ENW BUILDINGS COME FAST!

Permits for Over Two Hundred Thousand Dollars Worth in One Day.

CREIGHTON MEDIC ANNEX ONE

Novelty Skirt Company Will Erect Big One, Store and Rooming House and Dwellings Complete Long List.

Addition to the Creighton Medical college to cost $45,000; brick building on North Sixteenth street for the Novelty Skirt company to cost $20,000; three-story brick building on West Farnam street for stores and bachelor apartments to cost $30,000; residences in various parts of the city to cost $70,000; improvements at the Smith brick yard to cost $10,000; additions to Florence school building to cost $15,000. These are the new building operations for one day, the total cost being in excess of $200,000.

Plans are under way for a large four-story addition to the Creighton Medical college at Fourteenth and Chicago streets. J. Jeffery Davoy, architect, is drawing the plans and says that the excavation for the new building will be completed before May 1 and that the building will be ready for the opening of the fall term the middle of September.

The college has acquired the northeast quarter of the block on which the present building stands, the new tract being 68x132 feet. The new building will be on the south end of this property, leaving enough ground for the erection in the near future of a maternity and emergency hospital. The new building will be six to four stories and basement, and will be of brick construction.

Gymnasium in Basement. The basement of the new building will be fitted up for a gymnasium and will also contain shower baths and lockers. On the first floor will be a large reception room, a free dispensary, clinic operating rooms and a clinical laboratory. The second and third floors will contain class rooms and private laboratories, while the entire fourth floor will be fitted up for the historical department. The new building will cost $45,000, exclusive of equipment, and will be connected with the present building across the alley with enclosed steel viaducts.

Possession of the ground will be had by the college authorities April 23 and excavation work will start immediately. This will be completed by the first of the coming month and then work on the building will be begun as soon as possible thereafter. Architect Davoy is also drawing plans for a new three-story brick building to be erected on North Sixteenth street, adjoining the Masonic temple and directly across the street from the new Hotel Loyal. This building will cost about $30,000 and will be occupied by the Novelty Skirt company. The lots are owned by the St. A. D. Balcombe estate and the small buildings now on the site will be moved off immediately.

Long Lease on Ground.

The skirt company has secured a long lease on sixty-four feet frontage of the property and will erect a building with a frontage of 42 feet and 88 feet deep.

Mrs. Mora Marple, one of the heirs of the Balcombe estate, will erect another building with a frontage of 22 feet and with the same depth as the skirt company's building. The two buildings will have the appearance of one, with the same kind of a front and the Novelty people will occupy the whole structure. The front of the building will be of gray pressed brick with stone trimmings and extension show windows.

Tenants of the present buildings on the site have been notified to vacate May 1, when the old structure will be removed. Work on the new blocks will be begun at once.

Another large building to be erected in the summer will be located at Nineteenth and Farnam streets, on the southwest corner. Fisher & Lewis, architects, are drawing the plans for this building for W. T. Graham, Dr. Lord and Dr. Bridges. This third structure will be three stories and a basement and will be fitted up for store rooms on the lower floor and for bachelor apartments on the second and third floors, with an entrance on Nineteenth street for these apartments. A cafe will be installed in the basement. The building will be of pressed brick and will cost about $30,000.

Florence School.

Plans drawn by Architect Davoy for additions to the Florence school building were accepted Thursday night by the Board of Education of that suburb and the general contract was let to H. Armstrong of South Omaha for $18,000. Wings will be built on the north and south sides of the present building, each to be 35x29 feet, two stories high and a basement. Work on the excavation will be begun May 1 and within the next ten days bids for wiring, plumbing and heating apparatus in the additions will be received.

City Building Inspector Withnell on Friday issued permits to Hastings & Heyden for seventeen new dwellings ranging in price from $1,000 to $2,500 each. The permits to this one firm total $4,900. Eight of the Hastings & Heyden homes will be built on Lothrop street between Fourteenth and Twenty-third streets, two will be built on Ames avenue, two on Madison avenue and the others on Wirt street, Camden avenue, William street and Webster street.

