Activities of the Organized Bodies Along the Lines of Un-dertaking of Concern to Women.

Among the newest organizations of Omaha women and one from which much is hoped and expected, is the Omaha Storytellers' league, a branch of the national league. It was organized last month and its object is to elevate the standard of children's literature and eliminate the undesirable story and the taste for it, as far as possible. The influence of the books they read upon children is fully appreciated by all who have made a study of children, but it is a surprising fact that comparatively few parents and by no means

Why we need a uniform food and drug law in the several states should be clearly evident, writes the chairman of the General Federation's pure food committee in her March message to clubdom.

First. At the present time there are scarcely two states where the food laws are the same. Often they differ markedly, Such wide differences work hardships upon the manufacturers and jobbers who do business in a number of states. The enactment of uniform food laws throughout the states would enable the manufacturers to use the same label wherever their goods are to be sold. It would reduce the cost porter. The conclusions were the ideas stand on the main issues of the camof manufacturing, labelling and distributing

Yours truly, dumping ground.

Third. With uniform food laws the mas of legal decisions growing up in the different states become universally applicable, a point established in one state stands good in all and much costly and tedious litigation is saved, The model food law bill, prepared by ommittee appointed by the National Association of State Food and Dairy departments, has been drafted with care to clude the best and most effectual features of the various state laws and in harmony throughout with the requirements of the national law. It has practically the features of the national law, with the excep-One of the most promising musical programs of the year will be given Tuesday evening at the United Presbyterian church. St. Cecelia club of Tarkto college will give an entertainment of fifteen numbers. There are twenty-two members in the chib enumerated those ingredients which are recognized as deleterious and are so held under the majority of the state laws. It also makes the standards, as prepared by Department of Agriculture, the official agricultural chemists and the National Food and Dairy department, a part of the law itself, thus making it no longer necessary for the courts to pass upon each particular product as to whether it is up to the standard or not. This does not preclude the pale of any other product of a lower degree of strength than the standard, providing it be labelled to show the fact.

The model food law does not provide for the guarantee clause, as in the national haw, for in a case tried in Pennsylvania, where the clause was included in the law, it was shown to be unconstitutional, since the states clearly have no power to reach the manufacturers outside of the state who do business within the state. However, each state may make provisions for a hearing in all cases where there is a violation of the food law, thus affording an oppor tunity for the manufacturers to be heard should they so desire.

STRANGE FREAK OF A STORM Also a Certificate of Veracity for the Man Who Piped it off.

A Pine Knot (Ky.) newspaper correspondent tells of a surprising incident in connec tion with a storm that swept over Martin county, Kentucky, by which Rolling Fork creek in that county was lifted from its bed by a tornado and every drop of water in the entire length of the creek carried half a mile before the wind let go. The ribbon of water, held in the air in its original form by the remarkable wind, was then deposited or tossed into a hill, and flowed down into the valley, forming a complete lake, which then began draining through a river in a torrent of such volume that Its roaring could be heard for miles. Stock caught in the torrent was drowned and several people caught in the rush of the waters thus transplanted had narrow escapes from being drowned and carried away, Wind and rain, accompanied by thunder and lightning, had been extreme during the storm, so that people were not surprised at any remarkable achievement of the storm. The creek bed was absolutely dry until the little spring where the stream starts could begin replenishing the stream. The creek ran along near the top of ridge, and when it was literally picked up by the wind it was bodily carried across to the next ledge half a mile south, and left to form a lake in the crevasses. It is believed that the wind swept under the water between the water and the supporting soil, and so had little difficulty, owing to its volume and speed, in carrying the stream for the half mile it traveled. Many people who did not see it done have expressed some doubts as to its truth, but the correspondent is a man of veracity and could gain nothing by stating such a thing if i had not occurred .- Ananias Courier.

There is no way of making lasting friends like "Making Good"; and Dr. Pierce's medicines well exemplify this, and their friends, after more than two decades of popularity are numbered by the hundreds of thousands. ### Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It still enjoys an immense sale, while most of the preparations that came into prominence in the earlier period of its popularity have "gone by the board" and are never more heard of. There must be some reason for this long-time popularity and that is to be found in its superior merits. When once given a fair trial for weak stomach, or for liver and blood affections, its superior curative qualities are soon manifest; hence it has survived and grown in popular favor, while scores of less meritorious articles have suddenly flashed into favor for a brief period and then been as soon forgotten.

For a torpid liver with its attendant indigestion, dyspepsia, headache, perhaps dizziness, foul breath, nasty coated tongue, with bitter taste, loss of appetite, with distress after eating, nervousness and debility, nothing is as good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It's an honest, square-deal medicine with all its ingredients printed on bottle-wrapper-no secret, no hocus-pocus humbug, therefore don't accept a substitute that the dealer may make a little bigger profit. Insist on your right to have what you call for. Don't buy
