

Cutting Under the Prices Of Every Other Firm in the Business

If ever we were in a position to undersell every other home furnishing institution in Omaha it is just at the present time. It's the most beautiful showing of Spring goods to be seen in this city, by far the handsomest. And we're prepared to cut under the prices of other stores; as we never did before—to sell goods so close to actual cost of manufacture that this city will realize as never before that we undersell every other firm in the business.

HARTMAN'S

DEAD LETTER OFFICE GEMS
Mail Returned for Lack of Any or Proper Address.

NOVELTIES IN CORRESPONDENCE
Aunt Em Writes to Far Off South Africa and Rebecca and Harold and Mrs. A. Mc Figure Prominently.

Friday morning's returned mail from the dead letter office at Washington received at the Omaha postoffice tells another interesting story of where grievous disappointment comes from the carelessness of letter writers.

Several packages of Christmas remembrances that could not be delivered to their intended destination because the senders forgot to address them properly.

One was a letter containing money sent by Mrs. A. Mc. It was addressed with a pathetic letter evidently to a son or daughter in Chicago. Another was a pair of baby's knit shoes sent to Killburg, Sweden. There was no address on the letter, nor no signature to it. This package was detained because of a violation of the customs laws.

But even this infraction of the customs laws might have been overlooked had the letter been addressed to some individual in Scandinavia.

Rebecca Will Wonder, Too.
Rebecca—that was all-will, too, wonder why her friend or relative has not acknowledged the receipt of a money order for a few dollars. There was no postoffice on the envelope, neither was there a name. It was signed "Rebecca."

Harold—nothing more—sent a remittance of several dollars to some one at 406 Fifth avenue, no postoffice. A nice and loving letter of transmittal was sent with the money, but the Omaha postoffice nor the dead letter office has been able to find out who "Harold" is.

Two packages of Christmas gifts were sent to far-off South Africa, one by Mrs. Anna Robinson, and another by Aunt Em. They were pretty pieces of lace work, a couple of lace handkerchiefs, and some Christmas cards. The address on them was illegible and they, too, were an infringement on the parcels post laws, but they were sent to South Africa anyhow, but no one there was able to locate the parties for whom the packages were intended.

William Bookwiler will wonder why the money he sent to a friend or relative never reached the party intended. There was no postoffice indicated on the letter.

Friend Na Getta de Tick.
An Italian who forgot to sign his letter sent a return steamship ticket to a friend or relative in Naples, but it was so poorly addressed that the experts of the dead letter office were unable to make it out, either in Washington or in Naples, Italy.

The maker was indignant. The package was shown him with his letter enclosed, and the cigars were of the "Palmer House" brand.

S.S.S. CURES BLOOD POISON

When the blood becomes infected with the virus of Contagious Blood Poison, the symptoms are soon manifested. The mouth and throat ulcerate, copper-colored spots appear, a red rash breaks out, the hair begins to come out, and usually sores and ulcers show themselves on different parts of the body. At the first sign of the disease S.S.S. should be taken, for the trouble is too powerful and dangerous to trifle with. If allowed to run on the tendency is to work down and attack the bones and nerves, and sometimes it makes a complete physical wreck of the sufferer. The disease can make no such headway if S.S.S. is commenced and used according to directions; its progress can be stopped, the poison removed, and health preserved. S.S.S. goes into the blood and removes the insidious virus, cleanses the circulation and makes a complete and permanent cure by driving out the cause. S.S.S. quickly takes effect on the blood, and gradually the symptoms disappear, the health is improved, the skin cleared of all spots, sores and blemishes, and when S.S.S. has thoroughly purified the circulation no trace of the disease is left. S.S.S., a purely vegetable remedy, cures Contagious Blood Poison because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers, tested and proven for more than forty years. Home treatment book and any medical advice desired free to all who write.

