suffrage amendment to it in committee of the whole. Friends of suffrage consented to expunge the record with regard to these amendments if the Howard bill was advanced and this was ordered.

Democrats Trail Along. The eleventh hour introduction of a bill regulating watering of corporation stock by Governor Shallenbeger on the heels of the slaughter of such a bill introduced by a republican in the senate, is causing much comment about the state house. The fact that this matter was not thought of until the Brown measure, which had been before the senate nearly the entire session, was taken up is taken as an indication that the executive is trying to cover and took the opportunity only because it was necessary to save the party's face. Being introduced so late in the session, the chance of defeating it is excellent. The democrats will practically cover the same ground that was so long overlooked in the Brown measure.

Kill Lincoln Charter. Mayor Brown's democratic house of representatives threw out the persons in Lincoln who are attempting to pass a charter bill with which the mayor and many business men are dissatisfied and temporarily, at least, killing the measure. The bill came up on third reading last night and after several calls of the house it received 4 votes to 49 against it. Brown of Lancaster and Taylor of Hitchcock, who are for the bill, voted in the negative in order to be in a position to secure a reconsideration tomorrow if possible.

The charter was framed by a self-appointed committee, which even failed to invite Mayor Brown to express his opinion on the matter. It was rushed through the senate and then the business men of Lincoln got busy. They signed petitions and filed them with the house protesting against the charter unless it was amended so that it could be voted upon by the people.

Senator Miller and others stated that it would be impossible to carry the charter at a special election and for that reason they objected to the amendment. Dr. Hall and other prominent business men opposed the measure along with the mayor. Under its provisions three men would have absolute charge of the city government and all of the city's finances and paying matters.

"What do you ascribe the defeat of the Lincoln charter?" was asked of Senator Miller, the introducer, tonight after the vote had been taken. "Bear," said the senior senator from the capital city as he brought his fist down on a desk.

"The brewers of the state thought they saw county option concealed in its sections somewhere and ordered it voted down." Tight Squeeze for Omaha Firemen. Omaha firemen and policemen whose salaries were adjusted in the new Omaha charter, in the main being raised above the old standard, will have a close shave to get their money. Today it was discovered that the charter bill—S. P. 1—which had been signed by the governor in the repealing clause omitted to repeal the section of the old charter which was amended to provide the salary changes. This would have left the old wage scale standing. In order to remedy this defect, Governor Shallenbeger, at the instance of Senator Hanson, sent to the senate a new bill covering the defect, which was read the first time today.

New Buildings Agreed To. The senate today agreed to pass bills appropriating $70,000 for two new buildings at the Beatrice Institute; $40,000 for an administration building at the Fern Normal; $50,000 for a new wing to be added to the Kearney Normal school. Senator Howell asked to find out what $50,000 total of appropriations would amount to, but the senate from Lancaster had not figured it out and said it did not make any difference.

Randall Attacks Kearney Methods. Discussion of the Kearney Normal bill brought from Randall of Madison an amendment that the new structure should not be built out of cement blocks. He charged that scandal had grown out of the erection of the building and when Senator Majors, who was a member of the board erecting the building denied this, Randall asked if a member of the board had not been interested in the contract and if the architect had not had trouble with the contractors.

"Not to my knowledge," declared Senator Majors in reply. "But I do know it to be a fact that the contractors were out about $15,000 on the contract and that the state has not a single building erected for $50,000 that is so commodious as this. The contractor gave a bond for repairs and was rightly held to government test blocks."

Senator Randall asked if Member Gregg of the Board of Education was not interested in the contract for the building and if Dr. Thomas, president of the school, was not owner of a patent on an appliance for making the cement blocks used. Senator Majors said these matters were not in his knowledge and Senators Ollis and King explained that investigation had revealed that Mr. Gregg was a stockholder in a hardware company that had furnished the material for the building and that Dr. Thomas owned a patent for making cement blocks which he had devised out of the experience, received in construction of the school, but that he did not have the appliance at the time the school was built and had in fact sold it.

