IOWAN LOST IN CITY SIGHTS

C. J. Bell of Sioux City Comes to Omaha for Stray Plants.

DREAMS IN MAZE OF INDUSTRY

Gazing at Gigantic Excavations He Imagines He Sees Familiar Homes in the Earth Up at Home.

C. J. Bell, commissioner of the Commercial club of Sioux City, came down to Omaha Friday to see the sights and check up the industries which have changed their place of residence from Sioux City to Omaha.

With Commissioner J. M. Guild the Sioux City booster went out to see the town in daylight. Up Sixteenth street walked the two commissioners, Mr. Bell gazing at the tall buildings and making comments about having buildings lowered in Sioux City which were too high, one of which was the Garrison hotel.

When Mr. Bell saw the terminal elevators he said he appreciated the fact that Omaha had big elevators, but he understood they were erected with tainted money. He heard Nels Updike was one time interested in a circus.

The court house looked good to Mr. Bell because Woodbury county, from which he comes, has a court house about the size of the Douglas county jail, but when told of the proposed new building, the commissioner marveled much and said:

"Oh, well, Nebraska has an inheritance tax law and Omaha is just like a man I knew in Missouri whose mother left him three estates."

Mr. Bell did not say as much, but when he looked down from the Grain exchange and saw the excavation for the new Brandeis theater, he acted as though the scenery looked familiar.

"Sioux City has many excavations," he whispered mysteriously. "Has that hole been dug for ten or twenty years at Seventeenth and Douglas?"

Omaha is Mecca of Traveling Men for One Week

U. C. T. Will Come In as T. P. A. Goes Out After Recruiting Membership.

Omaha is the Mecca this week of the traveling men.

The Travelers' Protective association has been holding a convention in this city and it will just about get out of town in time for the arrival of the United Commercial Travelers. The latter come Saturday, though they will not meet in convention, but merely to welcome two of their grand officers and to have a generally good time.

Manley W. Hennens of Milwaukee, supreme counselor, and Clarence J. Miles, mayor of Hastings and past supreme counselor, are the two national officers who will be here Saturday evening and who will be banqueted at the Hanson cafe.

The welcome arch will be lighted in honor of the traveling men with the letters "U. C. T." above the word "Welcome."

BOWERS CLAIMS WOODARD WORSTED HIM IN LAND DEAL

Charges Missouri Acres Said to Be Worth $65 Each Proved Much Less Valuable After Trade.

Herman J. Bowers claims that A. F. Woodard got much the better of him in a deal involving Nebraska and Missouri land and a promissory note.

Bowers, in a petition for a temporary injunction in district court, recites that he traded 1,320 acres in Brown county, Nebraska, for 298 acres in Missouri, giving in addition a note for $500.

Woodard, he says, asserted that the Missouri land was worth $65 an acre. This, he alleges, was a somewhat enthusiastic view, the land being worth no more than $25 per acre.

So he went to Woodard and taxed him with this charge. Woodard then agreed to not hold the note against Bowers, says the latter. But Woodard first cashed the note in the bank of Amesworth, and then, buying it back, secured a judgment against Bowers. He is going to levy on Bowers, who prays a restraining order against him.

Major McCarthy Thanks The Bee

Says This Paper's Editorial on "The Stuff of Soldiers" is a Just Tribute.

"I want to thank The Bee for that handsome tribute to the American soldier in its recent editorial on 'The Stuff of Soldiers,'" said Major D. E. McCarthy, chief quartermaster of the Department of the Missouri.

"The American soldier is the best soldier in the world, whether he be a cadet at West Point or a private in the ranks. I am glad that The Bee has seen fit to give the soldier his just meed of praise."

"I sent the clipping to Major Sibley, commandant at West Point, and I know it will please him as well as it has pleased every officer at these headquarters."

CHEERY, WORRIED, TEARFUL, GIRLS SLIDE DOWN SCALE

Hope for Freedom from Jail, but Expectancy Diminishes as Day Progresses.

