FORTUNES IN FRUIT LANDS

Arcadia is a 10,000-acre tract of the finest orchard lands in the northwest, located in Spokane and Stevens counties, Washington. A great irrigation canal has been built through the tract and the land is being planted to apple trees. Arcadia will be operated as a great commercial orchard—the largest in the world. As soon as the trees come to bearing the land will be worth from $1,000 to $3,000 an acre and the fruit yield will be from $300 to $1,500 an acre. The company is capitalized on the basis of $1,000 per acre. Two-fifths of the stock is preferred, issued in shares of $100 each, bearing 4 per cent interest and sharing with the common stock in all the profits of the company. The preferred stock may also be exchanged for land at any time. A limited amount of preferred stock is offered to the public at $50 a share. The investment is based on real estate and is absolutely safe; profits based on fruit yield made certain by irrigation.

FAITH IN GENERAL SCOTT

Letter Written in 1861 Shows How Union Relied on Him.

OMAHA MAN HAS THE EPISTLE

H. L. Chadwick's Father Prophesied that Old Mexican War Veteran Would Lead Federal Troops to Victory.

H. L. Chadwick, 14 Arlington block, Omaha, has a letter dated Washington, May 24, 1861, which was written by his father, Samuel Chadwick, to a friend, E. S. Moore, Three Rivers, Mich., giving him a description of conditions at the seat of government at that time, about the time of the beginning of the civil war, and telling rather impressively of the tragic death of Colonel Ellsworth. Mr. Chadwick was then in the government service at Washington and later was adjutant of the Eleventh Michigan, and still later recruited the Twenty-eighth Michigan after the battle of Chickamagua. His letter reflects the serene confidence in the union army under General Scott, but is not prophetic as to the latter.

Here is the context of the letter:

WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, May 24, 1861.—Hon. E. S. Moore, Three Rivers, Mich. Dear Sir: Thinking that perhaps you would be glad to hear from the "seat of war," I will pen a few of the incidents transpiring in and around the capital of the nation.

These are indeed stirring times. The whole power of the government is engaged to put down this unholy strife. This particular department more than any other is overrun with business. Dispatches are arriving every minute detailing the operation of our own as well as the enemy's army. I am in the chief clerk's room and have charge of the filing and answering of some of the many dispatches received.

A telegraph machine is operating on my table and as one dispatch after another is received, hand it immediately to the secretary of war, who is indefatigable and hard at work from morning till night, and even into the dark hours and till almost daylight, till tired nature demands a respite.

Our army has finally commenced its advance into the enemy's country. Last night about 1 o'clock Colonel Ellsworth, with his "pet lambs," started with four field pieces to take Alexandria, about six miles from here.

Stop! A message comes in with the report that after the surrender of Alexandria a shot was fired from the roof of an adjoining building and that the gallant Colonel Ellsworth was shot dead on the spot. Not a gun was fired in taking the city, as all were quietly reposing. About 2,000 Virginians were taken prisoners and 4,000 stand of arms. This is a great victory, but the fall of Colonel Ellsworth casts a gloom over all. He was a great favorite of all the officers of the government and his loss can't be easily supplied. His men will be avenged to a certainty. General Butler will march on Norfolk immediately. In fact before this reaches you, Unless some things shall happen to the contrary you will have the news by telegraph.

At other points operations will commence and an active campaign be opened. The result, of course, will be victory at every step. General Scott, the gallant old veteran who never made a single military mistake in his life, has arranged this matter with a skill unparalleled, and after all is gained and the glorious Stars and Stripes float again triumphantly over every state in the union, he will go down to his grave with more glory than has ever fallen to the lot of any mortal being.

Such is a brief history of operations here. You get more by telegraph from other parts of the union than we do here, except such as passes through this department, which is secret. This is known to us in the immediate vicinity of the telegraph operator, but time will give it, with all particulars, to the country. I should be glad to hear from you if your time is not too much occupied, and I will post you occasionally as I have time. Yours truly,
S. CHADWICK.

P. S.: If there is anything you think the people would like to see in print, you are at liberty to publish in the Chronicle over the signature of Americus.

Father Discredits Son, Witness for Elmer Thomas

Says His Boy, Backbone of Valley Liquor Case, is Not Strong Mentally.

Valley visitors in county court yesterday—and there were a good many of them—heard a father go on the stand and swear that his son was not worth much mentally. It was J. E. Snodgrass of Valley, who thus testified for the defense in the case of the state against Oscar Talcott, charged with having and keeping liquor for sale.

James Snodgrass, the son, is the head and front of Elmer Thomas' case against Talcott. Peter Sawyer and Joe Loretz. Snodgrass, whose age is in