The senate, with the exception of Senator Randall, took the view it was not good business to handicap the board that would have to build the new school by specifying the kind of material that should be used. Further, it was expressed that cement blocks had been provided of good building material and should not be condemned if properly manufactured. The bill was recommended to pass, in the form it came from the senate.

Reading Companies' Charges. The senate did not complete discussion of S. P. 291, by Barton, today when it was brought up in committee of the whole, because of a question raised by some of the attorneys whether the state had the right to fix the rate of charges made by companies of this character for bonds. Figures were produced to show that the companies had evidently by agreement raised the premiums on bonds for state officers in some instances as high as 300 per cent. He said this was a combination it was high time the state should step in and stop. The bill, which had been favored by Speaker Pool in the house, gave to the auditor, the attorney general and the governor the right to fix premiums.

Today no senate files will be advanced in the upper house unless by majority vote, the senate having agreed to this on report of the special joint committee appointed to determine the day to stop consideration of bills in the house in which they originate. This does not mean that senate files have been postponed, but that the work of the affixing committee of the senate has stopped, except as to house rolls and that it will take action of the senate-at-large to induce any more senate bills.

County Option Laid on Shelf House Passes the Quietest on the Measure. (From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, March 24.—(Special)—County option is dead forever and eternally insofar as this legislature is concerned. It was killed in the house this afternoon in a clear cut fight and it was killed several days ago in the senate. The vote against the measure was 55 to 39 for it.

When the bill came up in the committee of the whole a motion was made to limit debate to fifteen minutes for each side. Boyd of Hamilton county, introducer of the measure, made a plea for it in the name of "let the people rule." He stated that from 75 to 90 per cent of the crime committed in the state was traceable directly to the saloons.

Griff of Cumming made the principal speech against the bill. He argued that if the temperance people had agreed to the measure they should put a ticket in the field and elect it. He told of his trip through Kansas, where he said in one section the country the people were opposed to prohibition, and in another they violated the law every day. Those people favored license, but being unable to secure that they simply violated the law. The people of Cumming, he said, were opposed to the bill, and those people, he said, were the vast on earth. The bill, he said, would not give the people home rule.

Taylor of York in his argument for the bill argued that the county had to pay the cost of prosecutions growing out of the sale of liquor and therefore the county should have the opportunity to vote on the question of licensing saloons. Thieszen of Jefferson was sure the temperance people would not be satisfied even if the bill passed. McColl of Gage said no man in the house would defend the liquor business. But he said saloons had been shut out of Beatrice and now the temperance people and the preachers were in favor of doing away with prohibition there. He advocated the enforcement of the present liquor law and said the temperance people did not have the backbone to enforce the law.

BOY IDENTIFIES MAN AND WOMAN

as a nurse while the boy was in her hands. A short time before the people were picked up by the police he secured her disguise and two of her grips. The moment she entered my office I threw the nurse's apron over her shoulders and placed the cap on her head. She objected at first, but finally smiled and admitted that the goods belonged to her."

Man Tries to Escape. The suspects were held in the police station late Tuesday night after the man had made a desperate effort to escape from the police. He jerked away from Captain Shattuck on the street near the police station and ran. Captain Shattuck fired two shots at the fleeing man and the suspect, thoroughly frightened, stopped and surrendered.

"Oh, it's all off now," said the woman, as she entered the police station door. "You got us dead right. There will be hell in Sharon when Buhl hears of this."

When the woman was searched in the police station $700 in bills of $5, $10 and $20 denominations were found sewed carefully into the inner side of her skirt. All but $50 of the money was done up in $100 packages. This is the shape in which Mr. Whittia withdrew the money which he paid to the kidnapers in this city. A general description of the packages of money was read over a telephone to Mr. Whittia at his home in Sharon, and he said he believed it was the same money which he had not as a ransom for the capture of his son. Bills and loose change to the amount of $55.50 were found in the pockets of the man suspected when he was searched. This brought the total amount of money which the two suspects had up to $2,545.50.

