Sets Eleven O'clock Monday Morning for Conference on the Daylight Saloon Bill.

DECIDES ON ACTION AFTER THAT

Omaha Will Send Big Delegation to Urge His Veto.

HOTEL MEN TAKE ACTIVE HAND

Special Train Expected to Carry Thousand Persons.

TEMPERANCE FOLKS ALSO AWAKE

They Are Jubilant at Passage of Measure and Will Plead with Shallenberger to Make it a Law.

Governor Shallenberger has taken no action and will take none on the daylight saloon bill until he has conferred with persons for and against the measure who may care to join him in a discussion of the merits of the proposition which the legislature, in its dying hours, put up to him.

The governor telephoned Mayor Dahlman yesterday afternoon that he would receive and hear all citizens interested in the bill at his office Monday at 11 a. m. After he has heard them he will decide upon his action.

Mayor Dahlman announced after this conversation with Shallenberger that he and a large delegation of interested persons would go down from Omaha to protest against the measure and try to convince the governor he should veto it.

A special train probably will leave the Burlington depot at 9 o'clock Monday morning on which it is expected 1,000 men representative of all lines and trades will go to urge the governor's veto.

"I will see that a large delegation of my own friends accompanies me and shall be glad to have all others join us who will," said the mayor, "I have hopes of the governor vetoing this bill, but we must not expect him to do so unless we make a showing as to injury the bill will do."

Harry A. Stone, secretary of the Anti-Saloon league, paid a visit to the governor yesterday in the interest of the bill and it is likely he or others of his organization will be present Monday to urge approval of the bill.

Temperance Faction Happier

While the business interests as a rule are deploring the passage of the measure and hoping that the governor will not fail to veto it, the temperance and reform factions are jubilant over its passage and praying for its approval by the governor. The legislature did nothing that aroused a case in feeling in Omaha like this measure has done. It was the one topic of discussion in the city yesterday, a flood of information relating to it was sought with eagerness and anxiety. The Bee's telephones rang all day with inquiries as to the governor's action. It was a case in which simply saloon and anti-saloon interests were concerned, but one that appealed to people generally. On the streets, in hotels, business houses and, of course, saloons, men discussed it and sometimes with a little more vigor than decorum.

Douglas county's three senators, Hon. Howell, Hon. C. C. Johnson and Hon. W. C. Johnson, were denouncing in many quarters, some where they had friends before. The general view is that these three men did much to bring about the passage of the bill with the amendment applying to Omaha. It was frequently urged that the original bill was contrived by some of the county members over whom the trinity had ridden rough-shod throughout the session as a get-even proposition and that when the trio fought it so bitterly in its original form the Omaha amendment was tacked on to rub it in. Business men insist that had it not been for the stupid arrogance of these senators the bill probably would never have been made to apply to this city.

Commercial Club Active

For more than two hours the executive committee of the Commercial club discussed the daylight saloon bill and then gave notice that whatever the club did would be strictly "under cover." The meeting was well attended. Some warm discussion was indulged in as indicated by loud voices now and then which crept over the doors, under the curtains and out through the windows. The members were considerably agitated. It was common talk about the club rooms that dreams of making Omaha the "convention city" were glimmering and that already one of the big conventions would be lost to Omaha if the Nebraskans thought a metropolitan city should be run on such radical laws. It was said the secretary of the order having the arrangements in charge, had wired early and expressed the belief that the convention would not want to meet in Omaha or any other city which was governed by such restrictions.

Hotel Men Meet

Owners or managers of twelve of the leading hotels of Omaha met at the Rome Saturday afternoon and discussed the bill and the best method of combating what they characterized as an evil and of inducing the governor to veto the "convention city" law. No resolutions were adopted and all finally decided that the best plan would be to swoop down on the governor at Lincoln in force and take the capital by storm.