Two permits were issued the same day by Mr. Withnell to Charles W. Martin for dwellings to cost $6,300, and other permits issued during the day total $29,300. One of these permits is for a kiln and smoke stack for the Smith Brick company at Thirty-first and Lake streets to cost $10,000, another is for an addition and repairs to Mrs. Mary Angress' home at 4738 North Thirty-ninth street to cost $15,000.

The permits for the one day issued from City Building Inspector Withnell's department total over $70,000.

Condemned by His Own Pride

James Smith is Faced by Witness Who Says He Talked of Sunderland Fire.

James Smith was a little too well satisfied with the vengeance he secured on the Sunderland Bros. company, according to evidence introduced against him Friday in the criminal branch of district court. "The morning after the fire Smith borrowed a nickel of me to buy a paper," testified Frank Merrill, "and cutting out the account of the fire he showed it to me and said, 'I guess I showed 'em where to head in,' or something like that."

Merrill notified the Sunderlands, who informed the police. The officers promptly gathered Smith in and found the clipping in his vest pocket.

Other witnesses Friday were Hugh Boone in charge of the barn, and William Robb, yardmaster for the company, both testifying that Smith threatened to get even.

The defense, in addition to denying the confession, will try to prove an alibi.

Enoch Arden Today Not as Generous as the Original

He Returns After Twenty Years and Wants His Wife Back—Hubby No. 2 is Willing.

Frank Newbanks was Enoch Arden enough to be absent from his wife twenty years and Mrs. Newbanks believing him dead took a new husband in the interval. Here, however, the likeness to the Tennyson poem ends.

When Enoch did appear on the scene after his island exile he looked in through the window. It will be remembered, and not saying a word fell down beside the house and wept. Nor did he reveal the fact that he was alive.

Newbanks was not so self-sacrificing a soul. When he came to Omaha he got himself in police custody for intoxication and prevailed on the officer to lead him up to the house where his wife, now Mrs. Samuel Morris, lived. He knocked on the door and Mrs. Morris opened it.

"I have come back," said Newbanks. "Stay this self-evident statement Mrs. Morris replied by inviting him to go away and stay another twenty years."

Her husband, who is an officer on the Omaha police force, has since brought suit for annulment of marriage and this case came before Judge Redick in district court Friday morning.

He testified that Mrs. Morris in addition to having one husband too many, is also addicted to drink. Morris declared that his wife told him while he was courting her that she had been married before, but that she had been informed that Newbanks was dead, and that she did think him dead is conceded.

The contest in court is chiefly over two little girls, both Mr. and Mrs. Morris wishing to gain custody of them.

Mrs. Morris' first husband, Newbanks, is declared to have come from a well-to-do Cincinnati family and to have been a college graduate.

WIDOW SUES SALOON MEN FOR SELLING SON DRINK

Asks Ten Thousand Dollars as Price of Young Man's Support She Loses.

Mrs. Dorcas Morris filed suit Friday for $10,000 against Edward Cackley, Gust Larsson and W. L. Harris, the Lion Bond and Surety company and the Massachusetts Bonding company. Mrs. Morris claims that the first three saloon men robbed her of the support of her son, Robert Morris, by selling him liquor. The plaintiff states that she is a widow and had no other support than the boy.

TELL MERCHANT TO WHACK UP

Henry Cohen of South Omaha Must Turn Over $1,044.45 to Trustee in Bankruptcy.

Henry Cohen, a merchant of South Omaha, who filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States district court some time ago, is given ten days in which to turn over to the trustee in bankruptcy, Sidney W. Smith, property to the value of $1,044.45, which, it is alleged, he has sought to conceal, or take the consequences.

This order is made by Referee in Bankruptcy J. A. C. Kennedy, who Friday morning filed his complete report with record of evidence, and schedules. Referee Kennedy's report states that there remains the amount of $1,044.45 which, it is alleged, that the bankrupt seeks fraudulently to conceal, and that the trustee in bankruptcy is entitled to the possession of such property.

Cohen filed his voluntary petition in September, 1908, scheduling his liabilities at $7,262.04 and his assets at $5,000. Cohen had applied to make a further showing of his liabilities and assets, but this was refused after hearing the evidence, by both the referee and trustee in bankruptcy, on the ground that the record would thereby be unnecessarily encumbered. The final hearing on the case and report is dated April 10, 1909.
