defense will contend that Goodell was irresponsible through the use of drugs.

CHILD CONSOLES HER MOTHER

Little Girl Testifies on One Side and Boy on Other of Divorce Trial.

Mother and daughter against father and son is the alignment in the bitterly contested suit for divorce brought by Mrs. Bertha Hinrichsen against Frank Hinrichsen and both the 8-year-old girl and the 13-year-old son have taken the stand and testified for their mother and their father, respectively. The case is being heard by Judge Redick.

Henrietta, the little daughter, climbed onto her mother's lap, when Franklin, her brother, reached the climax of his testimony. The boy declared that his mother had been in the habit of remaining away from home late at night. The woman whose own son was attacking, quivered a little and her daughter comprehended nothing more than that her mother was suffering, attempted to console her by affectionate caresses.

The boy did not enjoy his position at all, but stuck to his story through a cross-examination.

"Would you be willing to go back to live with your mother," he was asked.

"Yes, if she would be what she ought to be," he answered.

Questions aimed to show that he had been coaxed by his father did not avail much, but he admitted that he, at one time, sided with his mother during domestic unpleasantness and had often wept when she and the little girl were crying.

KRUG PARK FIGHT STILL ON

Master of Liquor License Not Settled Even by Decision in District Court.

The matter of a liquor license for Krug park is not done yet. The decree which Judge Troup has entered in the appeal of the protestants from the action of the Benson city council ends that grant. The order is something of a formality because the Krug park forces did not wish to contest the case as it stood. For one thing, they are in a petition to the Benson city council is admittedly faulty in that some professed freeholders who signed turn out not to have been such.

A new petition to the council brought later in the year may be the next step.

OVERSIGHT DELAYS THE CASE

Failure to Take Complaint to Court Prevents Arraignment of August Ziebell.

An oversight prevented the filing of the murder complaint against August Ziebell in police court Tuesday morning. The complaint which charges Ziebell with murder in the second degree for the killing of his son, August Ziebell, Jr., was drawn up Monday and was to have been in police court Tuesday morning. However, it was not in the hands of the county attorney's assistant in time for Ziebell to be arraigned on Tuesday. He probably will be arraigned Wednesday morning.

LINCOLN'S REPLY TO GREELEY

Incise Letter Answering Criticisms as Crystallized in Sharp Letter of New York Editor.

Following the adjournment of congress in the summer of 1862 during which session the confiscation bill was passed, President Lincoln was summoned to meet himself of the opportunity offered by the passage of that bill, to decree the instant liberation of every slave belonging to a rebel master. These demands soon assumed, with the more impatient and intemperate portion of the friends of the administration, a tone of complaint and condemnation and Mr. Lincoln was charged with gross remissness in the discharge of duties imposed upon him by the act of congress. They were embodied with force and effect in a letter addressed to the president by Horace Greeley, and published in the New York Tribune of August 19, 1862, to which President Lincoln made this incisive and convincing reply:

Executive Mansion, Washington, August 22, 1862—Hon. Horace Greeley: Dear Sir—I have just read yours on the 19th instant, addressed to myself through the New York Tribune.

If there be in it any statements or assumptions of fact which I may know to be erroneous, I do not now and here correct them. I do not believe in any inferences which I may believe to be falsely drawn, I do not now and here argue against them.

I shall do less whenever I shall believe what I am doing hurts the cause, and I shall do more whenever I believe doing more will help the cause.

I shall try to correct errors when shown to be errors, and I shall adopt new means when they shall appear to be true views.

I have here stated my purpose according to my views of official duty, and I intend no modification of my oft-expressed personal wish that all men everywhere could be free.

Yours, A. LINCOLN.

FINE TRIBUTE TO LOYALTY

Street Railway Gives Veteran Employee $1,000 and Big When He Leaves—Workmen Also Honor.

One thousand dollars in gold from the Omaha & Council Bluffs Street Railway company and a horse and buggy from the same company, a gold watch and chain and a big chair from his fellow employees are some of the presents to be received by J. J. Gorman, superintendent of track and roadway, when he leaves the service of the company Saturday, after thirty-five years of continual employment.

Mr. Gorman has been with the company since the early horse car days and many of the old-timers now employed by the company can remember the day Joe Gorman hired them to drive horse cars in Omaha. He leaves to live on his ranch in Harlan county and to devote his time to agricultural pursuits and to raising stock.

Saturday night he will be lured to the old city house at Twenty-second and Nicholas and there, surrounded by his fellow employees, will be presented with the remembrances they have prepared for him.

In the olden days the horse Joe Gorman drove was one of the best known in Omaha. He was the team man of the old horse car system and when trouble was reported from any part of the line his "fiery steed" would take him to the place of delay faster than the fire department could go.

The beautiful gray has given away a pretty black, and this is the horse which, together with the buggy, the officers of the street railway company have given him.

Officials of the company say they have not decided upon a successor to Mr. Gorman.

FUNKHOUSER FOR COUNCIL

Eleventh Ward Withdraws from Mayor's Race and Tries for Another Term Where He Is.

Millard Fillmore Funkhouser has decided that he does not want to be mayor yet awhile and has filed for renomination as councilman on the democratic ticket. Mr. Funkhouser lives at 126 North Forty-first street and represents the Eleventh ward.

For building inspector on the republican ticket George Richardson of 2212 Charles street has filed for renomination as councilman on the democratic ticket. Mr. Richardson was born in Omaha fifty-two years ago, while Charles H. Wittnell, the present incumbent and the probable democratic candidate, was born in Omaha fifty-four years ago. However, a man not born in this city can become a candidate for the position of building inspector.

H. J. Parford is circulating a petition as a candidate for majority nomination on the republican ticket.

$3600 net profit on 9 acres of cabbage

Geo. Federolf, who lives five miles north of Brownsville, Texas, in the Gulf Coast Country, planted 9 acres in cabbages from which he marketed 227,000 lbs. He sold the entire crop to McDavitt Bros. Commission Merchants of Brownsville, at prices ranging from $1.10 to $2.25 per hundred. All told his gross receipts were $4000, and according to Mr. Federolf's statement, it only cost him $400 to grow the entire crop and load it on the cars. His net profit, over and above all cost, was $3600.

When you consider that this crop was planted in December and sold in March, it makes a pretty good showing for four months work.

HAVE YOUR INDIGESTION ENDED FOREVER

Don't Suffer Another Moment from Stomach Distress or Indigestion.

This question as to how long you are going to continue a sufferer from indigestion and stomach distress is mostly a matter of how soon you begin taking Pepsin.

If your stomach is lacking in digestive power, why not help the stomach to do its work, not with drastic drugs, but a re-enforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the stomach.

People with weak Stomaches should eat Diaphepsin after meals, and there will be no more indigestion, no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, no heartburn, sour rising, Gas on Stomach or Belching of undigested food, Headaches, Dizziness or Vomiting, and, besides, what you eat will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors. All these symptoms resulting from a sour stomach and dyspepsia are generally relieved five minutes after eating one Triangular Diaphepsin.

Go to your druggist and get a 20-cent case of Pape's Diaphepsin now, and you will always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good, because your stomach and intestine will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you. They freshen you and make you feel like life is worth living.
