Electrical Power

If you use an engine drive in your shop, or your factory, you are wasting money every day in the year. You are turning shafts that take power and give no return. If the shafting is true it takes little, if it is very slightly out of line, it takes a great deal. You pay for it and wonder where it goes.

Why not connect your machine to a motor and save useless expense. Let us show you what others are doing.