A Special Train Has Been Engaged to leave the Burlington station at 9 o'clock Monday morning with enough coaches to accommodate 1,000 men or more and the hotel men urge upon every man who has the interests of Omaha at heart to take a day off and go to Lincoln and "help save the day." Those at the hotel men's meeting declined to say who is responsible for the special train, giving out the information that several city bodies have combined to secure it. However, the special is an assured fact and that it will pull out of the station with, at least 1,000 business, professional and working men Monday morning is the hope of those back of the enterprise.

Protests Against Big Fine Levied by Texas Court

Waters-Pierce Oil Company Asserts Million and Half Penalty Amounts to Confiscation of Property.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—On behalf of the Waters-Pierce oil company, former United States Senator John C. Spooner has filed in the supreme court of the United States a petition for a rehearing of the various cases brought by the state of Texas against that company which recently were decided against it. These include the cases involving the appointment of a receiver for the company and the one ousting the company from the state and imposing a fine of $1,500,000 for violation of the Texas anti-trust laws. The principal reason for the petition is that the fine was so excessive as to deprive the oil company of its property without due process of law.

In support of this contention, attention is called to the fact that in the record of the case it was claimed the oil company was making a high as 70 per cent on its capital, but it is set forth that while this might be true, with reference to the $400,000 capital stock, it was not true with reference to the $6,000,000 of the assets of the company. Much stress is laid upon the fact that a large portion of the fine was based upon the Texas anti-trust law of 1890, imposing a penalty of $1500 a day after that law had been repealed.

Father of Victim Attempts to Kill Murderer Taylor

Douglas Taylor Tries to Avenge the Death of His Daughter, but is Overpowered by Crowd.

MINDEN, Neb., April 3.—(Special Telegram.)—Hert Taylor, alleged murderer of Pearl Taylor, his sister-in-law, narrowly escaped death at the hands of the father of the girl this morning at 11 o'clock as he was about to board a train for Lincoln, where he is being held for safe keeping.

Douglas Taylor, father of the murdered girl, pulled a revolver and aimed it at Hert Taylor, but was overpowered before he could shoot.

The incident took place in the presence of a large crowd and has created considerable excitement. Taylor had been brought here for arraignment and was in the custody of Sheriff Ramsdell and a deputy. He was about to board the car when Douglas Taylor drew the revolver and leveled it at the prisoner. Johnson Shack, who stood near him, grabbed the gun and forced his hand down toward the ground. After a struggle Taylor was overpowered and the gun taken from him without being fired. During the struggle the man shouted, "Let me get at him. Don't keep me away."

After the train had gone Douglas Taylor and the father of Sheriff Ramsdell had a scene, but no trouble resulted. Douglas Taylor is the father-in-law of Bert Taylor. Taylor will be held at the penitentiary in Lincoln until the May term of court. A petition for a change of venue probably will be filed by his lawyers, who have indicated they will plead insanity.

WISCONSIN GAME WARDEN ADMITS COMMITTING PERJURY

MADISON, Wis., April 3.—Chief State Game Warden James W. Stone, testifying before the senatorial primary investigation committee today, confessed to perjury in that his testimony when he appeared before the committee three weeks ago in his examination as to the distribution of $2,500 of the Stephenson campaign fund was false.

In addition to this Mr. Stone informed the committee that the game warden raised $200 for the fund, but that the proposition was "turned down."

SOLDIERS GROVE, Wis., April 3.—Governor J. C. Davidson tonight explained the $1,300 incident testified to by Game Warden J. W. Stone, saying that he had never before been able to get an explanation from Mr. Stone and that the money is still in the bank at Mr. Stone's orders. He said Mr. Stone laid the money in an envelope on his desk, saying: "Ask me no questions and I'll tell you no lies."

The envelope was put away and all efforts to get an explanation failed. The money was later deposited in a bank and still remains there, waiting for Mr. Stone to claim it. Governor Davidson said he asked for no contribution to his campaign expenses from the game warden.

DEMOCRATIC THANKS TO KILLEN

Former Speaker Nettleton, the Veteran Republican Member, Makes the Motion Which Finally Ends the Session.