May Russell and Anna Kroone began Friday with bright and cheery smiles. At 10 a. m. they had ceased smiling and at noon were tearful. By 1 p. m. they had slid clear down the emotional gamut.

The two young women are prisoners in the county jail, held pending payment of fines of $50 each and costs assessed against them in police court because they were caught shoplifting in the Brandeis store Monday afternoon. They had been working a new variation in the game by aid of a shoe box with a secret opening in one end. The girls had reason to believe that relatives were coming Friday morning from their home in Pacific Junction, Ia., to pay their fines. Hence the early joy. The relatives had not appeared by early afternoon and hence the grief.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS

A brother of James Hevers, who died of lung trouble at St. Joseph's hospital Thursday, arrived in Omaha Friday to arrange for removing the body to Buffalo, N. Y., the home of the family. The father of the young man is said to be a well-to-do railway man there.

SORRY FIRST FOR FRIEND THEN SORRY FOR HIMSELF

Mourner's Emotion Finds New Objective When Funeral Carriage Has an Upset on Way to Cemetery.

Anna Metzler's grief over the death of a friend changed abruptly to her own personal anguish October 15 last. She was on that date riding in a carriage to a funeral in South Omaha and the carriage upset en route. She holds the Union Stock Yards company, Leo Hoffman and William W. Mace jointly responsible and asks $10,000 for damages, which included "a severe, permanent and dangerous laceration and fracture of the head on the left side of her face."

The Stock Yards company is blamed because it is accused of allowing a hole to form in the street by its switching track at Forty-ninth and I streets. Leo Hoffman was the undertaker in charge of the funeral and Mace the liveryman whose carriage were used.

CONNELL TAKES THE JUROR DESPITE HIS PREJUDICE

Street Railway Lawyer Accepts Man Who Admits He Has It In for the Company.

"I got a prejudice against the street car company because I was once hurt myself," explained Henry Anthony, a colored man being tried out for the jury in a case before Judge Day. It is the suit of Bert Rankin against the Omaha & Council Bluffs Street Railway company for $10,500.

W. J. Connell accepted Anthony in spite of his declared prejudice and the plaintiff's lawyers had no objection.

A suit for $5,000 against the same company was begun Friday morning by Attorney J. E. Rait for Della H. Clawson, who was injured getting on a car.

STRONG MAN PAYS COSTS

Fellow Fools the Bill for Bicycle He Smashes in Test of His Might.

"Repair the bicycle or pay a fine of $5 and costs," said Police Judge Crawford to Tom Carroll of 283 Third street Friday. Carroll repaired the wheel.

He was arrested Thursday evening by Patrolman Timm because he misused a bicycle belonging to Harold Smith, a small boy working as a messenger for the American District telegraph. It is said that Carroll wanted to show how strong he was and picked up the lad's wheel and threw it against a building, breaking a tire rim and doing other minor damage. He was released from jail Friday as soon as he had had the repairing attended to.

Shipping Floors on the Sidewalk Must Come Down

Cannot Be Tolerated Even on Permission of City Council, Says Judge Troup.

Owners of warehouses and shippers in the wholesaling district who have erected shipping platforms over the sidewalk or where the sidewalk ought to be on permission of the city council, may be put to the inconvenience of removing them if property owners near by object to such use of the walks.

Judge Troup Friday held that the Loose-Wiles Cracker company could not build an elevated sidewalk, one which it could use for a shipping platform, along the side of the warehouse it is erecting at

KNOWS TWO MAYBRAY MIKES

Monmouth Man Tells of L. J. Warner, Who Helped the Game Along.

"The relatives of L. J. Warner, alleged member of the Maybray gang of lunatic people, are highly respected citizens of Monmouth, Ill.," says S. W. Pillsbury of that city, who is in Omaha visiting at the home of his sister, Mrs. Charles Waterfield, 314 Mason street.

"Mr. Warner's father is a retired merchant and is quite wealthy and all the family connections are of the best. The younger Warner is a married man and has a fine family in Monmouth, but the man
