COUNCILMEN BACK IN WORK

No Conveyance Handy and Street Inspection Goes Over.

ANOTHER TRY AT IT TODAY

Member From the Sixth and Other Councilmen Cannot Agree on Dividing Line for Precincts in the Ward.

The city council met yesterday afternoon in adjourned regular session as a committee of the whole, but owing to the fact that one of the patrol wagon horses is laid up with distemper the work mapped out for the afternoon had to be postponed. It was the intention of the councilmen to make a tour of the streets which it is proposed to pave this year, with a view to determining whether the abutting property could stand the cost of the suggested improvement. The councilmen were opposed to walking, not on the grounds of the physical exercise involved, but because they thought their valuable time was being wasted in their valuable time. The patrol wagon, the usual conveyance for the councilman's body when on a tour of the city, not being available, owing to the indisposition of one of the horses, it was decided to hire an automobile. The only auto in the city of sufficient capacity to accommodate the members of the city council happened to be in the shop for repairs. A liverman was appealed to for a team, but without result, and then Contractor E. A. Wickham, ever willing to help the councilmen out of a hole when the opportunity would present itself to him, offered to loan one of his teams, which was working at the new bridge on Bryant street. The team was brought to police headquarters and everything was ready to hitch it to the patrol wagon, but the councilmen backed down when they saw the work horses.

Why we might just as well drive around the city in Dobson's garbage wagon, they cried in unison, and on motion of Councilman Olson, who was presiding in the absence of Mayor Maloney, it was decided to adjourn until this afternoon, by which time City Clerk Casady promised to have arrangements made for an automobile.

The only business transacted at the city council session was the granting of a saloon permit to Frank Neltner, 370 West Broadway.

In committee of the whole the councilmen took up Councilman Bellinger's motion to reconsider the division of the First precinct of the Sixth ward into two voting precincts. After some discussion during the absence of the member from the Sixth ward, who did not arrive until later in the proceedings, it was decided to compromise matters by fixing the dividing line at Twenty-third street. The ordinance as submitted by Mr. Bellinger called for the line of demarcation at Twenty-eighth street. Mr. Bellinger said he expected to oppose the line being fixed at Twenty-third street when the ordinance came before the city council next Monday night with the recommendation of the committee of the whole.

Some time ago P. F. Petersen, a local artist, offered to sell to the city an oil painting of Council Bluffs in the pioneer days, to be hung in the councilman's chamber. The committee of the whole decided to recommend that the view of the depleted condition of the municipal treasury the painting be not purchased.

City Solicitor Kimball stated that during the taking of testimony in the suit brought by the C. B. Nash company of Omaha to restrain the city from issuing the proposed $50,000 water works bonds it had been claimed by the plaintiff company that the names of several signers of the petition asking the submission of the proposition to issue the bonds of a special election could not be found in the city directory. Mr. Kimball suggested that the councilmen had been active in circulating these petitions assist him in locating these persons, so that they might be subpoenaed to testify on behalf of the city. It was arranged that the councilmen who circulated these petitions meet with Mr. Kimball in his office and check over the list of signers with a view to locating any disputed names.

TROUBLES OF AUTOMOBILE MAN

Arrested on Misdemeanor Charge and Machine Attached.

The trials, tribulations and misfortunes of George W. Moore, the Omaha automobile charged with reckless driving on lower Broadway at an early hour on the morning of March 21, when he ran his machine into the wagon of J. D. Barnett, who was coming from Omaha with his load of morning paper, piled up with a fearsome rapidity yesterday morning. Moore's hearing was again to a standstill on the wheels of a northwestern passenger train by a few inches. As it was, the pilot of the locomotive struck the rear wheel of the auto and nearly tilted the machine over. The train, fortunately, was only just pulling out of the depot and the engineer reversed the lever and was able to bring the train to a standstill before any serious damage was done. It is said that Moore dashed under the crossing gate as it was being lowered to permit the train to pass. He said the automobile got beyond his control. Conductor George Kuhn, who was on the roadway at the side of his car, waiting to go ahead and flag it as the train started, saw the automobile and hurried to the ground. His injuries, while not serious, necessitated his quitting work for the day. The automobile passed over his foot, bruising it, and his back was wrenched.

By the time Moore reached police headquarters he found a paper in his pocket which was served with paper in a suit brought by J. D. Barnett for $100 damages for the injury to his wagon, the result of the collision on March 21, and for the assault alleged to have been committed on him by Moore. The officer of the court also served attachment papers on Moore's automobile and the $100 cash bond was put up when arrested Monday night.

This formality had barely been gone through when Charles Barnett, roadmaster of the street railway company, appeared on the scene and filed two new informations against Moore, one on the charge of obstructing traffic and the other on the charge of assaulting Conductor Kuhn by knocking him down with the automobile at the Northwestern railroad crossing.

With all these fresh troubles to shoulder, Moore, after consulting with his attorney, decided he was not prepared to go to court right then and there, and his hearing on the various charges was postponed until this morning.

