NO MORE DYSPEPSIA OR UPSET STOMACH
Don't suffer another moment from Stomach Misery or Indigestion.

Miserable indeed is the man or woman whose digestive system is unstrung—who goes to the table and can not eat or what little is eaten lays like a lump of lead in the stomach, refusing to digest.

If you, dear reader, suffer this way and will put on your wraps now and get from your pharmacist a 50-cent case of Pappe's Dyspepsin and eat one 15-grain Triangles after your next meal you would appreciate five minutes later, how long you suffered unnecessarily.

There will be no more indigestion—no misery in the stomach—no sour feelings or belching of gas, no heartburn, flatulency or eructations of undigested food and acid or feeling of nausea, fullness, headache or other symptoms of a weakened stomach.

for forty-six years, has once more "got into the harness," opening offices in the Brandeis building. "Just could not be contented and be idle," says Mr. Bemis. "Omaha is the city of opportunity and I have decided to open offices again and take active charge of business placed in my hands."

Troops Arrive at Fort D. A. Russell—Headquarters field staff, band and the First and Second battalions of the Eleventh United States Infantry and Batteries A and B of the Second United States Field Artillery arrived Monday night at Fort D. A. Russell, Wyo. These two organizations were stationed in Cuba during the recent American occupation of the island, and en route homeward participated in the inaugural parade at Washington.

Look Out for Medicine Faker—If a patent medicine man calls at your house, be sure he is "on the level" before you buy any Percola or Coca Runa, purple pills or "seething" syrups from him. The police say there is an impostor abroad in the city, selling muck-raked medicine at "cut" prices. They are looking for him, and say he looks like a physician, with a middle-aged appearance and dark hair and a weighing-in figure that beats the heavy weights.

Karry Chaffee Bound Over—Forgery was the charge on which Harry Chaffee was arraigned in police court Tuesday. He pleaded not guilty, waived preliminary examination and was bound over to the district court under $500 bond. It is alleged that he passed a forged check last November. The check was made out to E. Rogers on the Omaha National bank for $5 and signed by George E. Martin. Herman Schaeffer, a South Tenth street saloon keeper, says he was the victim of thirteen such alleged forged checks.

Old Warriors Now at Peace—A heavy handshake and the forgetting of past troubles by both men, characterized the abrupt termination of the police court case brought against John Grant Peeg by Henry V. Plummer. Both men are colored and are prominent among their own people in Omaha. Some alleged trouble a week or two ago caused the instituting of the court proceedings, but now it is understood that the whole matter has been straightened up by a little grip of friendship between the two Tuesday morning, when both appeared in police court.

Fred Hartman Goes Free—By settling with his former employer for taking his touring car and smashing it against a fence at the east end of the Douglas street bridge Fred Hartman has secured a discharge from the police court and was released from jail Tuesday. He was a machinist for Peter Melchers at 12th North street and took a little spin in a machine belonging to Melchers Saturday night. The car was found in a heap, where it had been left after being wrecked, and the police arrested Hartman later on complaint of Melchers, who threatened filing a burglary charge against his former machinist.

JACKS AND JIMS GO TO IT

Democratic Factions Are Bitterly Alligned in the Primaries.

ASHAMED OF THEIR COUNCIL

Fact is Shown in Clubs Sending Out Candidates in All but One Ward.

Where Political Shrewdness Triumphed.

It's a throat-cut proposition among the democrats this year and the old Jack and Jim animosities have broken out with more venom than ever for this primary election.

Democrats themselves are ashamed of the present city council and are afraid to go into the election with the members of that body as candidates for re-election.

It is shown to be a fact by the filing in all wards but one of candidates on the democratic ticket against the present members of the city council. The eighth ward is the exception. Dr. J. C. Davis, by clever political work, having succeeded in keeping out any opponents before the primaries. But the councilmen from the Second, Fourth, Ninth, Eleventh and Twelfth wards have one opponent each, those in the First and Tenth wards two opponents each, and candidates from the Sixth and Seventh wards three opponents each, and the councilman from the Fifth ward has four fellow democrats clamoring for his seat.

Most Backed by Clubs.