FRISKY YOUNGSTERS OF '49

Just a Lot of Boys Out for Adventure and Some "Dough."
"It makes me laugh," says an old miner, "to see the sort of pictures that artists draw when they want to illustrate a story of early mining days here in California. They make the forty-niners old men, bearded, and wrinkled, and dressed like dime-novel heroes."
"Why, we were just boys, most of us, and trousers patched with four sacks were more common than red sashes and fancy-buited coats. I remember we paid $20 a pair for heavy cowhide boots to wear in the ground sluices—that was before rubber boots came along."
"The oldest man in camp here at Weaverville was short of 20, but we called him the old man, and one of my partners never had any name but Empire Mills, because that was the brand on the flour sack he happened to reuse his breeches with."
"We were just a lot of rip-roaring young farmer boys, turned loose in a country where we expected to shovel up gold like corn at home. We didn't come to California to stay—we didn't think it was a white man's country anyway. Every one of us expected to wash out a peck measure of nuggets and go back home. We used to say that the best thing Uncle Sam could do was to dig out all the gold and give the country back to the Mexicans."
"Some of us had seen lively times getting across the plains. I had walked most of the way myself, and dodged Indians and Mormons—the saints had it in for me and have paid us off in lead if they could have got the chance. I got to California in time to be a forty-niner, and in May of '49 I was camped down below town, on Weaver creek, with three partners.—Out West."

REVOLUTION IN EGG BUSINESS

Far-Sighted Yankee Sees Fortune and Reaches Out for It.
John H. Smith of the police force of South Norwalk, Conn., has a brood of hens which, from a persistent diet of ham clippings and pork rinds, lay eggs which cannot be told from a full fledged breakfast of ham and eggs. The yolks are hard and ham-like in appearance, while the white of the egg has retained its old appearance and taste.
At present the eggs are a trifle too salt, but by a slight application of sugar in their diet, Mr. Smith, who is a poultry fancier of long experience, is bringing his product up to a state of rare perfection. The flavor is perfect, and when boiled or fried the eggs make an ideal breakfast. They can also be eaten raw, when they are said to be delicious.
Smith has a high board fence around his henyard, and all of his experiments are carried on in secrecy. His eggs command fabulous prices, both as food and for sitting purposes, selling readily at 25 cents each. Not satisfied with his ham and eggs, Mr. Smith has started another brood on a diet of cheese with a view to producing eggs that will pass for Welsh rarebits. He is confident that he can so revolutionize the egg business and bring his stock to a variety and perfection that he will be able to supply about any food on an ordinary menu.—New York Press.

Mr. Putoff Shirks a Duty.

"My dear," said Mr. Putoff, as he looked up from his paper, "it is estimated that if a man were relatively as strong as a beetle he could lift 128,000 pounds."
"Is that so?" rejoined Mrs. Putoff, as she glanced at the cat and allowed her left eyelid to drop slowly. "I'll look for a beetle the first thing in the morning."
"Why, dear?" queried the alleged head of the domestic establishment.
"Because I find one," replied Mrs. P. "I may be able to get the range carried into the summer kitchen. I've asked you at least a dozen times to do it, but it still occupies its winter quarters.—Chicago News

The above program of pianoforte music was the medium of communication between Mr. Max Landow, pianist, and his audience Thursday at the First Baptist church.
It would have seemed reasonable to suppose that after the very generous manner in which Mr. Landow has lavished his precious gifts upon the local fellowship of music-lovers, there would have turned out on mass and filled the place where he would expect to play his program and charge an admission fee. They were attended abundantly. The recital last night was attended by the faithful and doubtless by the discriminating as well as by the grateful.
The program was long, but the interest was unabated. Enthusiasm and absorption were the distinguishing features of the subdued and receptive audience. Not an anything approaching restlessness.
The entire evening was given over to two of the great composers. One was Liszt; the Prelate, the Prophet, the Realist. The other Chopin; the Poet, the Mystic, the Idealist.
To the interpretation of these two opposite types of the best in musical composition of their separate kinds, came Mr. Max Landow, who with the master mind and master hand of the artist revealed the thoughts and intents of the greater men who wrote their thoughts in music and built their edifices in enduring tones. The talent of Max Landow amounts at times to the height of unqualified genius. He has technique and skill more than abundant for the most exacting number on his program. But he has also the poesy and the pulse which must go with the technical achievements before one can rank as an artist.
One thinks of Mr. Landow as an emotional lover of valued masterpieces. The aluring and ravishingly tender "Sonnetto de Petrarca" was also a welcome visitor.
Mr. Landow leaves shortly for Europe and will give this program, or almost all of it, in Berlin on October 9.

The Indian has held the center of the stage in every county in Nebraska at some time in its history. The results of our first effort to plant the seed of civilization in savage soil was very disappointing. The Sunday Bee, at some future time, will give an outline of the Indian as to numbers, progress, what he has cost and what he is worth. The Indian school, the Indian reservations of the state and the Pine Ridge Indian reservation joining us on the north.
