Convicts Will Not Get Work in Tailor Shop

Governor Shallenberge: Declines to Sign Contract Permitting Them to Be Thus Employed.

LINCOLN, Neb., April 28 .- (Special.)-The state will not contract with the St. Louis garment making firm which made a bid for the use of the convicts. The firm desired to install a tailor shop in the Mr. Stewart was superintendent of the state penitentiary and use the convicts Institute for the Deaf and Dumb for a for the manufacture of clothing for laborers. The Board of Public Lands and Buildings thought favorably of the tailor shop idea, believing the state could get much more money for the use of the convicts than it could by letting them out to the broom factory. The clothing firm had already signed the contract agreeing to and advised the authorities at the institute pay from 60 to 85 cents a day for the prisoners and the matter was put up to Governor Shallenberger, who under the law has the final say in the matter.

When the news of the proposed contract was published the various labor unions of the state, together with the manufacturers of laborers' clothing, got busy on the governor to get him to refuse to permit the manufacture of such articles in tract. From his office the following statement was given out this afternoon:

the labor in the fields raising sugar beets, as a healthy and remunerative employment and something that will not in any way affect honest labor. A further objection is that garmentmaking is a line of work that in all free factories is generally performed by women, and male convicts, if taught to perform this labor in the prison, on discharge would not have any trade which would be of value to them in the future. He feels that whatever trade is taught a male convict it should be such work as would find him employment after serving male convict it should be would find him employment after serving would find him employment after serving his term.

The matter of finding employment for the convicts that will keep them healthy and give them the necessary work that discipline demands and at the same time make the prison as self-sustaining as possible is a difficult problem, but Governor Shallenberger sys that he believes it can be solved without reducing the earning capacity of the honest and industrious people of the state who are dependent upon their daily wages for their support.

Railway Commission Finds Where Money Can Be Spent.

Inquiry by Omaha Firm Which in Branch of Larger Institution.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, April 28.-(Special.)-Henry Rohwer of St. Louis and Francis W. Col lins of New York, engineers, spent the day with the railway commission and Governor Shallenberger discussing the physical valuation of railroads in Nebraska under the aw enacted by the recent democratic legislature. Mr. Rohwer is the engineer who built the Missourt Pacific railroad in Nebraska and he also valued the Union Paoffic from Omaha to Lincoln. He was a resident of Omaha from 1869 to 1887.

Mr. Collins came to Lincoln recommended by Engineer Gillette, who valued the railroads of Washington and who offered to do the Nebraska work for $1,000 a month and expenses, providing he had to give only about half his time to the work. He later withdrew his proposition, as he did not have time to attend to the work.

Prof. Cooley, who did the work in Michigan, made a definite proposition to the commission after he had given that body some ideas of how he thought the work should be done. The Michigan work was done in four months and at one time Prof. Cooley had 135 men employed, which shows the possibilities the governor of Nebraska has on building up his political machine.

Money Will Not Go Fac. The railway commission has $40,000 to spend in finding the valuation of railroad property in Nebraska as well as the valuation of other corporations named in the law. It is the intention, however, of the commission to work first on the steam rallroads and it is figured the $40,000 will be exhausted even before the commission reaches the railread of the stock yards, over which there was such a row between Mr. Ransom and the members of the legis-

Other engineers will be here during th week and as soon as possible the commission will double what it wants to do and then it will march across the hall to the governor and ask his consent to do it, for the law leaves the appointment of engineers and he helpers to his excellency, though he has nothing to with the work of the railway commission

This was done.
