

Clothes On Living Men

The chief trouble with clothing pictures has been their unreality.

Men to-day are too wise to believe that any clothes ever made could fit in so highly varnished a manner as advertisements sometimes present them.

Stein-Bloch believe in the seriousness and reality of their business as wholesale tailors for American men. And the problem of presenting pictures of their clothes that are honest representations has troubled them not a little.

Honest fit, true style and thorough tailoring are no more Stein-Bloch's duty to their public than is picturing their styles accurately.

After close study and experimenting, Stein-Bloch have found that unadorned and idealized their clothes, photographed as they fit on living men, solve this problem.

The Stein-Bloch style pictures are half-tone reproductions of actual photographs.

CHICAGO FOR SHEEP BARONS

Market There is Not Favorable to Small Growers.

OMAHA MARKET IS FOR THEM

It Will Get the Wool of the Western Ranges that is Now Now About Ready to Be Clipped.

After all, the average wool grower, who is now preparing to clip his flock, will be dependent on Omaha as a storage point, Chicago falling to provide for any but the real sheep barons.

This disclosure is made by an officer of the National Wool Growers' association, who writes to Omaha business men interested:

The Chicago house is a closed proposition for stockholders only; Omaha still remains the only avenue of escape for the growers from the jobs and combines of speculators.

Thus, in the end it appears Chicago is taking care only of those sheepmen who have big flocks and plenty of ready money; and is especially anxious to handle the incorporated companies. The barons, not the ordinary flock masters, will be helped by Chicago because they subscribed to stock with which to erect the warehouse in Chicago. The warehouse is far from complete, however, and some of the stockholders may have to ship wool to Omaha.

Nearly all the subscribers who will be permitted to store wool in Chicago, are growers of Oregon, Idaho, some few from Montana, and a number from Wyoming and Utah.

The greatest bulk of the clip of Montana and Wyoming is produced by the smaller growers. More than 20 per cent of it has already been sold, though it will grow for more than a month on the backs of the sheep before it is clipped. It is estimated that between 30 and 40 per cent will be sold as it has been in the past to the commission men whose buyers are now on the ranges.

This leaves about 40 per cent yet to be disposed of in some way. The clip of Wyoming and Montana alone amounts to 70,000,000 pounds. At least 20,000,000 is free to come either to Omaha or other warehouses.

Montana sheep barons have taken advantage which growers with large capital can take, but the smaller growers are left out. Several companies owning flocks in Montana have organized the Montana Wool Commission company and one of the growers has gone to Boston to take charge of the office and the wool will be consigned to the Boston office, which enables the big growers to practically control the wool until a manufacturer must have it.

Another Hold on J. C. Maybray

Uncle Sam is Said to Be Concessing a New Element in Swindling Cases.

None of the Omaha or Nebraska "Mikes" has thus far shown any disposition to go to Des Moines to renew acquaintance with J. C. Maybray, who is now the guest of the government in the Des Moines jail, pending his answer to the indictments found against him for using the United States mails for fraudulent purposes as a side issue to his miscellaneous swindles.

None of the Nebraska victims has been summoned as a witness and there now seems to be some doubt about any of them figuring in the affair at all. They certainly will not in the government case, although considerable of the correspondence between Maybray and his "Mike" friends was carried on from Omaha.

According to Postoffice Inspector Swenson, none of the Nebraska written letters is included in the fraudulent mail. It is mysteriously intimated that federal headquarters in Omaha Thursday morning that the government has still another hold on Maybray aside from the correspondence recovered by Inspector Swenson, and that it was for this reason Maybray was taken to Des Moines instead of to Council Bluffs, the scene of many of his swindles.

The Omaha federal officials are very reticent about the matter, but at the same time intimate that the government may take a hand in the case aside from the postoffice end of it.

Admit Bill Bad Law, but Pass it for Politics' Sake

Democratic Councilmen Will Be Quoted in Suit to Enjoin Lime Kiln Ordinance.

Democratic Councilmen Will Be Quoted in Suit to Enjoin Lime Kiln Ordinance.

An injunction will be sought to restrain the mayor and city council of Omaha from enforcing the brick kiln ordinance which the council passed Tuesday night. That the ordinance is unconstitutional will be the principal point of law made, but stress also will be laid on the fact that the democratic councilmen voted for it and confessed having done so because they were told that to do otherwise would harm them politically.

Herman Krittenbrink, against whom the ordinance was aimed, has retained Henry Murphy as his attorney, and the latter is preparing the petition for an injunction. Murphy will allege, among other matters, that Councilman Jackson admitted to him, and Krittenbrink, "that the ordinance is wrong, but what can we do?"

Krittenbrink, who is an old and respected resident of the city, had proceeded so far as to buy a tract of land at Thirty-sixth and Wright streets, paying $7,000 for the property. The petition also will point out that the brick kiln would be no nuisance, a smoke consuming device of tried merit being intended.

Councilmen Bridges, Davis and Zimman voted against the ordinance Tuesday night. Bridges objected on behalf of what he termed "a legitimate business enterprise, calculated to build up the city and give employment to hundreds of men."

Mayor Dahlman says he will approve the anti-brick yard ordinance. His signature has not as yet been attached to the document which passed the council at the last meeting, but he says he will notify that body at its next meeting of his approval.

Man Loses Life in Blazing Barn

Maureus Anderson, Employee of Ernest Hart, Suffocates When All but Free.

Maureus Anderson, houseman at the residence of Ernest E. Hart of Council Bluffs, was suffocated in a fire that partially destroyed the barn at the Hart home on Third avenue at 2 o'clock Thursday morning.

Anderson was found with his hands on the window of the barn loft after the fire was extinguished. He had gotten that near to safety before succumbing. Bartel Anderson, the coachman for the Hart, who also occupied a room in the barn loft, escaped by jumping. He is no relation to the dead man, who was about 35 years of age and had no relatives in America.

