the Largest of Any March in the History of the Yards.

Ivan Mitchell of Arlington, Marie Douglas f Plattsmouth, Letha Ross of Scribner, Heater Coilins of North Bend and Geraldine Kemp of Blair were the winners in the east central Nebraska high school declamatory contest which took place at the auditorium of the South Omaha High school last night. It was after II o'clock before the decision of the judges was announced. The judges were Prof. French of the University of Nebrasks, Miss Nagl of the y of Council Bluffs. Ten contestants competed for the prizes under rules governing averages for pronunciation and articulation, carriage and gesture, memory, expression and general There were three classes, the oratorical class with Ivan Mitchell as the only contestant and the dramatic, in which the following took part: "As the Moon Rose," Hester Collins, North Bend: "The Death Disk," Velma Covert, Columbus; "If Were King," Marie Douglas, Platts-"Gazelle and Swan," Eloise Gilchrist. Mead: "Commencement." Fave Hathaway, Blair; "A Reasonable Doubt," Letha Ross, Scribner; "The Sign of the 'ross," Ora Sigler, Schuyler. In the humorous class Miss Geraldine Kemp of Blair and Ben Windham of Plattsmouth were the contestants. Mrs. J. W. Gamble offered a solo at the pening of the program. She is one of the talented musicians of Plattsmouth. Marilla. Maxwell of Fremont gave the closing solo numbers. The local high school orchestra
