Little One at Sea.—William H. Madsen, the first son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Madsen, 231 Grant street, who died recently, was buried in Laurel Hill cemetery Friday. Mr. Madsen is a Union Pacific conductor.

House Cleaning at Federal Building.—Measurements are being taken of all the offices in the federal building for new carpets where needed and for the general renovating and repair of the building, as is the annual custom at this season.

Landlord and Tenant Disagree.—On the charge of defrauding a landlord John M. Brett of Twenty-second and Burt streets was arrested Friday. He was taken to have removed his trunk from the Midland hotel while a lien existed on it for board. The case probably will be heard in police court Saturday morning.

New Flags on Postoffice Building.—New American and revenue flags are displayed from the flagstaff of the federal building. Old Glory makes his first appearance with the forty-six stars in the blue field, indicating the full sisterhood of Oklahoma, which is the forty-sixth state admitted to the union.

Bryant's Victim Goes to Jail.—Arrested for drunkenness early Friday morning by Officer Frank O. E. Blackwood, a middle-aged man living at Twenty-second and Cumming streets, was found to be suffering from an ugly case of erysipelas. He was sentenced to ten days in the county jail in order that he might be given medical attention at the county hospital.

Do You Know of John Jones' Folks?—The relatives and history of John Francis Jones, a member of the Western Federation of Miners, are sought by T. Z. Snook, town marshal of Garland, Utah. Jones died at that place March 18. The Omaha police have been asked if they know anything about him and are in receipt of his photograph. At present they cannot furnish the desired information.

Wife Beats Him to It.—Trying to have a complaint issued against his wife for abusing him by not providing a satisfying breakfast, but being arrested himself at the instance of his wife for drunkenness and disturbing the peace by assaulting her, was the experience of J. H. Williams Thursday. He is a colored man and lives at 2123 South Twenty-fifth avenue. Police Judge Crawford fined him $10 and costs in court Friday.

Sidekick Injunction Case.—Arguments were heard Friday by Judge Troup of the district court on the question of a permanent injunction against the Loose-Wiles company in the suit brought by Michael Gleason to stop the construction of a four-foot loading dock above the sidewalk at the new factory. Judge Redick some time ago granted the temporary injunction. Memoranda briefs will also be filed by Attorneys Kennedy and Gaines and a decision by Judge Troup will not be forthcoming for some days.

Dirty Slides on Leavenworth Street.—Whether as a result of peculiar coincidence or the easiness of boys playing April Fool pranks, there were three annoying dirty slides on Leavenworth street Friday morning within a couple of blocks within a few minutes. The dirty slides came from a trio of loaded dirt wagons that suddenly emptied their loads on the street. The dirt was being hauled from the excavations at Nineteenth and St. Mary's avenue. One of the wagons dumped its load on the street car tracks, causing a blockade for half an hour until the dirt could be removed. The dirt wagons were of the patent character that dump their loads automatically.

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Alleged Flaws Are Now Being Pointed Out in the Charter.

PROBLEM OVER ASSESSMENT

Superintendent Graham of the City Schools Receives Notice of His Appointment as Member of State Normal Board.

One of the latest danger signals thrown out is that in the new city charter designating that the city treasurer credit the sinking fund with all fines and collections by the police court, the charter is in violation of the constitution of the state. The state constitution provides that all fines arising under the code shall be paid to the county funds for the support of the public schools. This has been done regularly heretofore. But the fines arising under the breaches of the city ordinances, the court costs and unpaid witness fees form a fund which can be paid to the city treasurer. This is also covered sufficiently by the constitution. The South Omaha charter provides that the police magistrate shall pay this money to the city treasurer monthly. This has been done also. The only change in the matter is that this money shall be credited to the interest fund or the sinking fund so called.

Another cause of alarm is that the new charter will not come into effect soon enough to permit the funds to be raised to meet the conditions which will be provided for in other sections of the new charter amendments. The new charter lays down a new method of procedure. Instead of the appropriation and levy ordinance being passed in July as under the old charter the ordinances are all passed in August. The tax levied by this procedure does not become a lien on the property until October, while the tax under the old charter became a lien as soon as the levy ordinance was passed.

The difficulties will not all be settled until the official copy of the charter is received.

Graham Notified of Appointment.
N. M. Graham, superintendent of the South Omaha city schools, received notice of his appointment by Governor Shallenberger to a position on the board controlling state normal schools. He received the communication informally last night through Senator Tanner. The appointment came as a surprise to Mr. Graham. He did not apply for the place, but some friend presented his name to the governor and it met with favor. The work of the board will not interfere with his work as city superintendent.