At first the woman refused to talk to the police. She said to have been slightly intoxicated when arrested and hoping that her condition might be better later, the police locked her up for a few hours. Shortly before daybreak Chief Kohler escorted her into his private office and then began a grilling examination of her. She appeared to be in a state of nervousness.

Boy Kept in Old House. While Whittia's place of captivity while he was kept in Cleveland was an old, abandoned residence on Prospect avenue, near east, diagonally opposite Plymouth Congregational church. This fact was learned by the police, acting on meager information furnished them by the boy before he was taken to Sharon by his father. The house hit upon by the kidnapers has been unoccupied for some time. In the rear of the building are stables.

While imprisoning the Whittia boy in the old residence, the kidnapers, a man and woman, ate most of their meals at the restaurant of the Hotel Thrope, 213 Prospect avenue, southeast, across the street. This enabled them to return to their captive without leaving him alone long.

"About five days ago," said Thomas E. Thorpe, the proprietor of the hotel today, "a man and woman began coming to the hotel for their meals. I know now that they resembled the kidnapers, but I did not read of the kidnapers. Neither offered any information concerning their business. The man wore dark spectacles, the very ones, I suppose, that the boy had on at the time of his return. They had never brought the boy here."

The discovery of "Billy" Whittia's hiding place was made by Detective Bernhard after a talk with "Billy." The boy remembered little distinctly, but he recalled that he had been kept in a house from which he could see tall trees, a stone church and the sign of "Thorpe's Hotel."

Many Hints at Mystery. SHARON, Pa., March 24.—Important and sensational developments concerning the Whittia case and the woman suspect under arrest are expected to occur in Cleveland this afternoon.

Sharon has it that the woman is personally known to the entire Whittia family and efforts will be made to have prosecution stopped. An information made here this morning has been destroyed. It is said, "The absence of Francis H. Buhl, the millionaire member of the family, was commented upon freely. It will be remembered that Buhl, after the kidnaping, was in Cleveland yesterday and declared: "There will be hell in Sharon when Buhl hears of this."

What actuated Mrs. Whittia to go to Cleveland with her husband and two children, Willie and Salina, cannot be stated definitely. Many rumors are afloat this afternoon. It is said that the incident happened a number of years ago and has been suddenly brought up by the abduction of the boy.

Divorce Suit Figures in Case. It is alleged that a divorce suit, which occurred some time ago, is playing an important part in the kidnaping case and that it is desired to conceal the details of a scandal which has no direct bearing upon the abduction affair.

The information made here this morning were destroyed and new information charging "John Doe" and "Mary Doe" with abduction were substituted. The cause being doing this is said to have been due to mistakes made in Cleveland.

Since the day following the abduction rumors have been rife that a prominent woman who formerly lived in Sharon might be implicated in the case. This woman knows all that could be known concerning the Whittia family and Mr. Whittia's financial standing would be perfectly known to her.

The supposition here is that every point of the case was arranged by the woman. The man, of course, stole the boy from the school, but outside of this the woman was the leader. It is said by detectives today that the kidnaping case has cost Mr. Whittia $20,000.

DENVER IN THROES OF STORM (Continued from First Page.) now prevails in the northwestern section of the state, with freezing weather. Six Killed in Texas. FORT WORTH, Tex., March 24.—Reports received here today from Wise county, thirty miles north of here, say that a terrific electrical storm swept that county early today and that four persons were killed and a number of others injured. The town of Sildell is reported practically destroyed by the storm's fury and only two houses were left standing. Many farm houses throughout the county were wrecked. Bridgeport and Decatur are said to have suffered heavy losses. Two negroes, Henry and Will Cook, were killed by lightning near Sander. Later advice received at Sanger from the storm-swept area gives an increasing death list. A. D. Price, a farmer, his wife and five children and a farm hand were burned to death three miles north of Sildell by the destruction of their home. Twenty persons are reported injured. The storm first appeared about midnight, when it struck the Price home while the family were asleep. The wind and rain came with the tornado-like force from the northwest. The path of the storm was five miles wide. Fifty houses and stores at Sildell were completely wrecked. At Boliver, eight miles from Sildell, many houses were blown down. Two negroes named Clark were killed. The home of C. M. Bailey was destroyed and the members of the family bruised and cut. Wires are down in all directions and news from the towns in the storm's path is coming in slowly.