An epitome of the bills passed by the late legislature will be found on pages 8 and 9 of the Second Section of this number of The Bee.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, April 3.—(Special.)—After a final legislative day of sixty hours, the thirty-first legislature of Nebraska adjourned a half hour before noon today and the members started home to face their constituents, but wherever possible they did not go via Omaha.

The work of enrolling bills occupied the clerks until a short time before the conclusion of business and for the twenty-four hours preceding the fall of the gavel there was practically no business to transact. Members of the senate introduced congratulatory resolutions of thanks, and extended to their colleagues tokens of friendship in the way of photographs and members of the house, in more violent mood, occupied themselves in tearing up their bill files and scattering the result of the state's printing bill on the floor of the assembly chamber.

The passing of the 3 o'clock closing act was the principal topic of discussion on the floors of the two houses and in the oblique while telegrams and Nebraska adjourned a half hour before noon today and the members started home to face their constituents, but wherever possible they did not go via Omaha.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—(Special Telegram.)—Conferees among the leaders on both sides of the house were the order of today, it being generally conceded that general debate on the tariff bill would terminate at noon on Monday, when the house committee will throw their own "little jokes" into the ring by fixing an hour upon which the vote shall be taken for the passage of the Payne tariff bill and providing for record votes on free lumber and free hides.

SHOPS AND ROUNDHOUSE GONE

Four Churches, Two School Buildings and Sanitarium Are Destroyed—Dallas and Weatherford Send Aid.

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 3.—Fanned by a stiff wind a fire which originated in a barn at Jennings avenue and Batemith street, in the southern portion of the city, this afternoon swept over an area ten blocks in length and seven wide, and destroyed property roughly estimated in value to be in excess of $5,000,000 and caused the death of six persons.

The fire, which originated in a fashionable residence district, was beyond all control within fifteen minutes after its outbreak and was not checked until dynamite was resorted to four hours later.

The local fire department being unable to cope with the situation, assistance was rushed from Dallas and Weatherford on special trains, but the spread of the flames was not checked until they had eaten their way to the Texas & Pacific railroad reservation on the east. On the south the fire was checked at the Texas & Pacific passenger depot, the steel and stone structure forming a bulwark that saved the wholesale district, which at one time was in imminent danger.

The Texas & Pacific roundhouse and twenty engines, the repair shop, four churches, two public school buildings and Walker's sanitarium were destroyed. The other buildings destroyed were residences, most of them new, in the most exclusive residence section. People living within a radius of three blocks of the place where the fire started had no time to save anything. A patient, whose identity has not been learned, perished in Walker's sanitarium, and three men were electrocuted and their bodies burned to cinders in the Sawyer electric plant. Herbert Stacy was fatally burned in an endeavor to save his dwelling and a fireman fell from a house-top and was killed.

Ray, H. O. Cowan, assistant pastor of the Broadway Presbyterian church, is missing. The burned district tonight is being patrolled by troops to prevent looting, and it is estimated that 500 families are homeless. Many of these have gone to Dallas, where shelter has been offered.

Jim Hill Joins Optimist Ranks

Good Crops and Tariff Legislation Should Bring Back Prosperity, Says Magnate.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—"If the tariff is given prompt attention and this year's crops are good, there should be a return of the wholesome conditions of 1902 and 1906," said James J. Hill, head of the Great Northern railroad, here last night. "It is best that normal conditions should be restored surely rather than swiftly."

Mr. Hill stated that there were 270,000 freight cars in the country which, if coupled together, would make a train extending from New York to St. Louis and then back to Baltimore, "yet there are those who ask why car shops are not running full force and when the railroads are going to order new rolling stock," he continued. "Orders for new cars will be put in when the old and idle ones are used and the new ones will be needed. The expeditious enactment of the tariff legislation will help business, but it will not be a cure-all."

The miners are quiet and the strike is in full force. The strikers are of the opinion that the supply of coal is short and that the operators may come to an agreement. The operators argue that as the summer season is at hand the demand for coal will not be so great.

"The men at Ferris camps say they will take no notice of the Lethbridge law, as no act of Parliament can compel them to work without an agreement."