Some of the candidates have gone into the race of their own volition, but in many instances they have been brought out by some one of the local democratic clubs.

In the First ward Andy Hansen, the present incumbent, will not only have to face Joe Mik, the Burlington teamster, at the primaries, but he will also have to face H. F. Williams, president of the Bryan Volunteer club, brought out by the club and, it is understood, with the consent of the Jimocrats.

"Next to the fight to be made on Hansen will be that against Alma Jackson, the South Omaha business man who holds the title of councilman from the Seventh ward. Jackson has three strong competitors, two of them Jims and one a Jack. The Jack is C. J. Casan, who was a candidate for the nomination three years ago. He really secured the nomination by a majority of fifty-four votes, say the Jims themselves, but he was counted out and Jackson was given the nomination. Mike Hogan and R. J. McArdle are the two Jim opponents. Hogan probably will receive little support from the Jim club, despite the fact that he is a member of that organization, on account of his ill-advised speech at the last meeting of the club when he said that if he became a councilman, the streets would be cleaned oftener than once a month.

Firms Will Fix Hogan.

As the street commissioner, Tom Flynn, is also president of the Jim club he will see to it that Hogan is left out in the cold. In fact, Flynn told Hogan that the streets would be as dirty as the driveways in a refuse yard if the city waited until Hogan was elected.

Goodly Bruker, the Fifth ward member, finds himself opposed by four members: Ed Lawler, the ball player; Alfred Keller, a saloon keeper at Manderson street and Sherman avenue; and a charter member of the Jim club, William L. Nichols, a pioneer real estate dealer and committee man for twenty years or more, and M. R. Huntington. They are all working hard for the nomination against Bruker.

In the Ninth ward T. B. Norris is shattering Tom McGovern's record in the council.

Oscar K. Turner, Switchman, is Killed by Engine

Missouri Pacific Employee Mangled Beyond Recognition in Blinding Snow and Wind.

Oscar K. Turner, a Missouri Pacific switchman, was instantly killed in the railroad yards at Fifteenth and Grace streets about 4:30 Tuesday morning when he was run over by an engine. He was working at the time and the blinding snow and wind are believed to have caused the accident. No one was witness of Turner's death and he was not seen on the tracks just before the engine passed over his body.

Turner had been in the employ of the Missouri Pacific for about four months and was 35 years of age and married. He lived with his wife at their home, 135 North Seventeenth street. They had no children except an adopted daughter 5 years of age. The couple were married eight years ago and have relatives living in Omaha and Florence.

Two engines, a road engine and a switch engine, were being taken south down the yards from the roundhouse by Engine Hoelter Fred Hart and Assistant Harry Burke. It is thought that on account of the snow Turner did not see and hear the approach of the engines, or else he was being run upon suddenly hearing and seeing two coupled together.

D. H. Brannahan, an employe in the yards, found the body soon after the engines had passed Fifteenth and Grace streets. He called William Rosette, foreman of the night switching crew, who notified Night Yardmaster J. E. Gravenhurst. Corner Healey's assistant was soon at the scene and took charge of the body.

Although the head was crushed practically beyond all recognition and both legs were cut off below the knees and one arm had been severed and the other broken, the body was recognized as that of Turner by his fellow switchmen.

The funeral will be held at the home Thursday and interment will be in Forest Lawn cemetery.

Adversity at Last Breaks Brave Soul in Delicate Body

Sick Woman Supporting Two Daughters Asks Aid When She Loses Last Dollar.

Mrs. Irene Marshall of Pittsburg, a middle-aged woman canvasser, suffering from consumption, has fought hard for many years to earn a living for her two daughters and herself until now has succeeded. Ill luck and ill health have finally won the uneven battle, and she has had to ask aid. Mrs. Marshall had, until Monday night $5, earned by her canvassing work, a work, she says, the measure of whose long hours and hard rebuffs only those who have themselves undergone the experience can appreciate.

Monday afternoon she sent a daughter in Pittsburg $5. In the evening she somehow lost her last $5. This final blow of adversity broke a brave spirit and she went Tuesday morning to the county commissioners to ask them to help her to Pittsburg.