Miller on Trial for Assault.
John Sullivan has filed a complaint in Judge Caldwell's court against Charles Miller for assault with intent to do great bodily injury. The case was being tried yesterday afternoon. The state presented witnesses to show that the assault was more than a plain assault and battery. The circumstances of the case as related at the time of the alleged assault were that there was bad feeling between the two men arising from the attentions Sullivan had given to Miller's daughter. Sullivan went to the Cudahy packing house, where Miller works, and foreman of the steam fitting gang, and is said to have accused Miller in a threatening manner. Miller struck Sullivan, knocking him down. It is asserted by Miller that he could not stand the abuse, but that he had no vicious intent when he struck Sullivan. Sullivan fell, and it is said his head struck an iron tube and a concussion resulted which came near causing his death.

The prosecution finished yesterday and the defense will begin this morning. The defense will seek to prove that no intent to injure existed and that the case was simple assault and battery, if not justifiable.

Firemen Fail to See the Joke

As a Result Ike Pleasant is Arrested for Turning in a False Fire Alarm.

About 12:30 o'clock this morning, the same being April 2, it occurred to Ike Pleasant, colored, that it would be a pleasant little April fool joke to see the fire department make a little run.

Ike lives at 1210 Chicago street. He went to an independent telephone and turned in a alarm for 1312 Davenport, the same being the Northwestern yards.

The department made a run and when it found the alarm a fake, notified the police. Detective J. T. Dunn and Officer Driscoll quickly located Pleasant, who gave the assumed name of Jones, and escorted him to the station.

After Judge Crawford listened to the details of the little joke in police court this morning he decided that it would be a good plan to allow Ike the untrammelled enjoyment of the affair for a few days without being forced to do anything else, so gave him an order for free board and room at the city jail for five days.

RESPONSIBILITY OF POLICEMEN
Robust Truths Handed the Force by Boston's Police Commissioner.

Patrolman Hutchinson of Boston entered a stable in the rear of a house on his route twice in one evening and had remained each time for a period of half an hour or more, and the second time was found by the sergeant seated in a chair reading a newspaper, with his coat, cap and belt hanging on a hook. He was tried on charges, convicted and ordered dismissed.

When the order for Hutchinson's dismissal was read to the department it was accompanied by a statement from Commissioner O'Meara that ought to be read by every police officer high and low. Here is law and gospel for all departments:

"Any man who for the sake of loafing on duty would risk a position that is better than he is likely ever to get again, has not common sense enough to be a policeman. Any man who would thus disobey orders and regulations and bring discredit upon his comrades and superiors has neither loyalty enough nor enough of the spirit of discipline to be a policeman. Any man who would desert his post and at midnight leave to the chances of crime, fire and accident the sleeping people who trust to his protection, has not humanity enough to be a policeman."

"A good record in the department will always help a man when help is possible. But it is to be remembered that while making a part of that record, Patrolman Hutchinson, by his own acknowledgment, carried a key of a place in which he might hide himself, and that the deliberateness and the audacity which marked his conduct on the night of his detector make it plain that in one place or another this was not his first offense, and perhaps not his fiftieth.

At the Theaters

"Buster Brown" at the Krug.

"Buster Brown," the cartoon creation which has made millions of children laugh, is here again in real life and is making a three days' stop at the Krug. It would be too much to expect that Buster should take anything seriously, and so the play is an entertaining mixture of jokes, songs, specialties and fun with enough of a plot to hold the Brown family together, as various members, including the mother-in-law, get in any number of scrapes through the irrepressible incorrigibility of Buster and Tig.

Master Rice as Buster is a show all by himself and Jack Bell as Tig is all that any clever canine could possibly be. Fred Wilson as Gladys O'Flynn, the cook lady, and Harry Burgess as Rocky O'Hare, a much abused man, furnish comedy which savors of the real thing and does not depend on slap-sticks to bring out the laughs of the gallery.

Lella Cautin, as Mary Jane, Buster's sweetheart, is little and dainty and charming and what is even more, can sing a bit. The other character parts are well taken and nearly all have fair voices.

The costumes are good and in this respect the chorus is well provided although, of course, they do not do enough of them at any one time to interfere with their looks.

The company will be here the remainder of the week with a special matinee Friday in addition to the regular one Saturday.
