CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS

Features of the Trading and Closing Prices on Board of Trade.

CHICAGO, May 3.—Demand by buil leaders had a strengthening effect on the wheat market today. The close, however, was irregular, the December delivery being weak and We lower, while other op-tions were a shade to ic higher, compared with Saturday's final figures. Corn and oats closed steady and provisions steady Traders in the wheat pit were divided in their opinions regarding the situation and as a result the market was nervous elthough during the greater part of the day the sentiment was inclined a tritle to ward the bull side. Buying of the July de livery by a lending bull was one of th eatures of trade and was largely respon sible for the firmness. News of the day was about evenly divided, foreign advices being builtsh and domestic news more fa-vorable to the bears. Foremost among the latter was the official forecast for warmer weather generally throughout the principal wheat growing sections of this country. This had a depressing effect on the distant deliveries and was the principal reason. luth also reported a good demand. A num-ber of crop damage reports were received telling of injury to the growing crop in western Kansas by high winds and insufficient moisture. During the day the July delivery ranged between $1.11% $61.12% and closed at $1.25% $61.12%. May closed at $1.25%, a gain of ic compared with the previous Violent Fluctuations in Reading Due to Commodities Law Decision.

DOWNWARD PLUNGE EARLY

More Careful Rending Shows That Finding Will Have Pavorable Effect and Stock Advences Sharply.

NEW YORK, May 2.—The violent fuctuations in Reading bailed the assumption that the supreme court decision in the commodies clause case would prove without stock market influence in either direction. The market slipped into a condition of stagnation before the announcement of the decision and became almost equally interesting the second of receiving for lion of stagnation before the announcement of the decision and became almost equally lethargic in the period of perplexity following the first report of the scope of the decision.

The sentiment regarding the decision underwent violent mutaltons plainly sadicated in the downward plunge in Reading on the first bold announcement that the provisions of the law were upheid and the violent upshoot which followed when the conviction took shape that while the terms of the law were upheid, the government's contentions regarding its construction against the railreads were disallowed. It was quickly decided that while railroads were disbarred from owning coal which they transported to market, there was no constructed to market, there was no constructed in the same position they are now while in the case of the companies which own the mines directly it has been made an element of strength in the market for their stocks that they were supposed to be making plans to form separate companies to the coal mines with the shares to making plans to form separate companies to own the coal mines, with the shares to be distributed to the railroad stockholders. The extreme range in Reading was from 145% at the lowest to 151% at the highest, the latter figure representing the highest price touched since the boom in the stock in 1905, which culminated in a price of 154 in January of 1806. There were intermediate fluctuations of convuisive violence, which invited the most unbridled speculation by the room traders for whom the sudden changes in the movement of the stock represented pothing but the blindest making plans to form separate companies stock represented nothing but the blindest chance. The Reading movement was the index of the whole merket, but in its most exaggerated terms. No other stock approached it in point of activity or range of movement.

The market gained perceptibly in breadth and strength however, in the later stages of the trading advancing. The disposition of the commodities clause, it was felt, put out of the way a factor that has been overout of the way a factor that has been over-hanging the market with repressive effect for months. The general effect of the de-cision also was regarded as cheering and helpful for property and corporate inter-ests. The natural expression of cheerful-ness by those interests is to put up prices on stocks. The buoyancy and animation of the latter market but out of mind the dull and heavy tone of the early dealings, al-though it is not certain that apprehension regarding the supreme court's action was alone responsible for the early depression. The taking of another million deliars in regarding the supreme court's action was alone responsible for the early depression. The taking of another million dellars in gold bars from the assay office for shipment to Paris tomorrow showed a force of depletion of bank reserves still in operation. The 3 per cent call money rate of last Friday left an expectation of possibly firmer money rates for a day or two. No higher rate than 2 per cent was touched during the day and opinion on money market settled bank into conviction of prolonged case. The promise of extended abundance of money seemed to be the cause of sharp advances in a number of industrial and stocks. United States steel leading with a rise of 2 points to the record price of 11%. The high rate of investment return on these stocks, with a period of industrial expansion promised to add to the security, is offered as a reacon for this movement. The war among the trunk lines over import freight rates and the fear of an unfavorable showing of progress of the crops in the forthcoming government report of condition had some influence on the early heavy tone. The outburst of speculative excitement following the commodities clause decision swept away all other conditions and the market was strong to the last.

he market when once under way was ful steady, and in some cases possibly a little stronger. As a rule salesmen claimed that they were selling in about the same notches as Saturday. On the other hand buyers claimed that, taking quality and everything into account, their ings were costing a little more. The strength seemed to be more on the good butcher loads than on anything else. The top on full loads was no higher than Saturday, $7.20 being paid for pretty decent loads but a piece of a load sold up to $7.25. As far as observed there was nothing very prime on sale. While the market was not especially active, still there was a very fair movement. and everything in sight changed hands i

Neither the advance was so marked nor the demand so active in the wooled department. Only four cars of wooled lambs were on sale, there being practically no ewes, wethers or yearlings. Wooled offerings moved at prices generally strong to 10c higher. The best wooled lambs here which were only fairly good, sold at $8.30. It was generally conceded that a very choice band of Mexicans would bring as high as $8.60 on this morning's market. Receipts in both the wooled and shorn offerings were light, there being only twelve cars in all reported. Toward the latter end of the session trade look on an easier tone, and while there was no perceptible depression in prices, it required a greater effort to effect a movement in the balance of supplies at the advance. Everything, however, was sold in practy good season.

Outer the demand so active in the wooled depart. STRAWBERRIES-$3.00G3.25. HIDES-No.: green. $c; No. 1 cured. $c.

Right after the call the active months sold about 4 to 5 points net lower under includation or realizing by old longs, but intelled the procession in prices it required a greater effort to effect a movement in the balance of supplies at the advance.