Later in the day an Omaha firm filed notice that it held a first mortgage of $700 on the automobile.

Moore formerly conducted the saloon at Broadway and Twenty-seventh streets, but lately has been engaged in the automobile livery business between Omaha and this city. It is understood that J. D. Barnett will file today an information against Moore charging assault and battery.

Auto Men Fall to Respond.

Only four members responded to the call of President Macrae for a meeting of the Council Bluffs Automobile club at the Commercial club rooms last evening. An effort will be made to secure a representative attendance at an adjourned meeting to be held next Tuesday evening at the same place. A circular letter announcing this meeting will be mailed in the interim to every owner, as far as is known, of an automobile in the city and immediate vicinity.

The Council Bluffs club has been invited to assist in forming a state organization and Dr. T. B. Lacey was selected last night as the club's representative to attend the meeting to be held in Marshalltown on April 20, to organize such a state association. Letters from D. H. Denmark, secretary of the Marshalltown Auto club and from Fred H. Elliott of New York, secretary of the American Automobile association with reference to the organization of the Iowa State association were read by President Macrae.

Iowa

NO VOTE ON PROHIBITION

Iowa Senate by Majority of Five Declines to Consider It.

FRIENDS OF MEASURE DIE HARD

Adjournment for Day Taken Pending a Motion to Refer Committee to Report Within Two Days.

DES MOINES, April 1.—Constitutional prohibition for the state of Iowa was probably postponed if not defeated today, for two years by the action of the state senate this afternoon in voting down a motion to take up the question. The vote stood twenty-six against to twenty-five for. The prohibitionists admit their defeat and declare there is no hope of revising the constitutional convention during the session of the Iowa legislature. Today's action followed that of the committee on constitutional amendments in unanimously tabling the resolution and thus refusing to report it to the senate.

Senator Proutfoot of Warren county, leader of the prohibitionists in the senate, presented the motion for taking it from the hands of the committee and delivered a speech of two hours' length today upon the issues involved. He contended that the opposition of constitutional prohibitionists in basing its claims that the people should vote for the constitutional convention under the laws of the state at the next annual election and thus secure constitutional prohibition was merely a subterfuge. The action of the senate, however, was due largely to the fact that the constitution of Iowa the question of revision of the constitution was submitted to the people once in ten years. The question of revision will be placed upon the ballot in November, 1911, and it was constantly argued that the people would have eventually a chance to vote on the question.

The delegates to the constitutional convention in the event of their being decided to revise the constitution. The agitation for a prohibitory amendment started with the opening of the session of the legislature and the resolution calling for the same passed the house by a large majority.

During the debate in the legislature upon the resolution representatives of the National Prohibition league, the civic bodies in the state and from the various church organizations have been heard on one side of the question or the other. Prohibitionists made the threat frequently that they would carry the subject to the voters before the polls in the next campaign and indications were that Iowa will soon have an active prohibition issue for the electors to decide.

Later in the day the matter was reopened by a motion by Clarkson, democrat, asking the committee to make a report in two days on this resolution. The senate adjourned with this motion pending.

HUSBAND LEAVES HIS FAMILY

Deserted Woman Returns With Parents to Fairbury, Neb.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., April 1.—(Special.)—There has been much excitement during the past few days in this city because of the disappearance of Clinton Munger, who sold his barber shop about a week ago and went, as he announced, to Oelwein on account of the serious illness of his mother. He was seen in Fairbury, Neb., where he was with his daughter, and last night left here with his wife and two young children, taking their household effects and the deserted wife will live for the present with her parents in the Nebraska home. The cause of this estrangement is assigned to several reasons, one being that the barber became infatuated with a pretty girl who lives in the city and who is the daughter of a prominent family on a visit to her parents. The whole matter is the sensation of the city, and much sympathy is felt for Mrs. Munger.

Beaten for Office After Fifty Years.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., April 1.—(Special.)—Lanfear Knapp, who for half a century has been justice of the peace in this city and for over forty years city assessor, was yesterday defeated by the democratic nominee, James Knapp, in a campaign which needed the financial aid of the position brings. Mr. Knapp has been a trusted city official and feels his defeat, which is attributed by many to his appointing for his deputy a man of considerable means. H. J. Pfeiffer was elected mayor on the republican ticket and all the republican nominees won excepting the assessor and one councilman.

Macbeth Trial Started.

IOWA CITY, Ia., April 1.—(Special.)—Today the jury was drawn in the trial of Macbeth and tomorrow afternoon the opening statements will be made by Judson Piper of Mt. Pleasant and Charles E. Herick of Extra, and the University of Iowa moot trial of the Shakespearean character will have been commenced.

The jury was drawn from the freshmen class. The attorneys for both sides have arranged their evidence and instructed their witnesses. It is hoped to have a verdict on Macbeth's fate by Tuesday of next week.
