

At Kilpatrick's Wednesday

We bought from a large importer his entire line of sample pieces and odd broken sets of fine Swiss Nainsook and Cambric Embroideries. The prices were very low. We always share the profits of an exceptional purchase with our customers. We have had some great embroidery sales—this will be immense. The prices fixed for Wednesday we predict will fill the store. The values are simply remarkable. Four great lots at four different prices.

The new company is organized under the name of the Consolidated Fuel Company. Its capital stock is $3,000 and the incorporators are besides Mr. McGinnis, William R. Brooks and Alfred P. Hopkins. Captain Brooks, who has had charge of the business for Mr. McGinnis, will be actively in charge of the new concern. Mr. Hopkins lives in Michigan, but will shortly move to Fremont. ## PUTTING UP MUNICIPAL TICKETS

Nelson Blossoms Out into City of the Second Class.

HASTINGS, Neb., March 23.—(Special)—The contending side in the local campaign, whose sole issue is prohibition, have settled down to a struggle which promises to be one of the fiercest in the history of Hastings politics. Usual party lines have been completely eliminated, all the candidates standing on tickets either for or against the present system of high license.

The prohibitionists are combining their efforts to gain a majority in the council and this feature of the contest completely overshadows the race for mayor. There are four councilmen to be elected. If the prohibitionists elect three of the four Hastings will take its place in the prohibition column. Of the four wards two were easily for high license in the last spring election.

A local newspaper has been engaged to give its space liberally to the prohibition cause from now until the election. As a reflection of the intensity of the feeling over the question here the opening announcement in this periodical contained the declaration: "To hell with those who justify the saloons on financial grounds."

NEILSON, Neb., March 23.—(Special)—Some little time ago it was decided to organize the village of Nelson into a city of the second class, having grown in population to the required number. Vinton, police judge; F. A. Scherzinger and D. L. Davies, councilmen for the First ward; George Jackson and Frank Hutchinson, councilmen for the Second ward. It has also been decided by the citizens to take up the matter of installing a system of water works.