The sale of the money sent and the money lost did not at first appeal to those whose aid she sought. The woman whose frail figure trembled with the weakness of ill health and from deep emotion related that her story, suspicious as it sounded, was true, and she begged that some one accompany her to the post-office to verify it. An agent of the Associated Charities went with her and reported back to the board that federal employes substantiated Mrs. Marshall's tale. The board will arrange that she get the transportation.

The county commissioners will tell you that they are going to do this from business considerations. That it will be cheaper to pay the woman's fare to her home than to keep this hopeless soul poor in purse, but rich in spirit, in the county hospital. This is, however, a subterfuge, although it is true. The county commissioners will send her home because they are moved by her pitiable plight.

BOY HEADS UNION PACIFIC, BUT ONLY FOR ONE DAY

Howard Bassett of St. Louis Gets in Good Graces of A. L. Mohler and Gets Ride in Private Car.

"A Presidential Boy of old St. Louis" is the title of the latest pamphlet issued by the Union Pacific. It tells in most interesting style the story of Master Howard Bassett's presidency of the Union Pacific system for one day. The head master of the Eugene Field school of St. Louis conceived the idea of breaking away from the routine work a little and told each boy to pick out some railroad of which he was to be president for one day, and that day he was to take the school over the line and show him the signals enroute.

Young Bassett wrote to A. L. Mohler, vice president and general manager of the Union Pacific, telling him he was to be president of the road for a day and asking for some data. Mr. Mohler supplied this in abundance and, when it came time for Young Bassett to exploit his line, he invited all the pupils to take a ride with him in his private car. Before starting on the journey, Howard assured all his guests that his lines were equipped with automatic block signals all the way; that one-third of all the block signal installation in this country is on his lines, also that about two-thirds of the work of this character during the last year was done on the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific roads.

Bassett started with his guests at Omaha and, after telling them of the beauties of the Gate City, took his auditors for a ride over the entire system. After the journey had been completed, Young Bassett showed his originality by offering to sell stock in his road and the other railroad presidents who were in the room were so impressed with his railroad that they bought $500 shares at 125, which Bassett assured them was the market price that day.

GOVERNOR TO TALK DESERT

Shallenberger's Text to Egg Men Confused by Dispatch.

ASK, IS IT DESSERT OR DESERT?

Nebraska Butter and Egg Association Will Hold Big Meeting in Omaha—No Conspiracy to Cut Prices.

Governor Shallenberger has selected "The Great American Desert" for his subject when he addresses the Nebraska Butter and Egg association Wednesday, and as the announcement came by telegraph many are wondering if an "S" did not drop off the wires and the governor really intend to speak about eggs as the "Great American Desert."

The butter and egg dealers of Omaha, including President Kirschbraun and Secretary Clark, refuse to consider the possibility of a mistake in the governor's text and on the program, which is printed on steam-pressed, loaf-dried egg case straw-board, will not be an insinuation that eggs and butter are only a desert.

"Frozen Eggs" are the only article of food on the gastronomic repertoire of the butter and egg dealers. Some spring chickens has strolled in, but nothing appears to indicate they will show their displeasure by indulging in frozen ones in any other form except the frozen ones—which won't sell to the trade.

To Hold Serious Session.

The Nebraska Butter and Egg association will hold a serious meeting Wednesday afternoon and an "extra fancy" banquet at the Rome hotel in the evening. "Tubs" and "cartons" of eloquence having been brought west from the Atlantic seaboard, arriving in perfect condition, the weather making refrigeration unnecessary.

President Louis Kirschbraun will give the annual address, while "King" (David) Cole will be toastmaster at the banquet. The visitors, who come from many sections, will be welcomed to Nebraska by J. H. Rauhman of the Fairmont Creamery company and then the governor will speak. S. L. Martin, pure food commissioner, will talk on "The Relation of the Pure Food Commission to Butter and Egg Dealers," while "Pasturization of Milk" will be the subject of a paper by R. W. Connell, Omaha health commissioner.