The loss on the barn amounts to about $7,000, including the automobile, a horse, two cows and some minor items.

GROCERY STORE IS STOLEN

It is Also Recovered, Along with Suspected Robbers.

DETECTIVES MAKE RICH HAUL

Officers Arrest Men Believed to Have Relieved La Platte Merchants of About Everything in Sight.

Nineteen hams, six tons of lard, three crates of pork sides, quantities of milk and other dress goods, eighteen suits of men's clothes, horse collars and bales of horse blankets, coils of wire, a gross of tooth paste tubes, and a whole library of law books are a few of the items of stolen property recovered Wednesday night by the police when they made what they consider to be one of the biggest burglary arrests made in some time.

Law Adair, whose home is said to be at 2308 Charles street, his brother, J. W. Adair, and two other alleged box car thieves, Alfred J. Bayes and J. Walters, were arrested at the home of J. W. Adair at LaPlatte, Neb., late Wednesday night by Detectives Ferris and Dunn of the Omaha police force and Railroad Detectives Malone and Vizard of the Burlington and Union Pacific, respectively.

They are booked for burglary at the police station and will be held for several days before a complaint will be filed against them, as Chief of Detectives Savage wishes to thoroughly investigate their cases before taking any court action. He says he expects to unearth other cases against the men, or at least to recover more stolen property.

Convicted that they had run to earth a gang which had been systematically robbing freight cars of large and valuable consignments of goods for a period of months, the detectives laid careful plans for arresting the men, recovering the goods, and securing evidence against them. The "rough of law" which they confiscated shows that their plans did not go far amiss.

Also Took a Wagon

They also took a wagon belonging to an Omaha merchant who is believed to have acted as a "fence" for the gang in aiding them to dispose of their stolen goods.

The wife of one of the men admitted to the police that twenty-five loads of goods already had been hauled away. The goods recovered by the officers were found stored in the house at La Platte, where three of the four men make their home. Besides them, two wooden plugs, used for stopping up holes bored in the bottom of grain cars to allow grain to run out and be stolen, and a tin box of dynamite caps, supposedly intended for blowing locks, were confiscated.

Three terms in the penitentiary have been served by Law Adair, according to Captain Savage of the Omaha bureau of detectives. He was the father of the 3-or-4-year-old boy who was accidentally shot by Nels Turkelson, the saloon keeper, some months ago and who died later.

Law Adair, according to the police, was also mixed up in a burglary a number of years ago in which his partner, "Reddy" Horn, was shot and killed and from which Adair himself narrowly escaped. The two men are said to have been caught trying to steal goods in the Farnsworth drug store on Cuming street. Farnsworth took a couple of shots at them as they were escaping and killed Horn.

Palmer Home to Help Elect Breen Mayor

Returns from Cuba, Where He Spent Winter with Mrs. Palmer for Her Health.

Palmer Home to Help Elect Breen Mayor

Captain Henry E. Palmer returned to Omaha from Cuba Thursday to help elect John Paul Breen mayor of Omaha.

Mr. and Mrs. Palmer have spent the winter in Cuba for the benefit of the climate would have on Mrs. Palmer's health. Last fall she suffered from pneumonia and had a narrow escape. Her physicians said the "West Indies would be the place for her during the winter and she returns much improved.

"They put the proposition up to me to run for mayor after they had a petition with 600 names on it," said Captain Palmer. "I looked over that list of names and it had the signatures of men who do not ordinarily get on petitions and make themselves felt in politics and my reply was that if my friends had 600 names I could not refuse to be a candidate.

"Had I been nominated I would have been elected. Certain elements entered into my candidacy which are not commonly known and I would certainly have been the next mayor of Omaha.

"But my first duty was to Mrs. Palmer. I could have reached Omaha two weeks ago had I been nominated, but as it is I am back here to help elect Mr. Breen. We ought to have a republican city administration. I have known Mr. Breen for years. He will certainly be the next mayor and anything I can do will not go undone."

Lysle I. Abbott on Dry Ticket

Accepts Nomination for Fire and Police Board.

Lysle I. Abbott is the fourth man who will run on the Anti-Saloon league ticket for Board of Fire and Police Commissioners.

Mr. Abbott's selection was made after the place had been tendered to C. C. Montgomery, who declined to accept it. Mr. Abbott considered the proposition for a little while and accepted.

The four men on the Anti-Saloon ticket now are: Democrats—T. B. Norris, Lysle I. Abbott. Republicans—Henry E. Maxwell, M. C. Steele.

Abbott was the fusion candidate for attorney general of Nebraska at the election of 1906.

PLOWMAN AND PARSON ONE AND THE SAME MAN

Preacher Working in Garden When Couple Comes to Get Married.

"Howdy, I want to see the preacher, can you tell me if he's home or not?" Perry C. Glover of Springfield, Neb., thus addressed a man in rough attire plowing in the rear of the house at 228 Maple street. On the side of the house hangs a large sign, reading "Have Faith in God."

"Just wait a minute and I'll go in and see if the preacher is at home," replied the man.

In a few minutes a neatly attired minister stepped to his door and welcomed the young man who happened to be accompanied by a young woman, saying: "Yes, the preacher is here, come in."

The man behind the plow and the preacher turned out to be the same man, Rev. Charles W. Savidge. The young woman with Mr. Glover was Miss Ethel M. Galtney of Krippl, Wash. When the party left she was Mrs. Glover.

The groom's father and sister, Royal G. Glover and Miss Nelle Glover, accompanied them. The bride and the bridesmaid, Miss Grace Swenette, were cousins, whose parents Rev. Charles W. Savidge married at a double wedding in this city twenty-one years ago.
