To Enforce Daylight Law.

"Enforcement of the daylight saloon law, when it becomes effective in July is one of the chief things the Nebraska Antistime," said S. K. Warrick of Alliance, state president, this afternoon. Mr. Warrick came to Lincoln to attend an advisory meeting of the trustees who constitute the executive board of the league. U. S. Rohrer of Hastings and Frof. A. B. Fairchild of Crete, two of the other trustees, are also here. The meeting was held at the office of J. M. Guile, who is a member of the board.

"In common with other organizations that are working to restrict the liquor traffic," continued Mr. Warrick, "the Anti-traffic," continued Mr. Warrick, "the Anti-Saloon league will focus interests and force the issues along certain lines. We expect to see that the daylight saloon act is enforced to the letter in every part of the state. Omaha and South Omaha will be looked after by the workers there, who will have the assistance of the state organization. County attorneys will be asked to perform their duty in prosecuting offenders against the 8 o'clock closing law, and if they refuse the league will engage will employ its swn attorneys."

Mrs. Morton Given Credit for Arbor Day by Friends

Acquaintances at Nebraska City Say She Observed Husband's Birthday by Planting Trees.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., April 22 Special.)-Arbor day was generally observed today in this city, the home of he father of Arbor day, the late J. Stering Morton. The banks and all public offices were closed and the places of business were closed after dinner. In the schools, which had but a half day's seasion, special Arbor day programs were carried out, and all over the city trees galore were planted. It has always been generally believed that J. Sterling Morton was the of Arbor day, but those author who are conversant with the facts say that such is not the case, but that his wife originated the idea and carried it out while she lived. It was his birth anniversary, and his wife always observed the day by having trees planted and advocated the planting of trees. It was she who folowed up the idea and called to her aid many friends, who likewise advocated the idea. She was a highly educated woman, and as such had many friends all over this as well as other states, and Arbor day was first conceived and celebrated by her. Over her grave is a monument of stone to represent a windstorm, broken tree, which ypifies many phases of her interesting life, It being erected by her sons, during the life of their father. It is one of the handsomest pieces of art in stone to be seen in any part of the country.