The toasts for the banquet in the evening are as follows: "Buttermilk" by E. L. Meadum of Chicago; "Branding Storage Eggs" by W. H. Douglas, New Haven, Conn.; "Assault and Battery," James K. Colonel Loses His Uniform

John N. Brewer of Chadron Drops Soldier Garb While Riding in an Automobile.

Lost—A dress suit case with a colonel's uniform.

If anyone has found a grip with a colonel's uniform he or she will confer a favor upon the owner by returning it to Colonel John N. Brewer at the Merchants hotel. Colonel Brewer, Frank Currie, Colonel P. G. Cooper and Senator Charles Coffey comprise a committee sent by the towns of Chadron and Gordon to Lincoln to work for the establishment of a normal school at Chadron, Alliance or Crawford.

When the members of the legislature left Lincoln Saturday night the two new colonels on Governor Shallenberger's staff and Senator Coffey decided to come to Omaha to do a little work with the Douglas boys' delegation, which had come to Omaha to spend Sunday.

Colonel Charles E. Fanning met the westerners at the station and drove them to his auto to the Merchants and on the way the aforesaid grip with the uniform was lost. It has not been found. Colonel Brewer had taken the uniform to Lincoln to work for the establishment of a normal school at Chadron, Alliance or Crawford.

HAFFKE SOAKED BY DEPUTY

Omaha Man Gets Wet Over Head at Seymour Lake.

SAYS WAS PERMITTED TO HUNT

W. M. Marcoe, Who Arrests Him, Says He Was "Resisting an Officer"—Haffke Not Able to Work.

Though he had permission from Dr. George L. Miller and the agents for the property to hunt around Seymour lake, Will Haffke, bookkeeper and cashier of the Byron Reed company, was arrested by W. M. Marcoe, a "special deputy sheriff," and beaten over the head with a heavy cante late Monday evening.

Unable to come to the office, Mr. Haffke telephoned the particulars to his employers and his brother, who is an attorney with an office in the Byron Reed company building. They say they will institute a suit against Marcoe, who accompanied his father to the lake for a short hunt, as he had gone before. He says he had Dr. Miller's permission and that of the agents for the property and always has had, as the company has cared for Dr. Miller's interests whenever it could be of service to him without charge and has charge of the Seymour lake property at this time.

Haffke had shot two ducks and says he was walking along a county road when Marcoe came up and told him he was under arrest. The hunter says he was taking the shells from his gun and explaining to Marcoe where to telephone if he doubted that he had a right around the lake, when another man came up and struck him a stunning blow across the head with the remark, "I'll teach you how to resist an officer of the law."

Haffke's head is in bad condition. He may not work for several days.

"Special Deputy" Marcoe said: "I am a deputy sheriff and I am a game warden. The fact that the man said he had permission from Dr. Miller and from the agent makes no difference to me. My son, Tom Marcoe, was with me. He did not strike Haffke at all, but I struck him over the head with a cane because he resisted arrest. It will all come out in court, as I expect to push this case."

The sheriff's office has no record that "Special Deputy" Marcoe has furnished bonds. They say specials never do furnish a bond.

40 Years of Success

For over 40 years Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines have kept the lead and still stand in the front rank as curative agents.

They are little advertised now, as compared with many others, resting, as they do for popularity upon their many years of marvelous cures and the grateful friends they have made.

ROUNDUP OF STATE T. P. A.

Some Missionary Work Will Be Done by National Officers in Nebraska.

To strengthen the Travelers' Protective association in Nebraska national officers arrived in Omaha Tuesday night and will attend a reception at the Commercial club Wednesday evening, which is to be in the nature of a "roundup."

The order has 60 members in Omaha, which is about half of the total membership in the state.

W. J. Schmecker, one of the national directors, arrived Tuesday. He is the city treasurer of Milwaukee and one of ten who have the affairs of the association in charge.

George W. Smith, chairman of the national board, is expected Wednesday, but the national president, H. O. Bray of Louisville, Ky., will be unable to attend. Mr. Bray is an extensive traveler and about the time he got ready to come to Omaha, several of his foremen sent in word that they must have more money or would quit. Now Mr. Bray is looking for more foremen instead of more members for the association in Nebraska.