CLARK ATTACKS TARIFF BILL (Continued from First Page.) to be reported on the day the Payne bill passes the house, according to present intentions of the republican members of the committee who are holding daily sessions. Consideration of the schedules on earthenware and pottery was begun and concluded today. Ideas presented by Senator Aldrich yesterday in favor of reducing public expenditures so as to fit the normal revenues of the government rather than expand the income to growing extravagance, is receiving general support among senators. It is now believed it will be possible to avoid all forms of special taxes, especially as government officials are counting confidently upon better industrial conditions throughout the country as soon as disposition is made of tariff legislation.

Few controversies between republican members of the finance committee are anticipated. The tariff experts in the employ of the committee, it is said, regard such questions as those of free lumber and free hides as purely "sentimental," being convinced that placing them on the free list would subtract very little from the revenues of the country and that the importation would be so infinitesimal as not to enter appreciably into competition with American lumber and American hides. As a result of the harmony which exists behind the locked doors of the finance committee room, the impression is growing that the real tariff law will be made in conference after bills have passed both houses. The conference, it is said, may continue for several weeks. The senate committee will begin holding night sessions within a few days.

BALL SEASON OPENS AT UNI First Game Booked with Wesleyan and Second at York. LINCOLN, March 24.—(Special)—Two games are booked for the Cornhusker basketball team this week. The first game of the season will be played tomorrow afternoon at University Place with the Wesleyan university nine. The second game of the week will be pulled off Saturday, when Coach Fox will journey to York with his team to play the Wesleyan college team of that city. Coach Fox expects that his men were now sharp to put up a good article, and he and he expects them to trim the Wesleyan collegians in the initial game tomorrow. Last spring the Methodists proved to be too strong for the Cornhuskers in the opening game of the season and gave Coach Fox the surprise of the year and a large score. This season the Cornhuskers are determined to take the opening game and thus clinch the championship with the Wesleyan team before the regular season on the Nebraska schedule are started.

The fifth annual gymnasium exhibition of the university will be held in the armory on Friday evening. The Nebraska gymnasium team, which is to compete in the annual western intercollegiate meet in Lincoln on April 10, will be selected as a result of the work done in this contest. In addition to the regular events a fencing contest and a wrestling bout will be pulled off with university students as participants. The class relay race for the championship of the university will also be run off at this time. Among the patrons and patronesses at the contest will be Regent and Mrs. Allen and Chancellor and Mrs. Avery.

COLE TO COACH NEBRASKA AGAIN sends His Acceptance to the Athletic LINCOLN, Neb., March 24.—(Special Telegram)—William H. Cole, coach of the Cornhusker football team for the last two seasons, has been named as the new coach of the team. His acceptance of the offer of the head coach position with Nebraska for next year, was tendered to him two months ago by the Nebraska athletic board, but he wanted to succeed Charles H. Baird as the director of athletics at Michigan and held off on the Cornhuskers until the Wolverine position was filled.

"King Cole is related to Nebraska at a salary of $3,000, that being the same he was paid last season. At the head of the Cornhusker football coaching system for the last two years Cole has proved a maker of strong gridiron coaches. During his directorship of the state university he put down an eleven that won the Missouri valley championship. Last fall the team was equally strong, defeated Army, tied Minnesota, but lost the final game of the title race to Kansas.
